football game on October 11 before 9,000 fans. A special train was run to the Gulf Coast City from Orange for this engagement. On October 14 they were honored in Life Magazine with a feature section story.

Singers—

cided to name them "The Jubilee Singers" from the Biblical references in Leviticus to the year of jubilee, a phrase appearing again and again in the spirituals. With the name the tide turned, and Henry Ward Beecher, then the most popular minister in the country, publicly sponsored their work. Concerts began to pay and soon they had money to send back to the waiting college in Nashville. One of the singers, Ella Sheppard, worded with Theodore F. Seward, the composer, in transcribing the spirituals which had not before been written down. A successful tour of three months followed.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers who will sing at College Station in Guion Hall on Monday evening are direct descendants of that courageous, talented group of musical pioneers.

Poultry Exhibit From A & M Captures 1st Prize in Houston

The poultry which the A. & M. poultry department is exhibiting at the Houston Fall Fair in Houston this week has won the major awards in their classes. The exhibit is composed of Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshires, and Silkies bantams.

The group of New Hampshires won all of the awards in their classes. First young pen, first and champion pullet was won by the Rhode Island Reds. The Silkies won most of the awards in their classes.

From Houston the exhibit will go to Beaumont next week where the poultry will be placed in competition at the Southeast Texas State Fair.
