The Rams are coached by Jim Crowley, one of the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame." He has compiled a record there and he promises that he will put on a great show for the Texans, whether win, lose, or draw.

On the opposing side of the line of scrimmage, coach Homer Norton will present the Easterners with line competition, that held its opponents to a minimum throughout the past season, and backfield men who fell only to the aerial attack of Texas University that threw the block on the Aggies' Rose Bowl drive.

All interest of the sport world will be centered on the Cotton Bowl this year as two of the greatest teams ever to wear shoulder pads and cleated shoes battle it out to see who will come through the season with only one defeat to mar their record.

early for the holidays, there is little danger that sickness will spread. While the influenza had not reached dangerous proportions, the immediate action of the authorities in dismissing school has nipped any possible epidemic in the bud. The matter of chief importance now is that all students should exercise great care that they do not expose themselves to further sickness while going home or during the holidays. The situation at college should be normal by the time classes resume in January.
