programs in larger cities of the and he ran our legs off with that old fungo bat of his. Christianity to us was not an attraction, it was Cashion in action.

"His great humility and extreme modesty impressed me then and that impression has remained with me through life. I heartily agree with Woodrow Wilson in his contention that the word 'noble' denotes an unselfish man who gives always more than he ever expects to receive. This truly typifies Cashion.

"If I were to make a criticism of our present day society it would be that we have lost too much of the moral basis of our lives. If I were to criticize our capitalistic economy I would say that it has lost its moral character and integrity. We need a restoration of the moral principle in our economy to survive. Living men should become living models of citizenship, living symbols of those great virtues of integrity and moral principles.

"Great values are gained only through great sacrifice. A value enjoyed by everyone is a cheap one indeed. It is easy to go along with a crowd, but difficult to swim upstream against the current alone.

Dr. Walton characterized Mr. Cashion as a Christian gentleman of the highest type, and complimented his "imperishable but understanding spirit for those things which are necessary to live life to the fullest. He admonished the students that "you can follow in his footsteps and know your path is upward."

pitching performance was enough to stymie C Cavalry as M Infantry grabbed a 12 to 2 decision. Hughes of the Cavalry accounted for the lone hit off Hearne in the final inning.

Most of the other softball tilts proved to be of the free hitting variety, with two or three going extra frames. G Field Artillery pounded 5 runs across the plate in the eighth stanza to give them a 20 to 18 win over 1 Field Artillery. D Field Artillery duplicated the feat by squeezing out a win over A Engineers. In the other high scoring tilt, E Field Artillery blasted F Infantry, 20 to 4.

Speedball playoffs have already begun, with some top-heavy scores being recorded. In a feature tilt, 5th Corps Headquarters "eked" out a 20 to 0 victory over D Cavalry after a close and hard-fought tilt. Aided by "Miss Lady Luck" and the rough tactics of "Soup" Odgee and Dick Ross, they finally rode out to victory. Oh, yes! Bill Mitchell and Herbert "Rough-house" Huffman were around, too.

B Field Artillery advanced to the quarter-finals by liquidating F Engineers to the tune of 8 to 1. In other games on the speedball field, H Coast ran over 4th Corps Hdq., 16 to 5, F Field Artillery shaded B Coast, 6 to 5, and D Coast overwhelmed L Infantry, 12 to 1. His imprint is deep in the hearts and minds of those young men with whom he has come in contact."

state, but this Town Hall program will be the first time that they have been presented to the corps and local citizens for a full length performance.
