

Bryan Dokey Club Presents Carnival; Week-Long Show Is Just Good Clean Fun

The Bryan Dokey Club composed of local men in the business and professional world opened their first annual spring carnival Monday night on the old circus grounds just off the new Main street connection with the old college road, and the big crowds that have been in attendance the first three nights attest the fact that it is one of the best carnivals to play Bryan in a number of years. At promptly 6:30 each night the colorful lights of the big midway are turned on and the fun and amusement begins. This show will continue here each night this week.

The Dokey officials were assured that the Greater United Shows is run by Texas showmen of good record in their home town, Laredo, where this carnival has been the feature attraction during the Washington's Birthday celebration for the past 17 years.

With many shows and riding devices new to Bryan and special events for the Aggies, the youngsters of the community and their parents the public is sure to have a good time

"Music from the Heart" Describes Last Town Hall Given by the Singing Cadets

Audience Wild Over Singing Cadets; Want Command Performance

Such enthusiasm was exhibited over last Monday's Town Hall presentation of the Singing Cadets that the group has been asked to give a "command" performance. "Music felt rather than heard has impressed faculty and students alike," Town Hall Manager Paul Haines announced, "to such an extent that this group will be requested to give another program at a later date."

The exact date for this repeat performance, though not definitely set, has been tentatively considered for the night of Thursday, May 1.

The past week's program was the first time the club had attempted a concert program at the school. It has played for numerous events and entertainments locally, but until last Monday the group had never presented a formal concert here.

ME Instructor and 2 Ex-Students Are Called For Service

Reserve officers James Roy Jackson, S. J. Marek, and John O. Pasco have been called to extended active duty, effective April 19, 1941, at Camp Wallace at Hitchcock, Texas, where they will be stationed with the 54th Coast Artillery (155mm guns).

Pasco, an instructor in the M. E. Department, now living in College Station, edited "Fish Sergeant", a book released sometime ago telling of the life of an A. & M. freshman.

S. J. Marek, an A. & M. graduate of the class of 1939 of Brenham, was Cadet Captain of the Field Artillery Band in his senior year here.

Jackson of Montgomery, is also an ex-student of A. & M., having graduated with the class of 1936.

McElwrath, C FA Is Latest Aggie to Take the Fatal Step

David McElwrath, C Battery Field Artillery senior is the latest addition to Aggie husbands. He married Miss Essie Elizabeth Slaughter of Corsicana and Baylor University Monday evening in the Baptist church of Corsicana.

A number of those present were Aggies and they included Clyde Lilly, best man, Billy Clarkson, Harry Ezell, G. D. Anderson and William A. Becker, groomsmen.

Mr. and Mrs. McElwrath will reside in College Station until McElwrath graduates in June.

The bride and groom left shortly after the wedding for a ten-day trip.

Is First Formal Concert Presented Locally by Group

Music from the heart that reached the hearts of the audience came from the stage of Guion hall last Monday night when the Singing Cadets appeared in concert as a presentation of Town Hall.

Their first formal appearance before the cadet corps, the Singing Cadets, presented a program of familiar and stirring music for which they are fast amassing a reputation. The group has sung for numerous entertainments and events on the campus in the few years of its organization as such, but until Monday night the group had never given a concert-length program on the campus. The enthusiastic reception at this program insures numerous future engagements.

Making no pretext at displaying a fine array of trained voices and polished choral numbers of a classical nature, the club gave a light concert of familiar music. Composed of men who sing for the love of singing, the club makes the listeners feel rather than hear their music. Rousing military songs which make the listener want to get up and join the parade and march, rhythmical popular pieces creating the urge to dance or pat the feet, folk songs of this country and others to which the listener cannot but hum or whistle to himself, religious music to grip the heart—all this is the program the cadets presented.

Director of the group since its beginning four years ago is J. J. Woolket of the modern languages department. C. W. Zahn is the club president, and the accompanist for the group is Marion Lyle.

The program as presented was as follows: "Away Down South" by George Perfection; "Fair Land of Freedom" by Gustav Klemm; "Stouthearted Men" by Sigmund Romberg; "The Drum" by Archer Gibson; "Marines Hymn" by L. Z. Phillips; "Dance My Comrades" by Richard Bennett; "Adramus te, Christe" by W. J. Marsh; "The Creation" by Willie Richter; two accordion solos, "In the Mood" and "Liebestraum" rendered by Pat Patterson; at this point intermission.

The last half of the program consisted of the following: "Cielito Lindo," solo rendered by Gabino Fajardo; another solo, "La Cucaracha" sung by Xavier Fernandez; a group of Spanish songs sung by Gustave Carlsen, O. J. Erlund, Gabina Fajardo, Xavier Fernandez and Miguel Soto; another group of songs by a barbershop octet, Barney Martin, Gib Michalk, Henry Maas, J. O. Bartlett, L. C. Salm, G. A. Adams, Lloyd Bailey and Reynolds Smith; a novelty, "The Mosquito"; "God Bless America" by Irving Berlin; "The Spirit of Aggieland" by Lieut. Col. Richard J. Dunn; and as a finale, Woolket's own arrangement of "Taps."

Singing Cadets Plan To Make Annual Spring Tour in About 2 Weeks

Two dances in a three day tour will feature the annual spring tour that the Singing Cadets will make in about two weeks.

On the tour the club will present programs to high schools and A. & M. Ex-Student clubs in several towns over the state, among which are included Palestine, Tyler, Dallas and Ft. Worth. Chartered for the trip are three busses which will be used to transport some 90 members who will make the trip.

It was thought that arrangements might be made to include T.S.C.W. in the trip, but no date could be arranged because the auditorium was already scheduled for use on the dates of the trip.

Unless business takes him to Austin, President Walton will accompany the Singing Cadets on their tour as far as Tyler.

The club will be given dances in Tyler at the country club and also at Dallas presented them by the Elks.

Fred Jones Named ASAE Chairman of Southwest Sector

Fred R. Jones, head of the department of agricultural engineering of Texas A. & M. College was named chairman of the Southwest Section, American Society of Agricultural Engineers in his annual Easter meeting of the group held in Dallas April 11-12 at the Baker Hotel.

The next meeting of the group will be held at Texarkana. Other officers chosen were Howard Matson of the Soil Conservation Service, Fort Worth, vice-chairman; and E. B. Doran, head of the Louisiana State University department of agricultural engineering, Baton Rouge, secretary.

At the banquet session of the group, Mrs. Daniels Scoates of College Station, whose late husband formerly headed the A. & M. agricultural engineering department, was honored by being seated at the speakers' table. Her son, W. D. Scoates of the U. S. Rural Electrification Administration spoke on irrigation pumping with electric power at the Saturday forenoon session.

Others of the College Station agencies who had parts in the program were M. R. Bentley, extension agricultural engineer; P. T. Montfort, A. & M. rural electrician.

Baker Leads Second Seminar On South America

C. L. Baker, head of the department of Geology, lead a discussion on the Wealth and Poverty of South America last night in the Chemistry Lecture Room. This was the second discussion meeting held by the Seminar on South American Relationships.

Dr. Baker has spent a great deal of time in South American countries making geological explorations and talked on the natural resources in this continent. He also discussed the large industries that are now being built up in South America and stressed the importance of their having large industrial centers in the event of invasion of this country or South America by some outside power.

There will be two more meetings of the Seminar on South American Relationships to be held on April 28 and May 12. This will complete the series of seminars. The next meeting will be under the direction of G. W. Schesselman, professor of agricultural economics and will deal with the trade and economic situation in the Latin American countries. The last meeting will be under the guidance of Professor J. J. Woolket of the modern language department and will explain the cultural situation in South America.
