Today Is Deadline For Dance Favors

Al Donahue To Play Banquet And Ring Dance Friday

With today as the deadline for ordering favors for the senior ring dance and final arrangements rounding into shape, intense interest begins to develop for this weekend's affair. Al Donahue and his orchestra, the music makers for the dance, brings his organization to the campus to play for the banquet and for the ball as well as for the corps dance the following night.

It has been announced by class president, Tom Richey, that favors for the ring dance may be bought in the rotunda of the Academic building for the last time today from 1 to 5:30 p. m. Tickets may be bought there or from the organization commanders.

This year in order to accommodate the large class, two rings will be used for the customary ring ceremony. Each senior takes his girl through the ring where she removes his ring, turns it around and then kisses him. Last year the procedure occupied so much time that the dance was delayed. The extra ring has been constructed in order that such an event will not be repeated.

Visitors may not attend the banquet without proper invitation, but

Latin-American Conference Will Convene Next Week

The Conference on Latin-American Relations for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at A. & M. on May 12, 13 and 14. The registration and all meetings, except the evening lectures, will be held in the Reception Room of Sbis Hall. The evening meetings will be held in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

The conference is to be conducted under the sponsorship of the Fourth District of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, with the Campus Study Club of College Station as hostess club. The Conference is open, however, to women of the entire state, regardless of club affiliations.

On Monday, May 12, the program will consist of talks concerning the "Racial and Cultural Background of Latin-America." Short talks will be given by J. J. Woolket, professor of modern language, and Xavier Fernandez of Peru, student at A. & M. In addition to the speakers, colored lantern slides will be shown by Daniel Comijo of Venezuela, A. & M. student, and C. J. Finney, professor of architecture. Following the slides, Latin-American music will be furnished by Latin-American A. & M. students Miguel Soto of Porto Rico, Xavier Fernandez of Peru, Gabino Fajardo of Peru and Gustavo Carlson of Peru.

The program for Tuesday, May 13, will consist of lectures by Dr. A. B. Nelson, professor of history, V. K. Sugareff, professor of history, and Dr. S. R. Gammon, head of the history department. During the evening sessions Dr. Fred H. Arnold, associate professor of agricultural economics, and John C. Patterson, Washington, D. C., enter-American relations specialist, will give talks. In the middle of the afternoon a tea will be given with music by the "Singing Cadets."

On Wednesday morning, May 14, T. L. Evans, Houston, manager of the Foreign Trade Department of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, and Hon. Luis L. Duplan, Houston, Consul from Mexico, will deliver lectures.

King Cotton, James T. Anderson of Garland and Queen Cotton, Connie Lindley of Fort Worth, left, have taken their seat on the throne after the crowning of the queen during A. & M.'s tenth annual Cotton Pageant and Style Show which was held in the DeWane Field House last Friday night. Miss Lindley is a freshman student at the Texas State College for Women.

A. & M. during the school year of 1933-34 and the first semester of 1934-35. He took industrial education during the time he was here. When he decided for the priesthood, he enrolled at St. Mary's University.

On a return visit, May 25, Father Schanzer will say Mass in St. Mary's Chapel. His first Solemn Mass will be in Hitchcock, May 18.

Engineer's Day Plans Being Rushed On To Completion

With A. & M.'s twelfth annual Engineers Day less than a week away, all engineering students and departments are rushing final plans for the occasion to completion in anticipation of a record attendance Saturday.

As in the past all engineering departments will combine their talents to show the many visitors who will be here a representative picture of the college's engineering training.

Departments which are planning to have exhibits include the following: architecture, architectural engineering, chemical engineering, civil engineering, electrical engineering, industrial engineering, mechanical engineering, petroleum engineering, aeronautical engineering and various units of the military science department.

Already signs of the coming occasion are evident as the huge sign atop the radio tower on the Electrical Engineering building has taken shape during the past few days. This sign which is illuminated at night serves as a distinctive forecast for Engineer's Day.

The Student Engineer's Council, which sponsors the event, consists of the Architectural Society, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Petroleum Engineering Club, Institute of Aeronautical Engineers and American Institute of Military Engineers.

Benton Elliott of Dallas, senior in petroleum, is president of the council.

Aggieland Honors Mothers at Celebration Sunday

ROA to Hold Annual Reserve Program May 21

The Brazos County Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association in cooperation with the Texas State Department, R. O. A., will hold the annual Reserve Day program on May 21 for the benefit of the senior R. O. T. C. students who will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Reserve Corps upon graduation.

The program this year will be held in the banquet room of Sbis Hall immediately after supper and will be in the form of a stag smoker. Col. C. L. Mitchell, Chief of Staff, First Military Area, San Antonio, will be the principal speaker and he will be accompanied by members of his staff for each of the various branches of service. Officers of the Texas State R. O. A. Department and many out of town reserve officers are expected to be present.

The purpose of the program this year is to acquaint the senior students with the regular officers of their respective units and to strengthen the fellowship between the regular army officers, reserve officers and the "embryo" officers. It is expected that Col. Mitchell will have on hand the latest information concerning active duty. In-

Fun and Laughter Reign at Engineers' Musical Comedy

Fun and laughter promises to run rampant in Guion Hall next Saturday night when the Student Engineering Council will sponsor its first musical comedy review.

The program will be presented for the benefit of the school of engineering and will include a contribution from each of its seven departments.

The chemical engineers are scheduled to hit a new high in spectacular phenomenon when they transform a dog into a cat. The civil engineers will offer a skit depicting a day in the fields wherein the unsuspecting engineer runs into the farmer's daughter and complications set in. Aggieland will get its first taste of a strip-tease when the aeronautical engineers present their share of the show.

The Student Engineering Council has promised a full hour and a half of fun and laughter in the review. The climax of the unprecedented show is expected when Dean Gibb Gilchrist of the school of engineering drops his text-books and picks up his guitar to entertain.

Music by the Aggieland orchestra and a musical interlude by the Singing Cadets at the half intermission will round out the program.

Program Actually Begins Saturday With All-Day Reception of Parents and Guests

Six thousand Aggies will show appreciation to 6,000 mothers Sunday, as the nation observes Mother's Day. The A. & M. program actually begins Saturday with an all day reception of parents and guests by the faculty, senior class and student body.

Saturday morning at 9 the all-day Engineer's show begins. Then at 10 there is a meeting of the A. & M. Mother's Clubs in Sbis Hall. During the afternoon, from 2 till 5 o'clock, the Brazos County A. & M. Mothers' club is having a tea honoring all visiting parents in the Y.M.C.A. lobby. At 6:30 there will be an Engineers' Musical Show. Dr. and Mrs. T. O. Walton together with the senior class will then give the parents an opportunity to meet the deans, directors and teaching staff of the college at a reception at their home. The final event of the day will be the Engineers' Day Dance in Sbis Hall from 9:00 until 12:00.

The big day of celebration begins at 8:30 Sunday morning with the pinning of flowers on the cadets in preparation for the dismounted review at 10:00. Following the review there will be a program on Kyle Field honoring the mothers and fathers. At noon there will be a picnic lunch also at Kyle Field. Then at 1:30 all the dormitories, except those vacated for guests, will open for inspection. From 2:30 until 3:30 the Ross Volunteers' exhibition drill will be held on the drill field. To finish the day's program a concert by the A. & M. Concert Band will be given at 3:30.

Dormitory accommodations may be made for the parents through their sons.

Three S M A Men Confer Here With Extensioners

Three representatives of the Surplus Marketing Administration who have been designated to help Texas merchants understand operation of the cotton stamp phases of the AAA's 1941 supplementary cotton program have been on the campus for the past four days for conferences with Extension Service and Triple-A workers.

The three, William L. White of Oklahoma City, John C. Stubbs and J. H. Holland of San Francisco, California, plan to travel through the different districts of Texas to assist the district agents in explaining the program to the County Land Use Planning Committees.

During their stay on the campus the SMA representatives are making their headquarters at the Extension Service building.
