quet may be obtained until the time of the dance for $1.85.

Arrangements have been made with Lou Breese and his orchestra to furnish music for the banquet and for the following dance. Breese is currently playing at the Chez Paree in Chicago where he is completing a nine-month engagement. Included in Lou Breese's past engagements are both World's Fairs, Glen Island Casino, and more recently at Frank Dailey's Meadowbrook in New Jersey. Breese's orchestra, with his two vocalists feature a "Breezy Rhythm" which gained distinction over several of the older "name" bands at the nation's larger dance spots.

During one of his former visits here he attended the Cavalry Ball and, as many visitors do on jaunts to A. & M., ate in the mess hall, after which he commented, "You certainly have good chow." From a man who eats on board ships, that may be something.

Dr. Patterson—

"The Latin Americans are naturally skeptical of the good neighbor policy of President Roosevelt because of their unfortunate experience with the United States in the last World War," said Dr. Patterson. "We must do everything in our power to show that our good neighbor policy is going to last for more than merely the duration of the crisis that we are experiencing today."

"There is no need for us to continue the 'good will' tours as they have been conducted in the past; the thing that the South American people want from us is a sympathetic understanding of their problems, which are also our problems."

One of the chief reasons for the strained relations that exist in our country is because of the attitude of the Texans toward the Mexicans who come to this country. The "No Mexicans Served Here" signs that abound in this state do not have a tendency to promote the good will of our southern neighbors. Dr. Patterson was emphatic in the point that Texas has one of the greatest roles to play in the fostering of better relations between the two Americas.

The meeting was started by the

Soils Classing Course Offered At Summer Session

The agronomy department will offer a three hour course in soil classification and mapping under E. A. Norton from July 21 to August 9, Dr. Ide P. Trotter announced yesterday.

Norton, a graduate of the University of Illinois and formerly Assistant Chief of Soil Surveys in Illinois, is now chief of the physical surveys division of the Soils Conservation Service. He is therefore able to bring to this subject a full knowledge of the details and fundamentals of soil classification and mapping together with a careful appraisal of the value and use of such information in a national program designed to conserve our land.

There will be a certain number of field trips in the course which, with cooperative expenses, will cost each man about $5.

The following applicants have been approved for commissions in the Quartermaster Corps: Frank B. Adams, James H. Allen Jr., James Leslie Balck, Melvin Ray Callihan, Rueben T. Caperton, J. H.
