of Swiss flag throwing which is now becoming popular in this country.

You have never heard real Swiss yodeling until you have heard these boys reproduce the famous Alpine Echo Yodeling Song.

You will want to return to the Assembly Hall to hear the program of the Deep River Singers. All the members of this company were in the Chicago run of the original production of "The Swing Mikado" which was sensationally successful and ran for two years in Chicago and later in New York, finally touring the country.

John Burdette, famous bass baritone soloist of The Deep River Singers, also appeared in the stage production "Run Little Chillun" in New York, and "O Say Can You Sing?" in Chicago. Winner of the first prize in 1930 in the Chicago-Land Music Festivals contest, Burdette has been the only winner to have the honor to appear at the Soldiers Field in Chicago every year at this great event sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The Chicago critics said: "John Burdette thrilled the Festival audience into a volcano of enthusiasm with his performance of 'Old Man River', 'Wagon Wheels,' and 'Sylvia.' Burdette was also presented daily through the events department at a Century of Progress exposition in Chicago for two years.

The Deep River Singers have concertized over America for the past two years, and during the past year have broken every precedent by having special floor show productions built around them at the exclusive Edgewater Beach Hotel and the Famous Chez Paree in Chicago. The quartet has been featured over the National Broadcasting and Columbia and Mutual Networks.

The varied program of the Deep River Singers includes the well-loved spirituals and work-songs and ballads in the Plantation Scene, followed by a group of classical songs and arias in formal attire, musical arrangement for this was arranged for the Deep River Singers by the original arranger for the original "Swing Mikado." The brilliant, colorful and amusing costumes which they wear in this part of the program were also designed and made by the designer and costumer who costumed the original "Swing Mikado" company,—John Pratt.

This is the only concert company in America giving such a diversified program and featuring a costumed production of the "Swing Mikado.

The program of the Deep River Singers is divided into five different parts each featuring various members of the troop. The first part will be the plantation scene where eight numbers will be sung. These will begin with "Swing Along Chillun", written by Cook and continue with "Workin' On the Railroad", a work song, "Po 'O' Lamb" by Parks, "Shortnin Bread" by Guion, "The Lonesome Road, featuring Ben Wailes by Guion, "Who Built the Ark", a traditional Negro folk song, "Lil' Liza" by Dunbar, "Wagon Wheels" featuring John Burdette and written by Hill will complete the introductory part of the program.

The program will continue with "Drink To Me Only" by Parks, and an aria featuring Merton Smith which is to be selected. Other numbers featured in this part of the program will be "Sonna Will Be Done" by Dawson, and "Don Don Buddie" by Williams, featuring John Burdette basso.

Spirituals will also be included in the program. They will be "Swing Low Sweet Chariot", "Roll Jordan Roll", "De Ol' Ark's A-moverin'" and "Joshua Fit the Battle."

Mary Robinson then contributes to the entertainment with a piano solo by Medley.

The concluding part of the program will be made up of selections from "The Swing Mikado" by Sullivan and will feature special arrangements and costumes from the original production.

These entertainment features are not to be confused with The Deep River Plantation Singers or the Swiss Yodelers who appeared on the summer entertainment series here during the first six weeks of the summer session. The Deep River Singers are not the Deep River Plantation Singers although the name might seem familiar as each is an entirely and different organization featuring a similar but at the same time different program for the students here at A. & M. College.

Distractions—

with several good shows to liven up things. The top laurels go either to "Blood and Sand" or "Strawberry Blonde", depending on the individual taste for a light or heavy show.

"Strawberry Blonde" which is showing Wednesday and Thursday is a show that will certainly provide a good evening's entertainment. Jimmy Cagney is at his best in a part that seems to fit his talents like a pair of hand-made boots. Backed with such top-notch support as Olivia de Havilland and Rita Hayworth and a dialogue pepped up by such remarks as "Ain't sh esome fudge, though?" and "Oh you kid", anyone who likes good comedy with a few tears mixed in won't go wrong with this.

Showing with "Strawberry Blonde" as double feature is another Ellery Queen mystery which is different from the rest of the series only in name and landmarks; the rest is the same old stuff.

Appearing at the prevue Saturday night, Sunday and Monday is one of the best "heavy" shows that has been circulated in some time—"Blood and Sand." It has some very good acting in with Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth taking the top honors.

The show concerns the rise of a young matador, Juan, played by Tyrone Power, who becomes the foremost matador of Spain. At the height of his popularity his inevitable downfall is brought about by the tantalizing Rita Hayworth.

It is well filmed in technicolor, showing to advantage the gay colors and costumes used in the Spain of several hundred years ago, and is well suited to show to advantage the beauty of Rita Hayworth, Linda Darnell, and the thrilling bull fights.

Showing at the Campus Friday and Saturday is a double feature with "Model Wife," starring Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, taking the main spot, and "Colorado" with Roy Rogers, as the fill-in. "Model Wife" is a fairly amusing picture with a slight twist to an otherwise commonly used comedy plot. It concerns the attempts of a man and wife, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, to keep their marriage a secret in order to keep from losing their jobs at a dress shop where they work, for a hard-hearted old woman. Everything, naturally, goes wrong until the old woman has a change of heart and, after seeing the error of her ways, proceeds to set things right. Its a fair show if you have nothing else to do.
