The two murals flanking the entrance to the research reading room of the library represent the agricultural and mechanical sides of the college.

The first student publication was The Journal, which appeared only once during the year 1893.

US to Offer Radio Mechanic Technician Jobs

Civil Service To Hold Examinations For Technical Defense Jobs

Recently the Civil Service Commission advertised the need for radio technicians. The examination is now announced under the title of Radio Mechanic-Technician. Persons interested in this work who have not already filed their applications, are urged to apply at once. The jobs pay from $1,440 to $2,300 a year. Full-time paid experience in technical radio work or the completion of appropriate study in radio is required. Applications will be rated at the Commission's Washington office as soon as practicable after receipt until November 6, 1941.

The salaries for these positions range from $1,440 to $2,000 a year. For the lower grades, the optional branches are radio, explosives, chemistry, physics, metallurgy, and fuels; for the senior grade, radio and explosives only. Applicants must have had high-school study unless they can substitute for this requirement technical experience in addition to that prescribed for each grade. Paid technical or scientific experience is also necessary. Persons who have completed appropriate defense training courses or college study may substitute this study for a part, or—where appropriate—all, of the prescribed experience. Applications will be accepted until June 30, 1942.

Full information as to the requirements for these examinations, and application forms, may be obtained from College Station or Bryan Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at the post office or customhouse in Bryan, or from the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at any first- or second-class post office.

Defense Crisis Calls Attention To American Dental Health Problem

(By The State Health Dept.)

"Nothing in recent years has more graphically called attention to the seriousness of the American dental health problem than the present defense crisis," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The figures of the National Draft Board show that dental defects rank first as cause for rejection of draftees. Nineteen and one-half per cent of young men examined at army induction centers are rejected because of dental defects.

"These figures reveal the inadequacy of our dental health programs during the past generation and the public's inertia toward this vital phase of health. If this problem of dental health is to be solved, it must be done as its source, which is the child.

"From surveys made by the United States Public Health Service, of two million school children throughout the United States, it is estimated that approximately ninety per cent of our elementary school population are in need of dental care. To solve this problem the public must be aroused to the gravity of the status of dental health and its effect on general health. This should be accompanied by an intelligent, effective dental health program in our schools, impressing both child and parent with the importance of dental health.

"Since the health of the community is a community problem, the aid of all civic and welfare organizations in the community should be enlisted to carry out the program of dental health.

LSU Offers Course In Military German

A language course in military German is offered military students at Louisiana State university for the first time this year.

Dr. Robert T. Clark, acting head of L. S. U.'s department of Germanic languages, expresses belief cadets in the university's reserve officers training corps will find the instruction useful as a means of studying official German military reports.

Maybe there is something to thank Adolf H. and his playmates for, after all. This fall, for the first time since John W. (Bet a Millon) Gates founded the school in 1909, Port Arthur (Texas) college is permitting co-eds to attend classes barelegged.

Because of government-confiscated silk supplies, college authorities decided to rescind the traditional ruling that campus legs must be covered.

Incidentally, co-eds in the "Shed

Silk for Uncle Sam club at the University of Minnesota, believe theirs was the first of its kind to be organized. Purpose of the club is to convince campus women that the army needs parachutes worse than girls need silk stockings.

The SSUSC's nine "charter martyrs" have pledged themselves to "get along with bare legs and, if necessary, go barelegged in the interests of defense."
