band and formed the letters A. & I. and A. & M., playing the school song of the schools with the formations. The formation that followed was the most impressive part of the entire evening. Facing the west stands, the Aggie band formed the letters U. S. and were led by Col. Richard J. Dunn in his famed arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner." It was an awe-inspiring sight as the 17,000 spectators stood in salute as the national anthem was played.

Immediately before leaving the field the A. & M. band moved to a position directly in front of the corps and played the "Spirit of Aggieland."

After the game the Aggies scattered to various parts of San Antonio for a victory celebration which lasted far into the night. In general, the Aggie trip was a glorious success and the corps is looking forward to the journey to San Antonio next year where the team will play Washington State.

The music room in the Cushing Memorial Library will reopen as soon as a filter condenser for the phonograph can be obtained, it was announced by T. F. Mayo, librarian.

tradition will go under the axe soon.

So They're Going

What we are about to say needs no comment.

We picked up the September issue of the Texas Ranger, student mag at T. U., the other day and sprawled on a two page layout midway through the book was an article bearing the title, CALIFORNIA, HERE WE COME.

At the top of the page was a picture of Pete Layden, Jack Crain, and Coach D. X. Bible, the three All-Americans!

The following excerpt was taken from the article: "The Longhorns will go the season undefeated. They will beat the damagies at Kyle Field and win the Southwest Conference championship. Then, because it will be the only thing the Californians can do, Texas will get the Rose Bowl bid."

All of that is well and good... But we remember when the Rice Owls were on their way to the Rose Bowl in September, 1938... and they didn't have to face the Aggies on Kyle Field on Thanksgiving Day, either.

ASAE Picnic Has Fish As Honor Guests

Freshmen came into their own at the annual picnic of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at Hensel Field Thursday afternoon as the fish were honor-guests at the feast.

The purpose of the annual picnic is to bring the freshmen and upperclassmen into contact with each other so that the organization can function as a unit as soon as possible.

About 75 agricultural engineering majors attended the get-together and played baseball and football before the feast. Transportation was arranged by the agricultural engineering department.

A H Department Lists Stock Owned By A & M College

The animal husbandry department recently announced the total number of horses and mules owned by the college in response to a request from the Horse and Mule Association of America.

Of the 20 head of pure-bred stock there are 15 Percheron mares, 4 Percheron stallions, and 1 Suffolk stallion. The college also owns 57 work mules, 22 American Saddle Horses, 13 head of grade horses for work stock and 24 head of veterinary stock.

The AH department believes that this total of 136 horses is the greatest number of horses owned by any other college.

AGGIES LEAVE

great part of his glee was also caused by the grand display of all the centers. Not one fumble occurred in the backfield, with Sibley, Holder Mercer and Cotton Williams doing a great job in snapping the ball.

Their defense work was great, too, with Williams coming through with three interceptions of A. & I. aerials. One of the interceptions, however, was nullified by an Aggie penalty.

An odd part of the game came in the final period when Felix Bucek broke through to block Gilbert Steinke's kick and covered it in the end zone.

From all appearances it seemed that the Aggies had a score, but Bucek had one foot out of the zone, which caused the officials to give the cadets only two points. Steinke DID NOT step out of the end zone as previously reported by a number of papers.

The Aggies came out of the San Antonio fray without any serious injuries. Leo Daniels suffered a slightly bruised knee and Les Richardson was still seen hobbling around yesterday afternoon, but both suited up yesterday and are expected to be in top shape by Saturday. Richardson had a bum knee last Saturday before the game, causing him to give way to Weldon Maples, who, by the way, played a grand game.

State Health Officer Warns Against Trench Mouth Disease

"The soft tissues of the mouth require as careful watching as the teeth, to keep them in a healthy condition," according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"One of the more common diseases to which these soft tissues are subject is a germ known as 'Vincent's infection' also called 'trench mouth' from the fact that it was very prevalent among soldiers in crowded camps and trenches during the World War. These two names are given to the disease when it affects the gums and supporting structures of the teeth; sometimes it affects the throat and tonsils, in which case it is called 'Vincent's angina.'

"One peculiarity of the germs that cause 'trench mouth' and Vincent's angina' is that they may live and thrive in the absence of oxygen. They enter the mouth and become fixed between the teeth, under the gum margin and beneath the margins of fillings and crowns. They grow in and about decayed teeth. They are more likely to be active and cause the disease to develop in mouths that are not kept clean and not well cared for than in clean, healthy mouths.

"The infection may be picked up through the use of common drinking cups, dishes or cooking utensils that have not been thoroughly cleaned, through drinking from insanitary fountains and in other ways. It can be spread to others, just as colds are, through coughing and sneezing.

"The disease is highly contagious and spreads very easily from person to person. It is characterized by bleeding and sore gums, and finally by ulcers in the soft tissues. In acute form the infection is painful and causes great discomfort. In extreme cases the infection may spread through the entire system with very serious results.

"Of course, not all bleeding or

Modern Choir—all girls—will invade Aggieland and take over Town Hall for the evening. Quentin Reynolds, international correspondent and news commentator, will appear on February 23, with a lecture.

Aggies remember the popularity of the ballet as presented by Catherine Littlefield and her troop; so the troop of Anges DeMille will come to Town Hall on March 5. Following Agnes DeMille, on April 7, A. & M.'s own Singing Cadets will present a concert.

Sometime in May, another swing session similar to the one presented by Duke Ellington last year before the Infantry Ball, will be given. The exact date and the name of the orchestra to be presented has not yet been disclosed, but Fred Smitham has assured us that it will be a "darned good one."
