avalanche to retain the No. one spot of the nation's football teams. Michigan jumped to No. 2 by downing Northwestern 14-7 in a hair-raiser which the System predicted as the hardest game of the week and likely to go either way—although we leaned to Northwestern.

Craziest upset of the week was Maryland nosing out Florida 13-12. Running a close second for the dunce-cap special was L. S. U. blanking Rice 27-0. However Rice was minus some of the stars who played in the 10-9 defeat of Tulane the previous week at Houston.

Texas Military Forces Get New Roads

These pictures, taken from the identical spot six months apart, illustrate graphically how WPA workers transformed a muddy and virtually impassable access road to Camp Wallace, Galveston County, into a high speed and durable concrete highway. In Texas WPA has built and improved 1,423 miles of roads classified by the War Department as of strategic military importance.

YMCA Branches Have Been Available to Men In United States Armed Forces Since Civil War Days

The Y. M. C. A. has been serving members of America's armed forces since the Civil War, officials recalled here today, as the 1,300 Y. M. C. A.s in the United States prepared to celebrate the ninety-seventh anniversary of the founding of the association.

Within a few months after the Civil War began, a Y. M. C. A. army committee known as the Christian Commission was appointed to work among soldiers.

Again during the Spanish-American War the Y. M. C. A. extended a helping hand to over 250,000 American soldiers and sailors.

After the close of the Spanish-American War, officers and men urged the Y. M. C. A. to organize a permanent department to serve members of the Army and Navy. This was done, and in 1898 the first permanent Army and Navy Branch was established.

During the World War the Y. M. C. A., according to General Pershing, conducted nine-tenths of the civilian work among the American forces in Europe. In addition, the association aided some 19,000,000 soldiers of the Allied Armies plus over 5,000,000 prisoners of war.

The Y. M. C. A. is carrying on today in the spirit that has characterized its service to America's defenders in the past. It now has 101 branches devoted exclusively to serving members of the American Army and Navy. This service is being expanded as rapidly as possible. Many civilian Y. M. C. A.s have greatly extended their program to serve young men working in America's defense industries. Working conditions of many of these young men prevent their enjoyment of normal, youthful recreation. This is due to the odd hours in which they work or the fact that big factories have sprung up in towns not equipped to handle the sudden influx of young men.

It was under somewhat similar conditions that the Young Men's Christian Association had its inception in a small room in a drapery shop in London. George Williams, a young clerk of nineteen, and eleven of his friends among the clerks who lodged in that business house, met and organized a club so that they might help each other and put into active practice the Christian principles in which they believed.

For three years, groups of young men met in Williams' room for prayers and Bible study. They had formed a Mutual Improvement Society and a Young Men's Missionary Society.

In 1844, George Williams and his small group of friends formed what they agreed to call the

Other clubs receiving funds are the Saddle and Sirolo Club, $200 to be used to defray the expense of the crops team and the livestock team; A. S. M. E., $175 for delegates; Poultry Science club, $150 to finance the poultry judging team. Four other clubs to get funds are the Scholarship Honor Society, $20 for the expense of making the film "How to Study." The American Chemical Society, $10 for delegate, the United Science club, $10 for membership fee of the contest winner, and the Biology club, $50 for the expense of films.

Fourteen clubs were not granted money because their purpose as stated in asking for the money was not approved for financing by the student activities. The list of these clubs and the amounts for which they asked is as follows: Pre-Med Society, $75; Marketing and Fi-

State Nutrition Committee Meets To Discuss Problems of Food in Defense

A unified state food and nutrition program designed to strengthen the total population for its defense effort, as well as to meet the state's long-range health needs, was adopted by the Texas State Nutrition Committee during a meeting in Austin, October 13-14.

Economic assistance for Texas families unable to produce or purchase a well-balanced diet was one objective of the broad program, so the committee endorsed an overall price control bill, recommended legislation which would remove the occupation tax on dealers in oleomargarine, and resolved to work toward adjustment of freight rate differentials.

To accomplish its objectives the group planned for the setting up of volunteer food and nutrition committees in every Texas county and incorporated town, according to the chairman, Mildred Horton, who is vice director of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service. She explains that these committees will be asked to assist with in-service training for people working in food establishments and to work toward expansion of the community school lunch program and the food stamp plan.

General Sylvanus Thayer's successful superintendency of West Point from 1817 to 1833 earned him the title of "the Father of the United States Military Academy."
