Aggies, Owls, and Frogs to Win Today; Also Taking Texas to Drub SMU in Feature Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 1.—We arrived in Little Rock yesterday afternoon, with the team taking a final workout in the stadium before game time. Pass drills, Porkers plays, and blocking were stressed especially in the light drill. The boys seem in good spirit and are quite confident of the game.

However, the feature of the afternoon is the game between the Texas Longhorns and the S. M. U. Mustangs being played in Dallas before a capacity home-coming crowd. This one will tell the tale in more than one way. In other games we have T. C. U. colliding with Baylor at Waco, and Rice fighting it out with Centenary in Houston.

We hit nine predictions out of 11 last week, and hope to match it today. The limb is slowly but surely cracking, and today may be the gloomy day.

A. & M.-ARKANSAS . . . Arkansas has shown a lot of scoring punch in its games and may give the Aggies some trouble. However, with the reserve power Coach Homer Norton has, it looks like the Ags in another runaway, say, 28-0.

TEXAS-S.M.U. . . . At the start of the season, we thought that if Texas were to be upset before Thanksgiving, S. M. U. would do it. But after that Rice debacle, we kinda doubt it. Even with the game being played in Dallas with a homecoming crowd and the fact that the Longhorns have never beaten the Mustangs under Matty Bell, we'll still take the Steers. The old adage, "there's always a first time," should prove true today. It's the Longhorns by a 20-7 count.

BAYLOR-T.C.U. . . . Here is a battle of criss. Both teams are in a terrible shape, and it wouldn't surprise us if both of them run out of players before the game ended. Both have been beaten by the Ags, but the Frogs showed a far better line than did the Bears, and, on that account we're giving T. C. U. the long end of a 7-0 score.

RICE-CENTENARY . . . Both are teams that fell by the wayside, but if Rice loses this one, they're absolutely through for the season. It's the Owls by a 27-0 score.

Minnesota, Tennessee, Fordham, Penn Doped To Win; Wash St. Picked to Upset Oregon U

In other games, it's Tennessee over L. S. U. in a close one, Tulane bouncing back against Vanderbilt, Missouri over Penn State, Penn to hand Navy its first defeat, Stanford in a squeeze over Santa Clara, Notre Dame over Army (possible upset for the Cadets here) by a whisker, Fordham to continue undefeated against Purdue, Washington State to pull another upset against Oregon, Ohio State over Pittsburgh, Mississippi over Marquette by a couple of touchdowns, Michigan to stomp Bob Zuppke's Illinois eleven, California to shade U. C. L. A., Minnesota over Northwestern by 7 (the Gophers to continue undefeated), Yale over Brown, Georgia over Auburn, Nebraska in a runaway over Kansas State, Cornell by two touchdowns over Columbia, Temple to outscore Boston College, Washington University over Montana by 34 points, Wake Forest by 7 points over Marshall, and finally Alabama University by 13 over Kentucky.

Texas Five-to-One Choice Over Aggies -Rice Owls Predict

Houston Paper Survey Reveals That Students Disregard Turkeyday Jinx

Texas U. is a five to one shot over the Aggies Thanksgiving day according to a survey made at Rice Institute by the Inquiring Reporter of the Houston Press. "Only one person out of six asked liked the Aggies as the stronger club," said the article.

One of the students interviewed gave as his reason for picking Texas the fact that he "just didn't see how any team could be better." Another said that if Texas could beat Rice by forty points they can certainly beat A. & M. The boys from the Institute even went so far as to accuse the Aggies of being "post champions this year, and coasting on their laurels." The fact that the Texas team has been getting ready for the Turkey Day game for a long time seemed to impress another Rice man.

One of the Aggie supporters simply said of the A. & M. team, "They're determined to live down last year's defeat."

Injured Polo Team Encounters Undefeated NMMI

Still handicapped by injuries, the Aggie polo quartet will meet a strong NMMI squad on the A. & M. field Saturday morning at 10 and Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Boasting much same squad as their powerful aggregation which defeated the Aggies three times last year, the NMMI boys will be out to continue their unbeaten record. Still without the services of their stellar No. 3, Bill Braid, the Aggies will be striving to even up the score with NMMI and maintain an unbeaten record on their new field.

Captain Carl Maloney will probably be ready to go at least part time after being out of last Sunday's game with an injured shoulder. Aggie substitutes showed surprising strength last Sunday in beating a Shreveport team nine to six. These same men will be ready to do service Saturday and Sunday in backing up the weakened varsity.

Probable starting lineup for the Aggies in Saturday's game will be Norris McGowen at No. 1, one of the scoring stars of last Sunday's game; Captain Carl Maloney at No. 2; Lee Rice at No. 3, replacing Braid; and last week's spark plug, Walt Hart, at No. 4, T. A. William and Jack Buie, two of last Sunday's outstanding stars, will probably see a lot of service in addition to other letter and squadmen.

The NMMI team is coached by Lt. Col. E. G. Cullum, Cavalry, one of the outstanding authorities on polo in the Army and is accompanied by Capt. T. B. Stapp, assistant coach. Little is known of their present record for this year, but the fact that practically their entire powerful starting lineup of last year will be on the firing line is sufficient to give the Aggies plenty of trouble.

Probable starting lineup will be R. B. Jowell at No. 1; C. Harris at No. 2; J. R. Uffer at No. 3; and W. (See WATER POLO, Page 4)

Stellar Aggie Blocking Back

Willie Zapalac

A triple threat man who can smash the line or skirt the ends when he carries the ball is Willie Zapalac. Zapalac, who holds down a blocking back position, will see much service in the game today.

INTRAMURALS

By DUB OXFORD

Upperclassmen do not have to work out in order to participate in the cross country meet, said Mr. Penny yesterday. This column reported that upperclassmen were required to work out before appearing in the meet, and the column acknowledges its error.

Schedules for Class A football and Class B volleyball have been sent out and entry cards for class B ping pong have also been sent to the managers. Please look at your schedules and have your team report on time. The intramural office is pleased to report that the number of forfeits due to teams arriving late is decreasing and express their thanks for the fine cooperation of the corps.

There will be an instructional period on volleyball Wednesday night, November 5, at 7:00 p. m. The instruction will be held in Dewar Field House and all fish are expected to attend. One game credit will be given to all students attending the lecture.

Battery Field Artillery proved their prowess of the hardwood courts Thursday night. The boys who ride caissons piled up 52 points to their opponents five. K Infantry also proved that they too could pile up points, winning over I Field 23-21.

The Artillery Band and D Replacement Center had a rousing game, the band boys winning 18-11. H Infantry won their game with B CWS 16-9, and C Infantry won their game with 2 Hdq. Field 16-3.

Texas State Water Polo League To Be Formed This Fall

Fans who like their sports rough and tough will have a chance to see some top notch water polo games this winter as Art Adamson, A. & M. Swimming Coach and internationally renowned water poloist has announced the formation of the Texas State Water Polo League with teams from A. & M., Texas university, Houston Y. M. C. A., and Galveston Junior Chamber of Commerce entered.

The first game will be played Saturday night when the Aggie entry takes on the Galveston notors in Galveston. The following Saturday night they will play at College Station and the following week it is hoped that the Houston team will have rounded into shape so that they can meet the Longhorn entry.

Texas university is entering water polo competition for the first time this year. In the past they have played the Aggies some games but it was a sort of off-the-record play since Tex Robertson made no pretense of turning out a finished team in that sport at the university. This year he has a team, and Adamson says he will have trouble with the Longhorns from now on. In the past Aggie teams never have lost to them in the rough sport.

Adamson is anxious to have entries from Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, and Waco and would like to round out an eight-team league. Plans call for each team to play a round-robin of two games each.

Swimmers interested in forming a team to represent their cities or clubs should write Coach Art Adamson at College Station.

Williamson Picks Aggies, Longhorns, Frogs to Win

By Paul B. Williamson

Rolling merrily along in third place this week, in the Williamson System, the Texas Aggies should prove to be much more than a match for the Arkansas Razorbacks when they clash in Little Rock today.

Top game of the Southwest and possibly the nation is the impending battle between Texas' unbeaten Longhorns and the powerful Mustangs of S. M. U., Texas should take this one, but it might be close.

Another feature attraction involves those Golden Gophers of Minnesota again. After the battering they received last week in downing Michigan, can they stop Northwestern's rampaging Wildcats? We'll string along with the System and Minnesota.

Notre Dame should come through against the Army Mules according to the System, but you can never tell what those Cadets are liable to do in this one. This is one of those grudge affairs and may be a thriller all the way.

As advertised by the Williamson System the games last week included an unusually large number of close contests. The exceptional toll of upsets the past week-end verified the wisdom of that forecast.

This week, thank goodness, there doesn't seem to be as many toss-ups. As a result the contests today should run fairly true to form.

The predictions for today's games are listed below, with the probable winner in capitals.
