Aggies Still Remember "That Kid Named Joe" Who Beat Them in '38 With Field Goal

Three years ago, at Ownby Stadium in Dallas, a kid named Joe, broke into the S. M. U. lineup against the Aggies just enough for one play. That one play proved the difference between victory and a tie as Joe booted a 46 yard field goal to give the Mustangs a 10-7 win. That particular kid named Joe was none other than Joe Pasqua, one of the best tacklers in the Southwest Conference today. Joe laid out a year, but came back roaring last year, and was responsible for giving the Mustangs a co-championship. He kicked the winning point against Rice Institute to give the Ponies a 7-6 win and a tie with the Aggies for the crown.

This year, Joe, again has that toe of his well educated. He almost gave the Mustangs a victory over Fordham when he booted one to put them into a shortlived 10-7 lead. Last week against Texas, although he was hurt, Pasqua played a jam-up game, and attained praises from Coach Dana X. Bible and all the Texas players.

S. M. U. may be regarded as a two man team with Johnston and Maley in there, but don't forget Joe Pasqua. For a lineman to win two conference games in this league is more than a miracle. Take that from us. So while that kid named Joe is in there fighting for the Mustangs, don't sell them short. Those three-pointers come in handy once in a while.

Large and Colorful Rodeo in Prospect For Friday and Saturday; Girls to Participate

Tomorrow night in the A. H. Pavilion, another one of those famous Aggie rodeos gets under way. In its twenty-second year, this one promises to be the greatest of all rodeos held here. Heretofore, only Aggies were eligible to participate, but this year some eight beautiful bronco-busting females of the plains will be added to the already colorful show.

The rodeo, which is sponsored by the Saddle and Siroin club, is one of the few rodeos held in a college. Many followers of the bronco-riding sport concede that the Aggies have one of the largest attractions in college circles. Held just before the A. & M.-S. M. U. game, it has always drawn a capacity crowd, and there is no reason why the best and largest of all the rodeos can't do the same this year.

Shorty Fuller, president of the club, and Caddo Wright, rodeo director, have worked hard to put this thing over and they deserve a lot of praise. So let's turn out either tomorrow afternoon or night to watch this grand array of bronco-riding and bronco-busting Aggie cowboys—and cowgirls. It's two bits in the evening and four-bits at night, and you can always hook your roommate's radio. So it's the rodeo tomorrow for us!

Sports Squibs From Here and There; Ags And Ponies Tied in Their All-Time Record

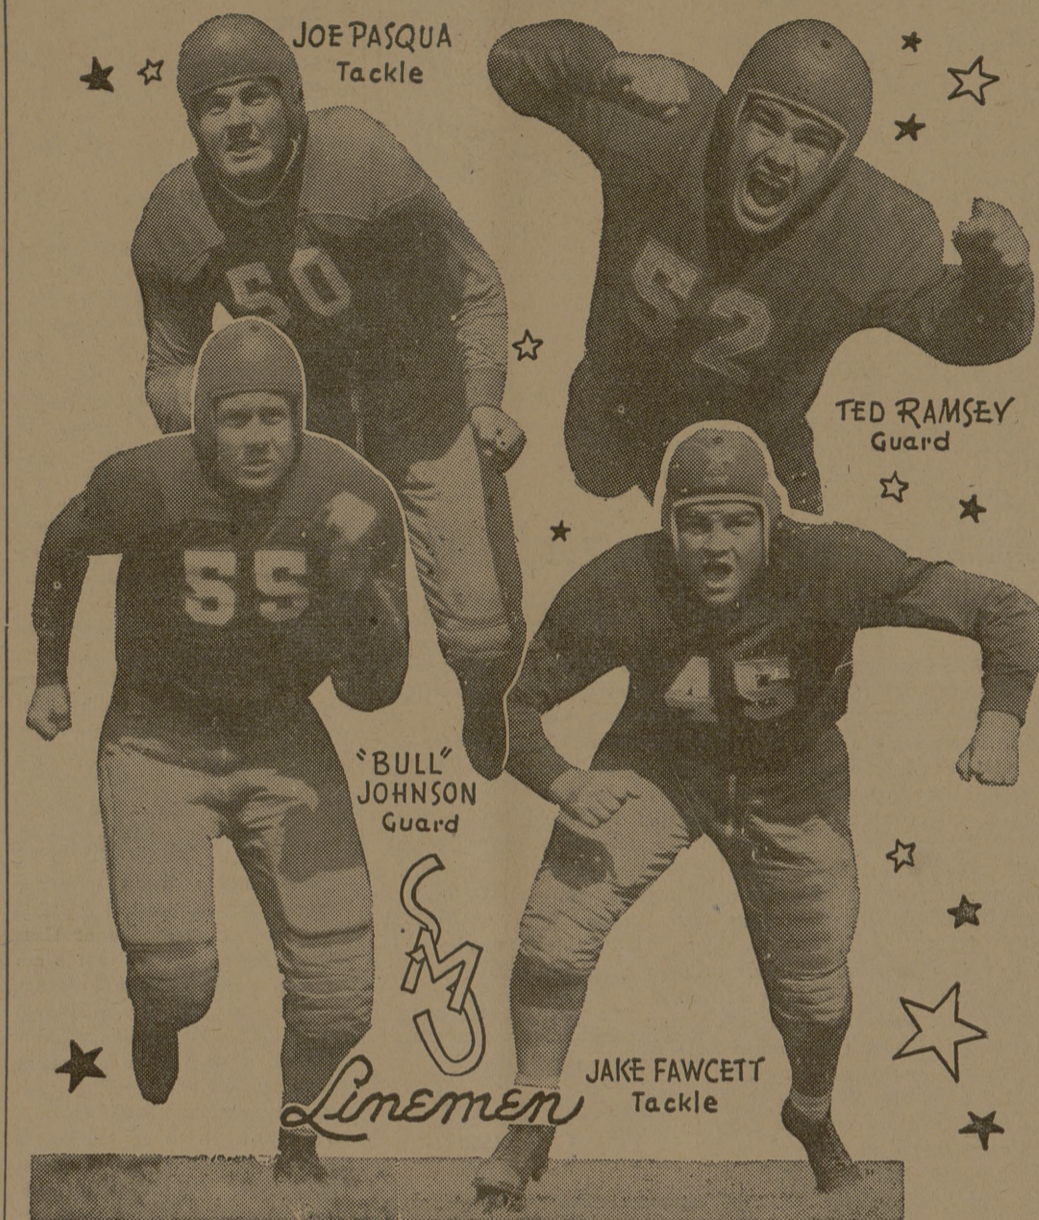

The game between S. M. U. and Texas. A. & M. Saturday afternoon will be the tie-breaking one in their series, which started in 1916, both teams have won 10 games and tied three. Stanlev Mauldin, Longhorn tackle who broke his wrist at the start of the year, is expected to be ready for the Baylor game. . . . Bama Smith, who pulled a cartilage in his leg against the freshmen a week ago, is about ready to go now. . . . Here's a good one. . . . the Freshmen took the Varsity C team for a ride, 7-0, Monday afternoon. . . . looks like fat years ahead for the Aggie teams. . . . this Barney Welch on the Fish team is all he was touted to be—and better. . . . And don't sell Stout or Trotter short. . . . even the A team kinda shudders when they have to go through Stout's territory. . . . boy, can he hit. . . . Jeff Brown, Rice starting guard, has been drafted. . . . A solution for these bowl games was reached by an ardent S. M. U. fan. . . . he suggested that they pick the Texas' first team to play in the Rose Bowl, the Longhorn second team to play in the Sugar Bowl, and the Longhorn third stringers to play in the Cotton Bowl. . . . he figured here was a chance to have a clean sweep. . . . And what about the Mustang player that hollered up in the stands after Texas had a five touchdown lead, "So we ain't neat."

Ags Concentrate on Ground Play in Drills

Look Out! Here They Come

Red Maley Out for Three Weeks With Torn Cartilage; Joe Pasqua Is Hurt

With only two more days left before their important clash with the S. M. U. Mustangs, Coach Homer Norton's Texas Aggies worked harder than ever on their ground game yesterday and Tuesday afternoon. Running mostly from the double wing formation, Derace Moser, Leo Daniels, Bob Williams and Jake Webster ripped off chunks of yardage against the "B" team and the Fish.

Karow's Report
Backfield Coach Marty Karow, who scouted the Mustangs last Saturday, brought word that S. M. U. even if they were run over by Texas still would be tough to handle. He explained that the Ponies could be beat if the Aggies play the game they are capable of, but would find themselves in a difficult spot if they didn't consider the Mustangs with a grain of salt.

Meanwhile, word coming from Dallas, indicates that Howard "Red" Maley, sensational sophomore passer, is certain to be on the sidelines when the Mustangs and cadets clash this Saturday. Maley suffered a torn cartilage in his leg and is expected to be out of action for some three or four weeks. Joe Pasqua, ace tackle, also was banged up badly in the Texas game, but there is an indication that he may be of some service. Roy Ownby was the only other casualty, suffering a broken hand. The rest of the team is in good shape and ready to go against the Aggies.

Ponies Stress Passing
Presto Johnston, the other half of S. M. U.'s offense, continued to shine with his great broken field running and kicking. Frito Gonzales took Maley's place and proved true with his passes. He connected with such pass receivers as End Roland and Gus Tunnell and Backs Horace Young, "Dandy" Dick Miller, and Cliff Hagerman. Coach Matty Bell also stressed the Pony pass defense which evidently was missing against the Texas Longhorns.

Pony Team Has 16 Lettermen, Are Offensive Club

By Chick Hurst

When the Aggies take on Matty Bell's S. M. U. Mustangs Saturday afternoon, they face the stiffest competition the current season has yet offered. Not that Arkansas wasn't tough, but the Ponies from down Dallas way have really got what it takes to win ball games. If you don't believe it just ask Jim Crowley, whose powerful Fordham Rams lucked out in the last thirty seconds of their early season clash.

Mustangs, No Pushover
Many people, after last Saturday's poor showing against Texas, rate the Mustangs as a pushover. But nothing could be further from the truth. It was simply a case of a good team against a great team. The Ponies threatened several times against a team ranked as one of the greatest in history, and in doing so proved themselves to be plenty tough.

Johnston and Maley
The potent Mustang offense revolves around Preston "Presto" Johnston and Howard "Red" Maley. Johnston, long famed for his booming punts, has developed into one of the hardest hitting fullbacks in the conference, and is also competent at circling the ends. In Maley, Matty Bell has discovered a boy who shows promise of becoming one of the nation's great. Playing his first year of varsity ball, Maley has developed into a superb passer and an exceptionally fine running back. Rounding out the S. M. U. backfield are Lendon Davis and Horace Young, both steady and capable performers.

Mustang Line
In front of this quartet is one of the most rugged lines in the country. Led by Joe Pasqua, always a nemesis to the Aggies, and Ted Ramsey one of the stand-out guards of this conference, the Mustang line has dealt its opponents plenty of misery this season. Other pillars of strength in the forward wall are Guards Ramsey and Fawcett, Tackle Lynn Bostick, and stellar ends Gus Tunnell and Kelly Simpson.

Injured in the bruising battle with the Longhorns, Maley and Pasqua will probably watch Saturday's clash from the sidelines. However, with Abel "Frito" Gonzales to step into Maley's shoes, and Clarence Booth to take Pasqua's place, the Ponies should not be seriously crippled.

At any rate this will be one of Saturday's top contests, and win, lose, or draw, the Mustangs can be counted on to give the Aggies quite a battle.
