South American Will Show Movies For Entomology Club

Edgar Olivera Regis, a South American, from Campo, Brazil, Bahia, will show pictures of a number of cotton experiments that were carried on in Waco last summer to members of the Entomology Club and visitors in the Biology lecture room Tuesday night. will be the same with Less Richardson and Roy Bueck at the guard posts, Martin Ruby at tackle and Bill Sibley at the pivot post.

Owls Also Crippled
 The Rice Owls, a potential power at the start of the season, surprised everyone when they upset a strong Tulane team but that victory cost them some half a dozen injuries. Among the injured is Bob Brumley, Coach Neely's key to the tricky Owl attack. However, a group of sophomore stars have come along nicely and have been Rice's main threat in their past two games. Harold Stockbridge, Barron Ellis, Bud Elyx, Willie Smelley and Dick Dwelle are the prime examples. The Owls, who have been a distinct power most of the season, are expected to put a lot more emphasis on their passing game this afternoon with Dwelle on the passing end and such stars as Ellis, Bob Trench, sophomore end, Clark Wells, Stockbridge, and Ray Zimmerman on the receiving end.

Art Goforth, fiery guard, and Buck Sloan, captain and center of the Owls will lead the Rice defense. Teaming with them will be Ted Brannon and Billy Heard at tackles, Weldon Humble at the other guard post, and Clark Wells and Bob Trench at end.

In the backfield it will be either Calvin McDougle or Joe Price at the quarterback spot, Dwelle or Ellis at one halfback post, Stockbridge at the other halfback position and either Brumley or Whitlock Zander at fullback. Brumley is reported to be rapidly recovering from the injury he sustained in the Tulane game, and if he has recovered sufficiently, is a distinct possibility that Coach Neely will start him.

"Do or Die"
 This will be a "do-or-die" battle for the Owls as they already have one defeat chalked up against them in conference play. The Aggies are undefeated and untied and should they lose today they will still have a good chance for the crown.
