Aggies Face Revengeful Rice Owls in Big Test Tomorrow; Kinney, Closs Big Threats

Coach Marty Karow's quintet will play host to the twice-beaten Rice Institute Owls tomorrow night in the DeWare Field House at 7:30.

Already knocked off their high perch twice, first by the Texas Aggies and next by the Arkansas Razorbacks, the Owls will have to get by the Aggies in order to stay in the race. And it's vice-versa for the Cadets. To beat the Aggies, the feathered flock will have to be on their toes throughout the whole evening, because if they slip but once, it might prove fatal. The Aggies, though not a basketball power, have been known to be very tough on their home court, and have wrought many upsets on favored teams such as Texas and Baylor. Last year on their own court, the Ags gave Rice the scare of their life before succumbing, 50-46, in a game that was decided in the last 30 seconds of play.

As for the Maroon and White team of Coach Marty Karow, it primarily will have to stop "Bat-em" Bob Kinney and Bill Tom Closs, the high scoring aces of the Owls. They will have to hustle like they never have before for the Owls will be here after revenge and will be all set for the Cadets. Hustling has been one of the features of Coach Karow's five this year, and should they start making good some of their free throws and long shots they might get somewhere.

Their hustling and teamwork was great against Rice in Houston last week, and if they play like that against the Owls tomorrow, the Ags will have a great chance in pulling another upset.

Sports Squibs From Here and There; Vance Carrington Shows Promise in Saturday's Tilt

Vance Carrington, little triple threat back (No. 50) for the Maroons, showed great form in leading Coach Buchanan's team to victory . . . he may have plenty of possibilities should he decide to play Varsity ball . . . Ed Ogdee, guard for the White team and former freshman football player, was the best looking lineman on the field . . . he made about 50 per cent of the White tackles . . . Jimmy

Knight, reserve guard of the 1941 Aggie football team, when asked to give four qualifications of a good guard and tackle by Dough Rollins in a PE 317 quiz, had this to say, "four qualifications of a good guard are — (1) good-looking, (2) smart, (3) fast, and (4) look like Jimmy Knight . . . four qualifications of a good tackle are — (1) Ugly, (2) ignorant, (3) big, (See KYLE FIELD, Page 6)

Aggie Fencing Team Loses to NTAC Here

The Aggie Fencing team suffered a loss last Saturday afternoon at the hands of the N. T. A. C. team down at the gym. The Aggies won the foils meet, but lost the dueling swords and sabers matches. Bederman, Stillinger and Shaw won the foils matches for the Aggies. Adcock and Shaw copped the dueling sword matches while Stillinger and Wells took the saber matches. Lyne was the outstanding fencer for the Junior Aggie team.

The members of the Aggie team are R. W. Shaw, captain, D. L. Stillinger, C. L. Adcock, J. K. Wells, J. J. Bederman. The Aggie team sponsor is Lambert Molyneux. The N. T. A. C. team is composed of Lyne, captain, Relyea, War-math, Crockett, and Robinson.

A 150-pound man would weight almost 50,000,000 pounds on one of the newly-found white dwarf stars, it is estimated by Willem J. Luyten, professor of astronomy at the University of Minnesota.

Carrington and Bemus Lead Maroons To 19-0 Victory Over Whites in Charity Tilt

Coach Bill Buchanan's Maroon team, composed of the Infantry, Cavalry, the Composite regiments and the Bands, capitalized on three self-made breaks to down the White team of Bill Buchanan, 19-0, Saturday afternoon on Kyle Field in the annual Red Cross Charity game.

Vance Carrington, 174 lb. triple-threat back from Maroons, and Earl Bemus, 185 lb. speedy back from the Infantry combined their efforts together to bring the Maroons a victory. Carrington scored the first touchdown, passed for the second one to "Kay" Kizer, while Bemus accounted for the last one with a 44 yard run with an intercepted pass.

Tom Lamberth was the big gun for the White team, doing most of the running and passing. His slinging hit the spot with remarkable accuracy, but his receivers developed a case of "butterfingers" and dropped some half-dozen well placed aeriels.

First Break

The Maroons received their first break early in the first quarter. Bolton kicked off for the Reds, and Lamberth brought the ball back to the 22. On the first play from scrimmage, Tom fumbled, and the Reds recovered. In three smashes, Carrington and Johnny Scoggins collaborated in bringing the ball to the one yard line from where Carrington hit left tackle for the score.

Lamberth brought the ensuing kickoff back to the 28 yard line. In two plays he fumbled again and the Maroons recovered on the 32. Bemus broke loose for sixteen yards around left end before finally being brought down out of bounds on the White sixteen. In three tries Carrington gained only six yards, but on fourth down, his pass was good to Kizer for the score. Bolton kicked goal, and the score was 13-0 as the half ended.

Whites Threaten

Most of the third period was a see-saw affair, with neither team having any sort of edge. Just before the end of the period, the Whites received a break as O'Neal sent a beautiful punt out of bounds on the Maroon 13 yard line. Vogt returned Carrington's punt to the Maroon 22. Lamberth passed to Goodman for 4 yards, and one the next play Johnny Von Sprecken smashed left tackle to the five yard line. However, the Maroons stopped the Whites cold as Von Sprecken was thrown for a six yard loss on fourth down.

Near the middle of the fourth period the Maroons scored their third and final touchdown as Bemus intercepted O'Neal's floating pass and ran 44 yards for a touchdown.

The game ended shortly with a flurry of desperate White passes going for nought.

Aggies Seek Second Upset Win Over Owls Wednesday

Packed Crowd Expected to See Rice, A&M, Battle for Honors in DeWare Field House

The Rice Institute Owls, seeking revenge for the 36-34 defeat by the Texas Aggies last week, meet the Cadets in DeWare Field House Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. The Owls, who were pre-season favorites to take the Southwest Conference championship, have suffered two setbacks in the past week. First was the upset by the Cadets followed by stunning 55-47 defeat by the Arkansas Razorbacks Saturday night.

The Owls will be gunning for the Aggies as a result of the close-fought game which ended with the Cadets on top. Bob Kinney and Tom Closs, sparkplugs of the Owls, have been giving continued displays of sparkling play.

The conference race is all jumbled up, with the Baylor Bears, a mediocre team on the prediction lists, leading the pack with three victories and no defeats. The Arkansas Razorbacks are in second place with three wins and one loss.

It has been a number of years since the Aggies have defeated the Owls in Aggeland. The Cadets will be trying to show the fans that the win over Rice last week was not just a fluke victory.

Bill Henderson scored 11 points to take high-point honors for the Cadets in their game against Baylor. He was closely followed by Ray Jarrett with 10 points and Fred Nabors with nine points. The top four season-scorers for the Cadets are Henderson 98, Jarrett and Leland Huffman 86 each, and Nabors 75 points.

Jarrett and Huffman have shown expert skill in sinking baskets and have sparked many of the Aggie scoring sprees. This duet is constantly in the game with as much hustle and fight as can be seen anywhere.

The probable starting lineup for the Aggies is Jarrett and Nabors, forwards; Henderson, center; and Cokinos and Huffman, guards. Likely starters for the Owls are Closs and Gomez, forwards; Kinney, center; and Palmer and Lamberth, guards.
