

Ags Battle Longhorns in Crucial Tilt Today

By Mike Haikin

Let's Come Out to Kyle Field Today And Support Aggie Nine in Battle With Steers!

The Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns, rivals for the top spot in almost every sport in the Southwest Conference, will battle on historic Kyle Field this afternoon, in what many experts regard as a championship fray.

It's only the second tilt for both teams, but is still expected to have much say as to the conference winner. Texas brings out a team that is flaxed by new faces. No longer are there such names on the roster as Pete Layden, Melvin Deutsch, Doc Smith, Leslie Croucher, Lynn Bostick, or Udel Moore. Only Jack Stone and Grady Hatton remain as remnants of the '41 championship squad.

Uncle Billy Disch, the dean of all Southwest Conference baseball coaches and the retired Longhorn mentor, regards Texas as having one of the weakest teams in its baseball history. However, this isn't the first time that Coach Disch has spoken in that manner for Longhorns in the past were regarded as having weak teams, but the end of the season found them perched on the conference top. So disregard what you hear about the Longhorns. They have a smart coaching staff that is sure to put out a whale of a team.

Today's game means much to the Aggie cause. They've already dropped one tilt, and another one would be a serious blow to their championship hopes. To avert any kind of setback, Coach Lil Dimmitt plans to open with Charlie Stevenson, ace hurler of the Aggie pitching staff. Stevenson came through nicely against Baylor in his first time out and is expected to give the Steers plenty of trouble.

So if you're desirous of seeing a championship battle this early in the season take a short walk to Kyle Field this afternoon at 3:30. The Aggies will be battling their roughest foe of the year and will need all the support that can be garnered. Let's all turn out and give all we've got to help the Maroon and White clear a tough hurdle!

16 Aggie Tracksters To Enter Tex Relays

Rollins' Highly Touted Fish Also Entered In Meet to be Held Saturday

Sixteen members of the Aggie varsity track team will journey to Austin this week-end to participate in the fifteenth Texas Relays which take place on Saturday, March 28. The Cadets ran second to the Longhorns in the annual Fort Worth Fat Stock Show and Exposition Field and Track Meet last Saturday.

Pete Watkins and A. C. Ricks, who will represent A. & M. in the high jump, will have to meet Don Boydston of Oklahoma A. & M., record holder of the high jump in last year's relays when he leaped 6 feet, 7 7/8 inches.

An outstanding event will be the 120-yard high hurdles in the university class. Listed among the best hurdlers will be Roy Bucek, Aggies, Ralph Tate, Oklahoma A. & M., and Doug Jacques of Texas.

The Aggie fish track squad will be entered in the junior college class, freshman division relays. The fish have a strong team as indicated by their Fort Worth performance in which they piled up 70 points.

Rifle Team To Meet TSCW Sharpshooters Sat

The Aggie Rifle team will mark time until Saturday afternoon when they face the TSCW sharpshooters here in a regulative match. It was last year when the cadet team invaded Denton with high aspirations in winning another match, but the girls proved too true with their shots, triumphing by the margin of two points.

The girls, under the direction of their coach, Diana Boone, will bring nineteen of their best shooters to challenge the skill of the cadets. The TSCWites will bring their own equipment plus a news correspondent from the Lasso and will arrive at College Station at noon Saturday. Following dinner at Sbis Hall, the girls will proceed to the firing range to practice and get their new target guns sighted in. The match will consist of 18 shooters on both teams firing, with the five highest scores deciding the winner.

Wow! Can freshmen play softball? Take a gander at these scores: 26-1, 34-4, 20-5. These "whitewashes" are really swell. Old Big B Infantry, under superb pitching walloped their arch-enemy I Infantry 26-1. Making 17 runs and allowing their opponents only 1 run, H Infantry just "nacherly" beat A Coast. 27-5 is a nice win too. And 3 Hq. Field beat B Field by just that score. K. D. Volgh of 2 Hq. Field, pitched a fine game for the buggy boys. His pitching won the game from A C.W.S. 34-4.

Charlie Stevenson Given Assignment Against Texas

Bill Dumke Expected to Hurl for Visitors; Game to Get Under Way at 3:30 PM Sharp

By Chick Hurst

Remember Austin in 1941! Such is the battle cry which has been ringing across the diamond down at Kyle Field the past week as the Aggie baseballers prepared for their all important clash with the Texas Longhorns. The tilt is scheduled to begin at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. No man on the Texas Aggie squad has forgotten that 10th inning home run last year which robbed the Aggies of what would have been their first baseball championship since 1937.

Charlie Stevenson, the Aggie ace hurler, who pitched the Aggies to victory in their game with Baylor, will be Coach Lil Dimmitt's choice for the mound this afternoon. He will probably be opposed by Bill Dumke, ace of the Orange and White pitching corps.

Be it baseball or any other sport, any contest between the Aggies and Longhorns always produces plenty of fireworks, and this afternoon's clash should prove no exception. Most observers rate the conference as a tossup between the Aggies, Steers, and the Baylor Bears. With the Cadets and Bears having already split a two game series, this afternoon's meeting should go a long way towards deciding who will wear the coveted crown of the Southwest Conference baseball champions.

The Longhorns come to College Station with one of the weakest teams ever to wear the orange and white, but still a team that is rated as good as or better than any other entry the Southwest Conference has produced so far this season.

Comparison Close

A comparison of the 1942 Aggies and Longhorns can be had by looking at the performance of both teams against the University of Oklahoma Sooners, the only team which both have faced this season. The Longhorns swept both games against the Sooners, while the Aggies did not fare so well—winning one and dropping the other.

The Cadets have, however, exhibited an excellent brand of fielding and pitching in their games so far this year, but their hitting has been a far cry from the kind that wins championships. Nevertheless, Coach Lil Dimmitt has had the boys hard at it all week with heavy emphasis on batting drills, and the Texas hurlers will find a greatly improved group of batters from the one which faced the Bears last week. Rain rather hampered the Aggies in their workout yesterday, but fine weather early in the week afforded them plenty of practice for the game.

Aggies Inspired

Although the Longhorns have been installed as pre-game favorites, the contest will probably turn out to be as tight as the well-known Pullman window. For the Aggies are playing on their home grounds and will enter the game with a burning desire for revenge in their hearts. Couple with this the band and the Cadet corps out in full force to spur them on to greater efforts, the boys from the "forty acres" are liable to be in for a very unpleasant afternoon.

Annual Cavalry Horse Show Sat to be Based On Military Theme; Many Events Are Scheduled

War, additional drill, and tire shortages were the factors which caused the Horse Show Committee to restrict the participants of this year's Texas A. & M. Horse Show to Aggie Cadets mounted on U. S. Government mounts.

In previous years horsemen from throughout the state have been invited to enter the events and to show their horses. Riding clubs from the University of Texas have also added color to the show in past years.

The A. & M. Horse Show, an annual affair, will be held on the Cavalry drill field from 10 a.m. 'til 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. 'til 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 28.

This year's Show, in keeping with the military theme, is opened to any ROTC cadet enrolled in school provided he is mounted on a government mount at this post.

Some of the events which will take place in the ring are freshman and sophomore ROTC horsemanship events and ROTC charger class for seniors.

The featured field event will be the hunt race in which will be entered three Cavalry teams and three Field Artillery teams consisting of three men per team. In this race, the riders ride at approximately 20 yards distance over a course 1.7 miles long including 12 jumps—3 of which are six-foot ditches. This event is a particularly grueling race and is different on both men and horses. Other field events include the rescue race, the musical chair, relay races, polo bending races and polo reining classes.

The relay races will be entered by teams from the Field Artillery and Cavalry regiments. The teams consist of four men on each team and the course covers a distance of approximately three and one-half miles.

Observers at the stables for the past two or three days have noted some really hot riding and predict high-spirited competition between the Cavalry and the Field Artillery. Local horsemen predict that, despite the absence of civilian riders and horses, the 1942 A. & M. Horse Show will be the most successful meet ever held here.
