Use of sand to control magnesium incendiary bombs is recommended in the Office of Civilian Defense short subject, "Fighting the Fire Bomb," now showing at the Campus Theater. Other fire bomb control methods are described in the film.

'Fighting the Fire Bomb' Now Showing at Campus Theater

"Fighting The Fire Bomb," a short subject film produced for the government in the interest of national defense, is showing at the Campus as an added attraction. A vivid description of the various methods suggested by military authorities for combatting the menace of fire bombs, the film was produced for the Office of Civilian Defense and is released by Warner Bros., in cooperation with the War Activities Committee of the motion picture industry.

The film is a contribution to the well-being of American citizens in war times and in addition is produced in an entertaining manner.

Whether or not air raids ever take place on the continental United States, it is of paramount importance that every citizen be familiar with the precautionary measures necessary in case of a raid. One of the greatest scourges of any air raid is the extensive fire damage caused by unattended incendiaries.

In the film several methods of procedure for fighting fires are outlined. Use of sand, garden hose, soda-acid extinguisher, foam spray and pumps are among the methods described.

acting done in a sincere manner that is thoroughly enjoyable. It was voted the Picture of the Month by Boxoffice magazine, one of the leading authorities in the critical field. Tracy and Hepburn have really made a hit in their first co-starring vehicle.

Jack London's story, "Gold Hunters of the North," has been made into a motion picture entitled "NORTH TO THE KLONDIKE." Brod Crawford and Evelyn Ankers have the outstanding parts in the picture that plays at the Campus today and tomorrow. It is action, adventure and melodrama all well proportioned to provide worthwhile entertainment.

The other half of the double feature at the Campus today and tomorrow is "JAIL HOUSE BLUES" with Nat Pendleton and Elizabeth Risdon featured. It is the story of a convict in a penitentiary presented in a new light with the accent on the comical side. It is enjoyable and amusing although presenting nothing exceptionally outstanding to the progress of motion pictures.

home on Glass' long fly to left.

They added three more in the fourth on successive hits by Scoggin, Porter and Peden. Scoggin tripled, Porter singled and Peden homered over the left field wall to account for the runs. Another run came in on an error, a single, and a wild pitch in the sixth, but it was in the seventh canto that the Cadets climaxed and iced the tilt with a six run outburst. Rogers' long homer over the right center field wall was the telling blow of the rally.

Meanwhile, the Ponies could do nothing with Stevenson's offerings. Only one man got past first base and that was in the ninth when Davis doubled to deep center.

Fireman Training Short Course To Continue This Summer; C. C. Hedges Will Direct School in Place of Lt. Col. Brayton

Although practically all of the summer short courses at A. & M. have been cancelled this summer, the Annual Firemen's Training School will be held May 17-22, as previously scheduled.

In the absence of Lt. Col. H. R.

Brayton, C.W.S., director of the school, who is on active military duty, the school this year will be under the direction of Dr. C. C. Hedges, head of the chemistry department at the college. Dr. Hedges substituted for Col. Brayton last year and since then has attended the War Department Civilian Defense school at Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

While there he learned the latest approved methods of fighting fires of incendiary origin and intends to stress that part of fire-fighting at the coming school.

"We did consider cancelling the annual school since there was a question of available dormitory space but in view of the important part the firemen may have to play in national defense, it was decided to go ahead as originally planned," Dr. Hedges explained.

Scheduled to appear on the program will be Col. Brayton, who is director of the War Department Civilian Defense School being operated at A. & M. If at all possible the visiting firemen will attend several of Col. Brayton's classes where they will take part in fighting fires started by actual bombs and also will be given instruction in identification of gases and decontamination following gas attacks.

Approximately 450 Texas firemen are expected to attend and thereby earn the reduction in key fire insurance rates for their cities.

TEXAS A. & M. MEN WILL BE INTERVIEWED AGAIN...

► Last year, on 39 different college campuses, men were asked for candid opinions about clothing styles. This poll, conducted by The Saturday Evening Post, is being repeated this year for more than reasons of fashion. It should have important usefulness in the national conservation of cloth and other materials.

Manufacturers and retailers want to know exactly what kind of clothing college men like best—what they find most practical. Government regulations about clothing make it vital to get such facts in advance.

Maybe you were one of the 4,179 college men who helped provide the information last year. Maybe you also saw the Post Portfolio of College Styles in your favorite store when you bought clothes last fall. It made buying simpler for a good many men.

The 2nd Annual Post Poll of College Styles will be made very soon through cooperation of the BATTALION.

Results will again be available to you in leading stores this fall. When your local reporter asks you for information, your answers will be appreciated.
