ALBERT RICKS

high jump at the height of 6 feet 5 1/2 inches.
Strange as it may seem, Albert never works out in the high jump, and only pole vaults about twice a week. Instead, he spends much of his time on the tumbling bars in the gym, and it apparently gets results.

Leaped High in High Jump
Ricks made his highest leap in the high jump during his freshman year, when he cleared 6 feet 6 3/4 inches in the Little Conference Meet. Last year, as a sophomore, he jumped 6 feet 6 3/4 inches in one meet. These heights are even more remarkable when one considers the fact that Ricks is only 5 feet 11 inches tall.

Albert still holds the Houston city record in the high jump. He recalls that he got his biggest thrill out of the first high school meet he ever entered. In it he tied for third place in the high jump with R. B. Bayer, now an Aggie basketballer. They flipped for it. Bayer won.

Taking Flight Training
Not only is Ricks air-minded about jumping, vaulting, and engineering, but he is also taking CPT flight training and plans to get into the Air Corps soon. He was the first of his class to solo this spring.

Ricks says that Pete Watkins is the best high jumper that he ever saw, and at the rate Pete has been going, there isn't any reason for him to change his mind. These two boys make up the greatest "one-two punch" in high jumping in the nation today.

AIR CORPS

successful prosecution of this war demands the creation of an air force second to none on earth, and this in turn requires the eventual enlistment as an Aviation Cadet of every young man who can qualify for service with the U. S. Army Air Forces.

"This need is imperative—the number of those fitted for this exacting duty so limited—that without hesitation the Air Forces are asking for the cooperation of every educator in the United States.

"An earnest attempt has been made to devise a program that will enable the Air Forces to obtain the large number of Aviation Cadets which must be trained every year until this war is brought to a successful conclusion, and at the same time, cause the least possible disruption in the nation's education program."

The Army Air Forces Enlisted Reserve was authorized on April 4, 1942, and for the present is open to college students who have not completed their educational training and who wish to continue in school, and high school graduates who desire to enter college for one year.

General Arnold has requested that colleges and universities appoint a Faculty Air Force Advisor to provide a definite contact between the representatives of the Army and the college personnel. "This representative," General Arnold said, "will be kept fully informed of plans and changes in plans, and with him, the representative of the Army will establish a relationship which will facilitate the exchange of information and advice. He will aid to avoid disruption of college activities and will bring to the Army's attention the problems that will arise because of local conditions."

Robert Taylor turns Western bad man in a big way in "BILLY THE KID" at Guion Hall today. The outstanding point in the film's favor is the way that Bob plays the part of the notorious outlaw. He does it with a sincerity that is bound to be appreciated.
Although the original Billy the Kid was none too respectable in the eyes of the law, the story as played by Taylor has been coated over so much that it is hardly recognizable as the same person's life history. There is lots of excitement and action and the picture is very good.
Espionage on the air waves with Iona Massey doing the singing and George Brent and Basil Rathbone doing the chasing as government agents trying to find out how the shipments of bombers from America to Britain are being intercepted is "INTERNATIONAL LADY" at the Campus today.
