EIGHT TYPES.

BEHOLD—The A. & M. melting pot. They come by droves. They arrive as individuals, and leave still more individualistic, but in each case there is a certain metamorphosis.

Freshmen—hundreds and hundreds of them—and of this group there are always a few which typify some certain types into which all of them fall during the first few days of their stay at Aggie-land. Here's eight of those types which you will easily recognize:

★

MILITARY—He's fresh from "Colonel Grunday's School Militaire" or else he has just ended the junior R. O. T. C. course in high school as a brigadier-colonel. Now he's coming to Aggie-land to show the boys how this military is really done.

★

HILLBILLY—Up from the country, he is the farm's contribution to higher learning. His will be a big time at college, and he'll get a lot out of it because he will put a lot into it.

★

FOOTBALL—Brawn and more brawn. Picked by ever-watchful football scouts, he reports in early September to "do or die" for Aggie-land. Usually a good-natured likeable fellow; college wouldn't be the same without him.

★

TIMID, SHY AND BASHFUL—He's homesick—wonders why he ever came to such a place. Wishes with all his heart that he was home with Ma and Pa and his sweetheart. Being forced to wait in endless registration lines doesn't help this case any. He'll probably stick it out, but right now he doubts it.
