TSCW Holidays Changed for War

In order to cooperate with the government in regard to its travel regulations and in order to save rubber and expense, TSCWites will have only one day, Thursday, November 26 for Thanksgiving holidays. This decision was reached at a meeting of the executive committee Thursday.

The two extra days ordinarily given at Thanksgiving will be added to the Christmas holidays, which will, under this new plan begin at noon on Thursday, December 17.

The SUMMER FOLLIES OF 1942 will be presented by Richard Jenkins on the Saturday night Kadet Kapers program tonight in the Assembly Hall. According to Jenkins, the Follies will include Marion Lyle's Style Revue, Elmer the Poet and if at all possible, Ina Ray Hutton. As in the past, the program will include audience participation wherein cigars and cash prizes will be awarded. The time is 7 o'clock, leaving plenty of time before the Ina Ray Hutton Dance in "The Grove".

Playing at midnight tonight and also Sunday and Monday at the Campus is the much-publicized "THIS ABOVE ALL", with Tyrone Power and Joan Fontaine in the leading roles. Others in the cast are Nigel Bruce, Phillip Merivale and Gladys Cooper.

Tyrone Power, as a veteran of Dunkirk, bewildered by the war and all its complications, falls in love with Joan Fontaine. She is the daughter of a wealthy English physician and has joined the W.A.A.F. to do her share in the war.

Her father is played by Phillip Merivale. Disgusted with the way the leaders are carrying on the warfare, Power runs away from his regiment and it is then that he meets the uniformed W.A.A.F. girl who clears his befuddled mind and sets him straight again.

"This Above All" is a good picture of World War II. It makes the audience understand some of the problems the English people who have already gone through so many hard-to-endure months of suffering. The pictorial interpretation of the book of the same name is accurate and realistic.

The Lowdown—it's one for Hollywood to be proud of.

On the lighter side is "PLAYMATES", showing three times today at Guion Hall. Kay Kyser and his band, John Barrymore, Lupe Velez, Ginny Simms and Patsey Kelly are among those you'll see in this one.

and champions are crowned. However, little if anything, is ever said of the boys who make and carry out the Intramural program. The man who is responsible for the smooth working Intramural Class A Sports is Mathews C. Wilson better known as Pinky Wilson. According to Spike White, Pinky is doing a grand job and deserves more than a few words of praise.

Pinky Wilson who is a member of D Company Engineers hails from Galveston, Texas, and has at the present enjoyed 23 birthdays. During his "Fish" year he was a member of the water polo team, and his next year he became a Sophomore Intramural Manager helping the department carry out the Intramural program for that year.

After his sophomore year Pinky failed to return to school taking a job instead. At the time that our present Senior Intramural Manager decided to come back to his books he was earning $250 a month. However, Pinky gave up the $250 and came back to finish his work in mechanical engineering.

After earning a sweater as Junior Manager, he was chosen to be one of the Senior Intramural Managers and put in charge of Class A Sports. This semester Pinky has been handling softball, volleyball, and swimming. Every afternoon he supervises the games in case help is needed and settling any disputes that might arise.

Our Senior Intramural Manager, who is slated to receive a watch for his fine work, is a sailboat enthusiast and every time that Pinky gets a chance he heads for Galveston and his sailboat.

It's so full of hilarity and nonsense, it's quite a job to put your finger on the plot. As near as we can make out, Barrymore, playing himself, is trying to land a job along dramatic lines on the radio. As a publicity stunt, he connects himself with Kay Kyser in a Shakespearean festival. After failing to make an actor out of the bandleader, he decides to drug him on the opening night, with the result that he drugs himself and Kyser takes over. Needless to say, Kay makes a hit with his swing version of Romeo and Juliet.

Kay's sweet swing is as good as ever; Ginny Sims furnishes all one needs in the way of glamour, romance and excellent vocals.

peted with teams representing other schools. In an intramural contest for a coveted school trophy he ran second in a group which included the entire school.

Meyer entered A. & M. in September, 1939, and he had hardly settled down before he became interested in intramurals. He was freshmen manager of intramurals for his outfit. Along with a number of other fish managers, Abie was invited to try out as a Sophomore Departmental Manager. Well, he has been working with the department ever since. At the present time he is in charge of all Class B activities.

He is quite active in sports at the present time—having won the Aggiminton singles championship in the Open Tournaments and shared in taking the doubles championships in both Horseshoes and Table Tennis.

"One of the things I like best about my job is the contacts it affords me. I have come to know large numbers of Aggies who I would not have met had it not been for my work," said David when asked for his opinion of his work. He is high in his praise for the officials of the department and other student managers with whom he works.

As far as sports are concerned he could not name a favorite. "I like 'em all," he commented. However, when it comes to the opposite sex he is not so indefinite. He prefers curly-headed blondes who are about 5-feet-5 tall and who weigh around 125 or 130 pounds. Yes, if you see David around tonight SHE will be with him.

few of the cities in the Dallas area where votes may be cast for the Aggeland orchestra.

"If the corps will co-operate by voting for the Aggeland every time they buy anything that costs more than 25 cents and if they'll get their friends and folks at home to vote when they buy anything at a drug store," said Brient, "We will have a good chance of getting on that NBC radio program."

Votes for the Aggeland may be cast beginning tomorrow through Sunday, August 23, at any drug store in the Dallas area.

intelligence and manliness the corps was acquiring since the standards had been raised. No more rough, ungentlemanly conduct from the Aggies. "The plaster on the Main Building, although nearly two years old, is still almost like new, with very few initials and pictures whittled into it." The word "sucker" for industrious students was almost obsolete, and the college was very proud of the fact that "hazing" had been almost abolished by the corps voluntarily. My, but didn't that "almost" stick around a long time!

In the middle of the book was a whole page devoted to Uncle Dan, A. & M.'s original and the only janitor. Beside a full length picture of the friendly old Negro was a verse, the last stanza of which went like this:

When I shall cross the river,
In old Charon's trusty barge,
I expect to find old Dan there
Hauling trunks up free of charge.
The corps of cadets, under Captain H. H. Sargent, U. S. A. Cavalry, Commandant, was still but four companies strong, and B Company took top drill honors that year.

Sponsors of the companies were Miss Graham McInnis, A company; Miss Fannie Fountain, D company; Miss Lquisie Harris, C company; and Miss Jellie Garth sponsored the RVs.

A nineteen piece band did fancy shin-digs on the drill field under the leadership of drum major G. T. Haltom, who was also captain of the football team.

And speaking of football, Texas University downed the Aggies 17-0, but the baseball nine retaliated by the overwhelming score of 1-0 over the Texas boys.

1906 saw the original "hulabaloo, caneck, caneck" yell and another yell which was added to what we call "Recall". The yells were:

Chick-garoo Garem! Chick-garoo Garem!
Rough! Tough! Real Stuff!
Texas A. & M.!

Hulabaloo! Caneck, caneck!
Hulabaloo! Caneck, caneck!
Hulabaloo! Caneck, caneck!
Warhee! Warhee!

Look at the man from A. & M. Athletic facilities were ably described by a blank page in that Longhorn under which was the caption, "Views of Gym and Club House."

On other pages were satirical articles on "The Commandant's Twenty Commandants," and a picture of "Bohe" hall, an ancient honky-tonk somewhere between Bryan and college. It was run by Bohemians and the food served was of the same shade, however, it was popular with the cadets and their very lady-like lady friends.

Campus clubs had changed a little since 1903, but still going were the Glee Club, the Tennis Club, Big Eight, Veterans of the Lost Cause, Fencing Club, and the Austin Literary Society. The S. T. B. was so similar to the Klu Klux Klan in '03, that by '06 it had assumed that name, and paraded around in wierd ghostly uniforms of white. Also new was the Stragger's Club, which had replaced the Fifteen Busted Clubs; the Junior Butchers, a clip-club; the Hayseed Band; the Bats, successor to the "Two Beers and a Pretzel"; the Stags; and the Mandolin Club.

A house had been erected over a mudhole near the tracks and was called the Natatorium. So frigid, tortuous, and filthy was this place, a page was devoted to Natatorium testimonials in '06.

"For fifteen years I couldn't smell a thing. I went swimming in your pool, got sulfur in my hair, and have smelled it ever since."

"Before going to the North Pole, I took my entire crew to the pool at your college, made them stay in the water an hour a day. Those that survived I took to the pole with me as immune to cold feet!" Signed, Admiral Perry.

"It is a model refrigerating plant. I will have one if it costs as much as a $100!" Signed, Phillip Armour.

And so it went, and so it goes. Perhaps they will laugh at us some day.
