Wayne Cure, Aggie Guard, Has Plenty Of Potentialities to Become Football Star

I was glancing over the new football dope book put out by the A. & M. Publicity Department and one name above all seemed to impress me more than anything else. It was in the "Squadmen" section of the book that I happened to run across Wayne Cure's name. Cure? Let's see," you're probably saying to yourself, "where have I heard that name before." Oh! Yeah, now I remember, he played some football for the Texas Aggies last year.

Yep, that's right fans. Wayne Cure is the boy who was sub guard last year, but a boy who showed so many potentialities that coaches are expecting plenty from him this fall.

Here's what the dope book has to say about the 205-lb gridster: "Here is a boy that has the possibilities of being a fine guard if he turns on the heat. He is rough and tough enough to give the starters plenty to worry about if he makes up his mind to go after it."

Notice the few "ifs" inserted in the statement. Those are the hurdles Wayne will have to overcome if he becomes the star he should be.

Last fall and spring, time and again, fans and railbirds alike, would remark what possibilities Cure really had. And, at times, during spring training, he would accommodate the fans with a glittering performance, but then fall off and get a bit far behind.

I'll say this for Wayne. He is rough, tough as they and has plenty of stamina. If he would only apply himself to the job of playing football, there is no doubt in my mind or any of the coaches' mind that there would be a great football star.

Cure has all the makings of a great guard—he is big, fast and sure-footed, and should he ever decide that he has possibilities of becoming that great guard, then watch his fire. He is sure to see plenty of service this fall, but should he put his mind up to it, don't be surprised to see the name "Cure" in the starting lineup come September 26!

Sports Squibs From Here And There; Green Makes Good Showing at Nat'l Meet

... the Aggies are known for their football all over the country, but it's been a long time since swimming at A. & M. hit a nation-wide streak. . . However it seems that it has since diminutive Danny Green, Cadet freshman, took off third-place honors in the mile and the 880-yard events in recent National swimming meet held at New London, Connecticut.

Danny's showing in the latter event was especially remarkable since the two winners, Bill Smith and Leo Nakama, broke the world's record in annexing the honors. . . In the mile, Danny was swimming second for 26 of the 28 lengths before he was finally edged out. . . Not bad at all for a college freshman. . . Third best in the nation in the mile and 880 is (See KYLE FIELD, Page 4)

Manager Horace Jennings crew, 10-0, to break a long-standing winning streak. Beasley pitched a brilliant seven-inning tilt, with Gunner Dunn's safe blow in the third inning robbing the Theatre hurler of a no-hit, no-run game.

While Beasley was holding the hard-hitting Cleaner bunch to that lone hit, his mates were connecting solidly against the offerings of Gregg Ramsey and Jim Daniels. They pounded Ramsey into sub-ten into a third place tie with the surprising Theatre team. A four-run rally in the opening stanza plus another three run in the fifth clinched the game for Holick's. Art Hogge pitched for the winners scattering seven hits. Holick's got but six hits themselves but some wildness on the part of Pitchers Donald Puntch and Andy Cokinos contributed greatly to the scoring spree.

Loupot's Trading Post advanced a notch by their 9-2 victory over the Faculty. Nine hits were pounded out by the winners, with Lee Ramage leading the hitting spree with three safe blows including a three-base knock. Johnny Hejl pitched for the winners allowing the Faculty but five scattered hits.

The Aggie Cleaners finally broke into the win column by slashing out an 8-3 victory over Madeley's Pharmacy. The Cleaners wasted no time in solving Wilson's offerings and soon piled up a lead on which Pitcher Doc coasted easily along.

INTRAMURALS

By Mike Mann

Spike White, assistant director of intramural sports brings news of ex-Aggies who were prominent in Intramural activities while attending A. & M. Spike visited Fort Sill, Oklahoma, this week end and while there saw Bob Myers, Assistant Sports Editor of the Battalion, 1940-41, and Lt. Jack Taylor, 1941-42 captain of 3rd Headquarters Field Artillery, who are stationed at that post at the present time.

Lt. Myers is mess officer, having charge of the mess facilities for three different groups of officers. Lt. Taylor is organizing an intramural program and requested that Spike send him rule-books and various forms used by the local department. Jack also asked Spike to tell the boys in the old outfit that he receives the Batt regularly and doesn't want to see 3rd Headquarters Field in the Doghouse or else . . .

Incidentally, the size of the Doghouse is greatly reduced today. Let's hope this is an omen of future absences of teams from the Doghouse. This time freshmen intramuralists lead the Class A contestants in the intramurals.
