Eagle Squadron

Diana Barrymore and Robert Stack have leading romantic and dramatic roles in Walter Wanger's Universal production of "Eagle Squadron," story of U. S. fighter pilots in the RAF. The picture will be shown at the Campus Theatre today, Friday, and Saturday.

Horticulturists Study In California Dehydration Plans

Benito Canales, special student from Mexico, and Professor R. F. Cain of the Department of Horticulture left for California on Tuesday, November 3, where they will study the dehydration industry.

As representatives of this school, they will be permitted to study the new processes of food preservation. Their chief interest will be centered around vegetable dehydration and its possibilities in Texas.

They plan to spend most of their time around Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area. On their return, November 24, they will continue the work begun here on the dehydration of vegetables. The dehydration industry, because of the army's lack of containers and need for concentrated food, is of unlimited importance to the national welfare.

CONTRACTS

(Continued From Page 1) contract. Those in either the Army Air Force, Naval, Marine or Coast Guard Reserves need not apply for a contract, because only those in the Enlisted Reserve Corps of the army will be considered.

Students should also know all of their former military science grades (freshman and sophomore years) in order to properly fill out the application.

All students now taking advanced military science must enlist in the Enlisted Reserve Corps immediately or they will definitely be dropped from the rolls of the military science course they are taking, added Col. Bennett. It is imperative that they not only take out their papers signifying that they intend to join the ERC, but they must actually complete their enlistment, the adjutant concluded.

DISTRACTIONS

Walter Pidgeon is Mr. Miniver, architect and father of three children. As such, his performance is ideal. Teresa Wright, the girl who becomes the wife of the older Miniver son, is heart-stirringly real and lovely and Richard Ney as the son is about the most important thing that's happened to MGM since Robert Taylor.

Helmut Dantine gives the best interpretation of a Nazi we have ever seen on the screen. Dame May Whitty, Reginald Owen and Henry Travers complete the cast.

The Lowdown — entertainment extraordinary.

Another among the top few of the current war pictures is "Eagle Squadron," showing now at the Campus Theater. This picture is a tribute to those American boys who didn't wait for the U. S. to declare war, but, instead, joined the R. A. F. and fought with England against the common enemy.

Through the use of official shots of the squadron in action, filmed by RAF cameramen, the picture has realism and a note of authenticity which are interest-captivating. Robert Stack is the American who joins the Eagle Squadron and grows bitter at the seeming indifference of his English friends to his pal's death. But somehow he learns that the English have buried all selfish and personal sorrows to cope with the one great united sorrow at hand.

Diana Barrymore plays the English girl in service; John Loder as the officer who loses her! and Leif Erikson is cast as Robert Stack's pal. The story is begun with a foreword by Quentin Reynolds.

The Lowdown — worth cutting that afternoon lab to see.

Refrigerator Used To Carry Blood To Red Cross Centers

A refrigerated container, originally developed for transporting small quantities of perishable foods that require temperature protection in transit, is now being used to carry blood from Red Cross collecting centers to laboratories where it is processed for shipment to America's armed forces overseas.

Designed by Major Elihu Church, built by refrigeration experts of the General Electric Company and transported by the Railway Express Agency, the Church Containers service the nation's 17 blood centers where 50,000 contributions a week are being made by blood donors. To handle the increasing donations of blood, the War Production Board has granted priorities for 200 more containers, which are now being built by General Electric.

War has put a crimp in housing at Northwestern university. Girls crowded into sorority dormitories have been moved into two Evanston hotels.

Camouflage is being taught at Queens college and Columbia university in New York.
