Marines' Splendor To Be Shown In Library Film 7:15 Tuesday

On November 10 the marines will have completed a glorious 167 year history "from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli," and we might well add Wake, Midway, Guam, and the Solomon Islands. Visitors to the Library this week have seen Arthur Beaumont's stirring scenes from Wake Island which are on exhibit in the lobby of the first floor.

Further evidence of the unique quality of the fighting marines will be noted in two films presented tonight in the Asbury Browsing Room of the Library as part of the movie program of the War Information Center. There will be two shows, one at 7:15 and one at 8:45.

"From Ships of the Air" was made at Lakehurst, New Jersey, where Private, First Class, Smith goes up in a plane and after five minutes throws his body from a 1000-foot altitude, lets go of the static line of his chute and falls through space to a perfect landing. All of this comes after the careful selective training of many weeks, after he has learned to shoot, to use a bayonet, and to obey orders without resentment.

"Paramarines" are handpicked specimens, a specialized part of that organization of leathernecks whose training we learn of at length in a longer film, "Marine Corps News."

The first part of "Marine Corps News" consists of varied marine corps activities: crash landing, hermit bomb demonstration, liberty in Miami, prize winner, and Secretary of Navy Knox on marine corps maneuvers. The second part of the film is devoted to defense battalion attacks barbecue, marine corps museum, marine corps birthday ceremonies, and finals of marine corps polo league.

These films will be revelations to the laymen who have marveled at the stamina of the marine corps. Men who are trained to go under barbed wires against an object, while expert riflemen fire live bullets just above their crawling heads, are ready for the Solomons. High in the category of their special talents stands their real business, invasion.

One day the Pan-American highway will lead without interruption from Alaska to the Strait of Magellan. Even now it would be possible, if one had the gasoline, to drive over the 13,000 miles of it which stretch from Caracas, that town where locations are designated by corners, not by streets (and each corner has its name) to the Strait of Magellan. It has been done. Herbert C. Lanks, commissioned by the Pan-American Highway Confederation to produce a sound-color film, made the North to South trip in a 1938 station wagon.

Tonight we may see the result of his often hazardous, always thrilling trip in a 43 minute film entitled "Our Neighbors Down the Road." The Highway began splendidly on a two-lane concrete strip that zigzagged up the mountains to Caracas, about 3,000 feet high in the first foothills of the Andes. Soon, however, the adventurer found himself seldom below 8,000 feet.

ment here for Noble Sissle and his 17-piece orchestra, who will be here for probably the most date-filled week-end of the social season. Sissle will have the honor of being the first orchestra to play in spacious floors of Duncan hall. Heretofore, the only place where dances have been held were either in Shiba hall or in The Grove.

However, with the overcrowded campus with the dates of both the Engineers and the Composite Regiment, it will be necessary to clear the floors in both mess halls in order to facilitate dancing room for the two regiments.

Now included in the Composite Regiment along with the Signal Corps and the Chemical Warfare is the Ordnance, one of the two new regiments just lately formed on the campus.

Ags Hold One Game Lead Over Ponies in Series

No two Southwest Conference football teams can boast the record of grid championships as can Texas A&M and Southern Methodist, the two teams which come together at Ownby Stadium in Dallas on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 7.

The Aggies were one of the charter members of the conference when it was formed in 1914 but the Mustangs gained admission two years later and, after a disastrous first year, have gone on to win four and a tie for one title while the Aggies hold the record with seven titles and one tie—that tie with S.M.U. in 1940. S.M.U. has played in the Rose Bowl (1936) while A&M appeared in the Sugar Bowl in 1940 and the Cotton Bowl in 1941 and 1942. The Ponies lost in their one appearance while the Cadets took two and lost one of their modern Classic games. A&M played Centre in what is now the Cotton Bowl in 1922 and also took that one to make it three of four post-season wins. To date A&M has won 11, lost 10 and tied 3 in the 24 games played with the Mustangs.

The A&M game will be the second conference game of the year for S.M.U. while it will mark the fourth loop start for the Aggies. Anyone can and does win the Aggies-S.M.U. game and this year promises to be no different than those in the past, so for those who like comparative scores of the past, here they are:

Senator Says Maritime Commission Has Robbed Americans of Millions

(An INS Summary from the Daily Texan)

Senator George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) Thursday charged that "American taxpayers have been virtually robbed of untold millions" by "rank incompetence" of the Maritime Commission, of which Rear Admiral Emory S. Land is chairman.

In a letter to Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass.), chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, Aiken, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments, urged that promotion of Land to the rank of vice-admiral be postponed, pending an investigation of his record.

Walsh has pending in the Senate a bill to promote Land. Aiken said he was not acquainted with Land, only that he knows Land is chairman of the Maritime Commission and as such should be held fully responsible for the acts of the commission.

By consent of the Senate, Aiken inserted into the Congressional Record a copy of his letter to Walsh. The letter called Walsh's attention to a report on the Tampa Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., by Comptroller George Lindsay Warren.

This report, Aiken said, showed that a reappraisal of the company's property was made fixing value of the land at $1,253,242, and plant and equipment at $1,838,848.67, making a total reappraisal valuation of $3,092,090.67, although prior to the reappraisal the land had been carried on the books of the company at a value of $195,218, and the plant and equipment at $1,066,311.47. "It is also to be noted," Aiken wrote, "that George B. Howell, the trust officer of the Exchange National Bank of Tampa, Fla., one of the creditor banks, and who later became sole stockholder, and president of the new company, had previously stated in a letter to the Secretary of State at Tallahassee, Fla., that the land was not worth the back taxes of $57,000.

"Thus, the Maritime Commission, which, according to its chairman, was wholly familiar with the property, permitted a reappraisal to be made boosting the value of the land, plant and equipment from $1,261,528.47 to $3,092,090.67, or an increase of $1,830,561.20.

"This very questionable reappraisal was apparently indulged in to justify further financial assistance to a practically insolvent company.

"The two reports (on the Tampa Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. and the Woteman Steamship Corporation) describe transactions wherein approximately $4,000,000 of the taxpayers' money has been dissipated.

"In fact, these transactions appear to go beyond the realm of dissipation. They smell to high heaven of rank incompetence and collusion with private interests, for which the Maritime Commission and its chairman should be held accountable.

President Roosevelt has shelved indefinitely proposals for compulsory regimentation of the nation's manpower for war industries, according to union labor spokesmen who conferred with him Thursday.
