hind Texas' Roy McKay. . . Willie Zapala, who put on another fine exhibition Saturday, finally broke into the scoring Column . . . he has three touchdowns and three extra points to his credit. . . Congenial Bill Davis, sports writer for the Baylor Lariat, felt very proud of himself on Friday the day before the Bear-Texas fracas when he went on to call this writer all kinds of names for referring to his beloved Bruins as a "lucky" team and contending that luck would run out against Texas it was a pretty nifty speech, Mr. Davis, but decidedly in vain, don't you think so now? . . . I'm sure Billy feels apologetic after his blast and we graciously accept that apology. . . I'm also sure most Aggies agree that we were lucky to win the title last year and I have yet to hear anyone deny that fact but Davis thinks otherwise and declares we were bragging continually. As for Baylor being lucky in their games against TCU and A. & M. the Texas game only went on further to prove that fact. . . And I further contend that they will be lucky as "hell" if they can win the rest of their games. . . For a while it seemed as if their luck would hold out and go on to win the championship which, undoubtedly would give this conference the "cheese" champ of them all. . . Oh well, such is life, some got it and some haven't, eh, Billy? . . . Word comes from Randolph Field that Sam Rankin, former Aggie center, has received his wings. As most of you remember, Sam was the center of a "Twelfth man" plea by Coach Homer Norton last year. . . he became ineligible at the start of the season, leaving the Cadets but three centers, all of whom were unproven. This caused Norton to turn to the corps for a pivot man but Dub Sibley came through in fine fashion so the coach's plea was withdrawn. . .

During the period from 1940-42, members of the teaching staff of Wayne University college of medicine presented an average of 29 papers per year before the ten national societies in the preclinical medical fields.

Preston Foster, Patricia Morison and Albert Dekker are featured in "Night in New Orleans," showing at the Campus Theatre today and tomorrow. Foster and Dekker play rivals on the police force, with Dekker attempting to pin a murder rap on Foster. Also active in the general excitement of finding the real killer are Charles Butterworth, Cecil Kellaway, and Jean Phillips.

MEANDERINGS

Dance committee didn't know until yesterday that the orchestra is colored. What would have happened if provisions had been made to keep the band in a dormitory, with the committee still thinking his was a white orchestra?

Those that like solid jive may find it nearly any afternoon around six over at the Sailor's Recreation Hall. The Gobs have a fine combo that boast men who have previously played with some of the big boys. Drop around some time.

Growing in popularity each week Aggie Pickins is fast becoming one of the largest recording shows in the Southwest. Extremely unique and styled to fit the trend of the Aggies and their favorite musical selections. Pickins takes a cross section of Aggie opinion and presents this opinion musically. A box is installed on the bulletin board of the Academic Building and if you are interested in winning a pass to the Campus Theater just drop in your choice of the three top tunes of the campus. Who knows, you might win next week. It's easy. For instance, last week the top tune on the campus was White Christmas with Praise the Lord, ect, and Serenade in Blue coming in for their share of the honors.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

"There Are Such Things" by T. Dorsey a beautiful ballad that is headed for the Hit Parade. Another former leader of the Aggeland Orchestra is taking the fatal step next Monday when Topsy Pearce flies down from Dayton Angus as the Mrs. Topsy is the boy that brought the Aggeland out of a four slump and made a real band out of a heretofore commercial combo. Here's wishing the best to the best.

Next week this corner is going to offer something a little different with a revue of Harry James and his orchestra who are now appearing at the Hotel Lincoln in New York. To tell you the truth this column will be submitted in a contest for the best column written on Harry James and his style. The winner, which will be taken from one of the college papers over the country, will receive a complete weekend in New York City, with transportation, deluxe accommodations and meals, and entertainment at the Lincoln, all expenses paid. So stick with me, will you?

That's thirty for now and I'll see you in Houston.

these boys missed the Allen game because of injuries, but Thursday against Rice they will be in there ready to go. Assisting Baty, White, Flanagan, and Daily in the Fish backfield will be such boys as Hal-tom, Zock, and "Butch" Butchofsky, ex Ysleta High School star. The Fish line, coached by Poppa Wesson and Bill Buchanan, former Cadet stars, has yet to be dented this season. The only touchdown scored against the Fish this fall has been via the air route. Stalwarts of the forward wall are a couple of guards, Hans Neumann of Port Arthur, and George Strohmeyer of McAllen. Others showing up well in the line are Roland Phillips, tackle from Pampa, Ed Wright, 227 pound tackle from Dal-

Teaching Modern War Requires More Highly Trained Men

Evidence that it takes university trained men to teach the science of modern war is found in Uncle Sam's newest war college at San Angelo Bombardier School. With only a small proportion of its future officer personnel reported in for duty, there are nevertheless over eighty degrees represented in its teaching and administrative staff.

There are five instructors with degrees of Ph.D. and an equal number with the degree of M.A. At least one has a diploma from Sorbonne University in Paris.

There are several Bachelors of Laws and Masters of Science. The balance are about evenly divided between Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science.

Lt. Colonel Harry Crutcher, Jr., Director of Training at the bombardier school, pointed out yesterday that the job of teaching the deadly art of the air forces bombardier calls for much the same qualities required in teaching any exact science.

"An appreciation of the pupil's point of view, a thorough knowledge of the subject and an understanding of teaching techniques are the basic requirements here, as in any college," he said.

"There is a major difference, however. The students here—cadets—undergo the most intensive course of study ever scheduled. They don't coast along for a week or two and then cram just before an examination. They cram every day—Sundays and holidays included—for thirteen weeks. Our instructors, who are comparable to college professors, must know how to pour out the maximum information that a group of students can absorb, without ever exceeding that maximum."

Check Shows That 27 Aggies Have Been Awarded Decorations Thus Far in War

Figures released by the War Department recently show that a total of 2250 soldiers, sailors and marines have received decorations for their services in the current war.

A check-up with the headquarters of the Association of Former Students of Texas A. & M. showed that they have records of 27 men who have won awards and one man, Major Hervey H. Whitfield, of Dallas, has been decorated twice. He won a Distinguished Flying Cross and then an Oak Leaf Cluster, signifying a second medal, for his action in the Australian theater of war.

Highest medal won by any Texas Aggie was the Distinguished Service Cross awarded to Major General George F. Moore, commander of Corregidor, who received the medal before the fortress surrendered. Only 24 such medals and two Oak Leaf Clusters have been awarded so far the report shows.

Aggies, so far as is known, have collected 11 Distinguished Flying Crosses; 1 D.F.C. Oak Leaf Cluster; 1 Navy Flying Cross; 5 Silver Stars; 2 Soldier's Medals; and several Orders of the Purple Heart and many citations from their commanding headquarters.

Latest estimates show that over 6500 former students at the college now are on active duty and on all fronts in the army, navy and marine corps and that a total of 15 now rank as generals.

Aero Department Receives Notice Of Credit by ECPD

Gibb Gilchrist, dean of the School of Engineering, has received notice that the curricula of the department of aeronautical engineering has been accredited by the Engineers Council for Professional Development and now is one of the 14 such accredited departments in the United States.

The department now ranks as the largest in the country with 726 of the 3478 students now in the School of Engineering enrolled in aeronautical engineering under Dr. Howard Barlow. During the semester of June 1-Sept. 19, a total of 525 took the course.

Dr. Barlow's department of aeronautical engineering now is the only one accredited by the E.C.P.D. in the Southwest and is one of the three in the South, Georgia Tech and University of Alabama being the only other two south of the Mason-Dixon line.
