Field led the scorers with nine points. Other Artillery pointment were: C. J. Kallina, six points; M. L. Ott and T. P. Faulkner with four points each. Bill Wheeler and C. L. Brunson scored four and two points, respectively for the losing congregation.

The other match, between A Coast and B Infantry, was a more hotly-contested affair. The Infantry team trailed by a count of 11-4 at the end of the first half but came back strong to threaten in the last half. They accounted for nine points in the final period while the victors were held to a meager four. E. R. Stewart and G. E. Wilkins scored all of the points credited to the Coast team. Stewart made eight points while Wilkins scored seven. R. S. Hackney made seven tallies for the Infantrymen and E. W. Genter chalked up four points.

When the pictures do start coming in, the tiny task of making a myriad of plates begins—which is all the more fun because while each photo must be trimmed, some staffman invariably cuts somebody's head off, or his finger, or both as was the case this year.

Staff Takes Campus Shots

After the plates, all of the names and so forth must be typed out and marked, then the call for campus snapshots goes out to the corps. Only a few hundred of these are needed, and although they beg and beg, the Longhorn staff must take a day and a camera and run around snapping pictures.

Just about this time, a new promotion list, or distinguished student list comes out, so the names prepared previously must be revised—more fun!

All Want Vanity Fair Shots

If that isn't enough, nobody cares about getting their girl in Vanity Fair or the Senior Favorite section, so those deadlines must be extended. When the Vanity Fair pictures come back, every newspaper and magazine in the Southwest wants to borrow them, so that holds things up some more.

When the time comes that that is out of the way, the Aggeland and Sports sections must be made up. This takes about four hours per page for one man, and the entire staff must work from about 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.—the next day!

Well, just about that time everybody thinks things are about wound up, so the staff starts going to the picture show at night instead of working. Just as the final gun is about to be fired, some stupid outsider thumbs through the dummy and asks what these two empty pages are for. What empty pages? ??●●●!

So, you have to dig up something to fill up two empty pages right in the middle of the book.

Proof Must Be Read

You can then relax, or at least you may if you can relax and read proof at the same time. Just about the time all of the proof is read and you are down in the last galaxy of the freshman class, another stupid somebody wants to know what outfits those three fish are in. Those three right there? Yeah. Well, look in the student directory and find out. But I did, and they aren't in the student directory. What?! Yeeeee! Three extra freshmen, complete with pictures! And it's too late to stop them!

Well, you think there must be some mistake, but sure enough, the 1943 Longhorn will come out with three freshmen pictured and listed that don't wear fish stripes. Seems as though the staff got some sophomore pictures and imaginary names mixed up, so some wet-heads are coming out in the fish section under a purely fictitious set of names. The names? C. D. Elmwood, U. C. Grabb, and W. Oscar Overtown. Believe it or not!

to get your order in before January 1, 1943.

The Naval Recruiting party will be on the campus Wednesday, December 16, for the purpose of giving the examination and completing the enlistment of students under eighteen, who wish to join under the Navy V-1 Plan.

Those who have their papers ready should be at the Assembly Hall at 11 a.m. They will be given authorized absences while they are taking the examination. F. C. Bolton, Dean.

Backwashin' Around...

Have you seen the advertisement on page one of this week's Time Magazine? It shows the shape of things to come... don't miss it!... Classes definitely won't be dismissed today for the Christmas holidays... Battalion Editor Elect John Holman received the following telegram from home yesterday: Dear John, Just heard the news. Congratulations. We are proud of you. And incidentally, the boys around the Batt office are too... To the disillusioned Aggies: We saw Anne Gwynne and Martha O'Driscoll leaving at the S. P. depot this morning and they look pretty good without screen makeup. We had to look twice before we recognized them... Then there was the little moron who threw the cow over the cliff just to hear the Jersey Bounce. (ouch).

Parting Thought...

Many a sober-faced little lamb goes riding in the moonlight and comes home with a sheepish grin on her face.

The Aggie basketball team is having its troubles scheduling games... the team had a host of tilts lined up with San Antonio entries but it seems that those particular schedules have not as yet worked out... Anyway, Manning Smith is working on 'em... The new conference rule on freshman eligibility for varsity play probably won't see Texas University take advantage and use the first-year men in the Cotton Bowl against Georgia Tech... if Coach Bible does use one, he'll probably use Frank Guess, hard-hitting full-back of the Yearling team... UCLA showed a nice varied attack last Saturday against USC and will prove to be a much tougher opponent to Georgia than anyone suspects... Not hinting of an upset, mind you, but you never can tell... What say, Chicago Bears?

is waged against Japanese occupants of the Philippines by a crew of telephone linemen. Their purpose after capturing a plantation is to set up a counter-propaganda radio unit to stir the natives and keep resistance keyed up. Surrounded and sniped at, their water runs out. Men are killed by the mistakes of others. Running a gauntlet of bullets, Miss Landis pops in with a planter. When the Japs attack again with rifle and bomb, Landis and the hero, Lloyd Nolan, are last seen broadcasting and no doubt inspired the natives. The lowdown: another good war picture.

Tuberculosis Increase Prevalent During War

Emphasizing the importance of cooperating with the national tuberculosis control program, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, today declared that war more than any other circumstance breeds the adverse conditions conducive to an increase in the prevalence of this disease.
