fall of 1940 as a "John Kimbrough" type of back, but coaches soon discovered his blocking possibilities and immediately had the big red-head running at the blocking back post. That year Andy Andricks was the line-plunging ace and the Fish team was in dire need of a blocker so the job was given to Roman.

No. 2 Blocker

The following year, with the graduation of Jim Thomason and the resignation of Dick Skarke, ace blocking back, who suffered a "trick" knee, the blocking back duties were heaped upon Willie Zapalac and Roman, of course. He was right behind big Will and played in a few pre-season games. Roman's presence also left the field open for Zapalac to do his favorite job, that of carrying the Student employees are also reminded that they are expected to obtain cards from this office showing re-assignment to their jobs for the coming year.

mail, but, alas, all this was only too good to be true.

Roman was doing all the good until he suffered what appeared at first a simple charley-horse. Red was playing safety in a punt-return drill and on returning one of the boots he was hit hard, one of the tacklers falling across his knee. At first it was not regarded serious but it was soon found out that he was the victim of a "trick" knee. In other words, his knee would continually pop out of place and even an operation didn't fully cure it.

Gets Job

And so the Ags lost a fine football prospect, but because of his love for the game, Roman, along with Dick Skarke, the other "trick knee" artist, requested Coach Homer Norton to give him a job which was near to his favorite sport. Norton then assigned both to the training room, with Roman in charge of the medicine table, thus originating the "Benzoin Kid."

Since receiving that job, Roman has carried a big load for Coach Lil Dimmitt, who took over freshman football coaching duties last fall. "Ask me for benzoin," says Red, "and I'll give it to you in doses. We've got everything down at the gym—athletes, equipment, tape, sun-lamp, and of course, benzoin."

Enjoys His Work, But—

Roman enjoys his work to the utmost, but at times he can be seen watching the football boys with a sort of regret—regret that he wasn't there right amongst them. He is the object of many razzings down at the gym but each and everyone always has a good word to put in for the popular red-head. The fact of the matter is that all the athletes regard Roman as one of their own.

Yessir, the ole gym will be a dull place when Red Roman leaves Aggieland but until then the "Benzoin Kid" will have a soft spot in every athlete's heart!

night... Coach Hub McQuillan of the TCU team formerly coached here and he knew full well the famous exploits of the Aggie "twelfth man," so he instructed his quint to don ear-muffs in order to avoid noise... Apparently, that's not the only thing that the objects accomplished for it was apparent that the Frogs couldn't even hear their own signals much less the noise of the galleries... Incidentally, Hub didn't have any alibi after the game and praised the Aggies to the heavens... "They were really good," Mac commented to the writer following the tussle, "it was a championship club that played us Saturday night, at least for that day"... Genial Lil Dimmitt, the Aggie all-around coach was up to his old tricks Saturday afternoon... Lil was seen conveying a number of prospective college football stars and was he slinging the hash... Anyway, the youngsters were pretty well convinced where they'd go to college next February or next September... Note to the A&M basketball squad: Don't underrate Baylor, fellas, they've got a pretty fair ball club and besides, they're tough as nails at Waco—at least that's what Coach Norton says and he ought to know... Just in case I forget I do want to comment on the splendid job turned in by Dusy

PLAYOFFS

Artillery will carry off the honors in Class A football. Playoffs in two other Class A sports are under way, but will not reach the final stage for another week or so. These are Class A Tennis, which is in the quarterfinals; and Class A Basketball, which is in the semi-finals. Semi-finalists in the latter are F Infantry, B A, A FA, and D Replacement Center.

Two of the Class B sports are also still in the playoffs. The class B Volleyball matches are in the finals and the Class B football playoffs are in the eighth-finals. In the volleyball finale the A Coast Artillery club will tackle the F Field Artillery team. In their matches last week the Coast crew was victorious over M Infantry by a 2-1 count, while the Field Artillery bunch was walloping E Replacement Center 2-0. Due to the fact that their semi-final victory was a bit more decisive the F FA squad will probably enter the finals the favorite, but in a game with such evenly matched teams as this, it can go either way.

Featured in the A Coast line-up are such players as Pickens, Masingil, Stewart, and Henry. Also on the Coast squad are Wilkin, Andrus, Smylie, Ranson, and Edwards. Playing for F Field Artillery are Phelps, Williams, Wells, Buttrely, Leary, Suetenfuss, Jones, Jackson, Cherry, and Autrey.

A definite date for this contest has not been announced, but according to Mr. W. L. Penberthy, head of the Physical Education Department, it will be played as soon as possible.

from time to time with R. O. T. C. students who have completed all work except the prescribed summer training for their senior year. A group of such students from the Carnegie Institute of Technology is scheduled to report as Officer Candidates in January.

Several courses have been added to the curriculum in order to present more outdoors exercises demonstrating classroom subjects. In addition to the field exercise which was recently added to the course, a 6-hour night map problem is being presented for basic students. Two full days have been added to the basic signal communication course for intermediate students in order to give them practice with field radio nets and field wire nets.

The additional 24 class-hours were added to the course by reducing the time which was formerly allotted for processing, without revising any of the existing courses. A total of 679 class-hours of instruction is presented to all officer candidates at the present time.

The motor transport course for intermediate students has been revised to provide for 24 hours of classroom instruction and 4 hours of work in the field. Two hours of field work are devoted to convoy technique and 2 hours are spent on maintenance problems.
