—SMITH—

Graduated in '34

When Smith received his Bachelor of Science degree in Physics in the spring of 1934, the Centenary sports world suffered a severe blow for they lost a stellar athlete. However, Centenary's loss was A. & M.'s gain for Homer Norton had just signed a contract to come to A. & M. to head the sports tutors and he brought Manning with him to act as an assistant.

While Manning was coaching at A. & M. he was also enrolled as a special student to study chemistry. He studied in his spare time for the first five years of his stay here. Manning managed to get credit for all undergraduate chemistry offered and did two years of graduate work in that subject. All he lacked to receive his master's degree was the completion of his thesis which consisted of a long problem which he had worked on for a year and a half. However, the love bug came along and nipped his work in the bud.

Smith's Courtship

Here we will leave the usual course to tell of Manning's courtship and eventual marriage. In the spring of 1937 Manning attended the annual Cotton Ball, a gala affair on the pre-war A. & M. campus. (All this was before gas rationing, tire rationing and sugar rationing, etc.) At this dance he met Miss Juanita Cowser of Junction, who, incidentally, was one of Aggie's dates for the dance. After this Manning did not see her again for quite some time. In fact, he didn't see her until the Cotton Ball of '38 rolled around. He attended this dance and the acquaintance was renewed.

This time he did much better. He made a date with her for the Thanksgiving holidays. The situation must have improved rapidly as three weeks after Thanksgiving Manning and Miss Cowser were making plans for their marriage. (There is now a younger Smith, Manning DeWitt, to be explicit, who Manning says, "is going to be a real football player.")

Coached in Many Sports

During his years at A. & M. Smith has coached Aggies in practically every sport. Among those are varsity football, basketball, and tennis, and freshman baseball, basketball, and football. From 1934 until its discontinuance in June, 1939, Manning managed the freshman athletic house which was operated for fish athletes.

At the beginning of last football season Manning was given the assignment of scouting all football opponents of A. & M. Previous to that job, he had charge of taking motion pictures of all Aggie football games, both at home and away from school. Another extra chore handled by Smith is that of Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 102 of College Station and Cubmaster of the local Cub Pack. This is another outlet for one of his greatest desires—working with and instructing young boys.

For his 1943 varsity basketballers, Smith has much praise. He feels that he has a wonderful

Tough Army Recruiting Sergeants Stuck By Questions of WAAC Prospective

Old Army recruiting sergeants are going to have to learn some new answers to satisfy the questions of women contemplating an abrupt about-face into Army life.

If you don't believe it, ask Pfc. Erwin W. Kandeler, in charge of the W.A.A.C. Recruiting Station in Bryan.

Men have known for thousands of years, almost instinctively, about all the little personal changes they must make when joining armies. Not so women, Pvt. Kandeler has discovered. Military service to women is now and completely strange. Every item is doubtful, and they want to know all the answers before they take the plunge.

Army recruiters are learning to assure women that they will not have to cut off long, precious locks, that they may use lipstick and other cosmetics in moderation; that they may wear unobtrusive rings like wedding rings (no showy stones); that they may have dates with anyone they choose, as long as they do not violate regulations of the post to which they are attached.

A great many women wish to know if they may smoke in the WAAC. The answer is yes. Applicants also ask if they must remain constantly in uniform. To this the answer is no. When off duty, WAACs may dress in civilian clothing and be just as feminine as they like.

Women are, of course, highly interested in the fitting of the uniforms issued, and in the number and quality of garments. It is a good thing for the current WAAC recruiting drive that recruiters can assure them that every care is taken to see that they are fitted trimly and neatly, and that every bit of equipment is of fine quality.

They are particularly anxious about social affairs provided and sponsored by the Corps. The answer to this one is weekly dances, frequent appearances of big-time radio shows, camp movies and all types of game equipment in the recreation rooms.

Here are some other typical samples: May I take my radio or electric phonograph with me? Yes if it's not too big. There are electrical outlets, however, only bunch of boys to coach and his prediction is, "if we can keep the team together we will have a good team—not a great team but one that gets in there and hustles all the way. We will suffer defeats but I feel that we will win our share of the matches."

One of Four Coaches
Smith is one of the four remaining regular Aggie coaches; the others being Homer Norton, Lil Dimmitt, and Bill James. An enormous load is piled on the shoulders of this quartet who have to make all sorts of shifts to take care of the shorthandedness of the coaching staff. Manning can always be counted on to be in the thick of things—always taking care of his share of the work and coming back for more. Here's wishing good luck with all the trimmings to Manning Smith, a swell coach and a grand guy!

off with their shooting and guarding in last Wednesday's game with Baylor, but things might be different tonight. The Aggies have been very weak in the free throw department. In the T. C. U. game, the Cadets made 3 out of 14, and the Baylor game, 6 out of 15. Free day-by-day extras must stand and sing with the others, although they may never have heard of Texas A. & M. until they walked into the studio that morning.

—REFUND—

College officials and national government officials continue to urge students to remain in school as long as possible, and that the plan to refund unused fees here at A. & M. is a move to assist students who might remain in school if they do not have to risk losing their fee by being called out early in the semester.

—ARMY-NAVY—

a notch over the Whites' ball-toters. You'll see many familiar names such as Bill Compton and Bill Thomas, both who have seen some varsity squadmen experience, Vance Carrington, the star of last year's Maroon victory, Earl Bemus, Laddie Licka, Oscar Turner, and many others. There is plenty of speed, namely Compton, plenty of power, namely Thomas, and plenty of passing from the rifle arm of Carrington.

Maroons Have Line Stars Too
Though the Maroon line does not measure up to the White forward wall, nevertheless, there are some boys on that line who can go places. These include David Schmidt, a boy who Coach Homer Norton has already invited out for spring training, John Knight, star center of the 1941 freshman team, Lacy Wheeler and Charles Schaedel, star linemen of the Maroons last year, Louis Buck, over-sized tackle and many others.

Indications are that a large crowd, including senior ring dance celebrationists, will attend this interesting fray, which, as mentioned before will star on the dot at 3 o'clock.
