"Halt, who dat?" It's all over the Squadron. Some of the Misters have had some rare tales to tell the morning after the night before's guard duty. While standing by the bulletin board just after the new list was posted, I heard someone say, "I don't mind guarding something that needs guarding, but who, who I ask, would think of trying to steal Law Hall?" The best tale of all was reported Thursday morning. It seems that a tactical Staff Sergeant was trying to get to his room in Puryear Hall Wednesday night and after several attempts to get through Squadron III's vocal wall of halts, the Sarge came back to A/S Elek, the Sergeant of the Guard, pleading and begging Mr. Elek to escort him to his room so he could get some sleep.
