with a first-class nose dive into Mother Earth. It is really surprising to see how fast the sky can rotate, when observed from a prone position.

We sometimes wonder when the Civil War will end. Personally we have little interest in it, having come from west of the Rockies where the schoolbooks say it ended in 1864, but since coming to Texas we find that it is still being vigorously fought, with the Rebels holding a strong defensive position, and the Yankees making periodic sorties against them. The main battles are fought at night, between the hours of C. Q. and lights out.

We realize, gentlemen, that you are anxious to get back to your beloved (?) books, so we'll trouble you no more. Farewell, and may the gods be with you on the next physics test.

5th Company Through Museum

Taking advantage of the many interesting visiting spots of College Station, Captain McDaniel's men of the fifth company have scheduled a visit through the A. & M. Museum. The trip commences at 1400 and Curator Hesse of the Museum will explain the history of the many exhibits.

Poet's Corner

The A. S. T. P.
By E. J. BARRY

I
Take down your service flag, Mother,
And fear no more for me.
I'm not in the Army, Mother,
I'm in the A. S. T. P.

II
Weep no more for your son, Mother,
Sigh no more for your boy;
Your son is in college, now, Mother,
Let your heart sing out with joy.

III
"Tis a training school," they say,
Mother,
Fear no more for my plight;
I'll never see foreign service, Mother,
As long as there's WACS who can fight.

IV
And when the war is over, Mother,
I'll be in the Sophomore Class;
For others were out in the fight,
Mother,
While I fought books in class.

V
Take down your service flag, Mother,
And fear no more for me
I'm not in the Army, Mother,
I'm in the A. S. T. P.

Stork Bombs Lt. Williams

Lt. and Mrs. Wm. Williams announced the arrival of Terry Lee Williams, September 7, at 1555.
This makes boy number two for Lt. Williams, Adjutant for ASTU 3800, and the papa has been officializing it by passing out cigars by the handful.(?)
Mrs. Williams and Terry Lee are doing nicely, thank you.

Ministry of Propaganda

By LOMAX

Following an extended review of the rumors prevalent in this Co., we have concluded that: 1) as an effective propaganda machine, Herr Goebbel's staff is a flop; 2) the men in this Co. should be awarded the U. D. C. (Undistinguished Service Cross) for out-rumoring the Axis.

A typical cross section of the conversation here (taken under standard conditions of atmosphere and temperature, of course) reveals the following, to wit:

The A. S. T. P. is training us duty. (S?)

To release WAC's for combat duty.

We must pick Brazos County cotton for one week to qualify for a two week furlough.

The Air Corps men are brainy not brawny. They never swing their arms while marching for fear of becoming muscle-bound.

Three U-Boats are at large in the Brazos River.

If you flunk M. T.—no furlough in October.

The government has too many Jeeps on hand, therefore, they will be made available for A. S. T. P. trainees, applications available in orderly room.

Each "D" shortens that October furlough four days.

Occasionally the cooks get the army's and navy's meat mixed. (Explanation of why we can't get decent "bullneck" occasionally.)

There is a proposal under consideration in higher headquarters to let the A. S. T. P. off at ten on Saturday mornings. Reason—so we can get a headstart on the navy and marines.

Now, don't YOU think that the Goebbel's Gang are small time operators?

Ed. Note—Above mentioned subs have since been sighted, salvaged, and sunk by local C. A. P. planes. Au revoir!

Reveille needs your money. Get that $30 in now.

Heifetz, Jorden in Pitcher's Dual

With the Officers' Club garnering four hits to 3 for the 1st Co., the ASTP officers eked out a one to no victory over the 1st company team. The win, the third for the officers, showed the ASTP company teams that their officers have fielded a team capable of playing real ball with much strength in every position and a battery combination of Captain McDaniel and Lt. Heifetz that is hard to top. 1st baseman Lt. Kelly started the winning fireworks in the fourth with his walk, stealing second he moved on to third on a bunt by Capt. McDaniel and came home when Jordan threw wild to first. Heavy hitter for the Officers was Lt. Arthur Jors who collected two singles for three trips to the plate. The 1st company muffed several scoring opportunities with two men dying at third and three while on second.

Next scheduled game for the 1st company will be Sunday night on Pickett Playground 6:00.

2nd Co. Picked To Win Track Fest

ASTP Companies will meet in an intra league Track meet Sunday afternoon at 2:00 on Kyle Field with the 2nd Company of former Aggies heavy favorites to take all events. The 2nd co. team has many veterans from the Aggie Track team and are in real form for the meet.

2nd Co. Gets Quartermasters

42 more Aggies have joined up with the fighting Second Company. They were juniors before being activated last spring, and now they have returned to Aggieland to finish the courses they were taking before entering the Army. The 42 men have been stationed in Wyoming taking everything from O. C. S. prep work to specialized truck drivers' courses. They were juniors in the QMCO before being activated. Welcome back to Aggieland, men.

That Babies May Live . . .

"Credit for the dramatic decrease in child mortality during the last quarter century belongs predominantly to the veterinary profession. For it is to practicing veterinarians, cooperating with the veterinarians of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, that America owes the recent announcement of "the practical eradication of bovine tuberculosis from every county and every state in the United States." It is to the veterinarians in production laboratories that we owe the purity of the products used in the cattle-testing campaign which eliminated this once common source of human tuberculosis. It is through the milk inspection work carried on by veterinarians that the purity of America's milk supply is guaranteed.

Thousands who under former conditions would have been doomed to death, now live in health through a robust maturity as a result of these endeavors."

CIRCLING

will make it that he needs a furlough so he can meet his unseen lover. I sure hope you get that furlough for more reasons than are stated here. As a last thought, Mr. Wajszynski, I was wondering if you have her picture and if you have, are you sure this is the one you're writing to!

The East Wing of ole Bizzell High was fairly quiet—very unusual isn't it Sarge? So I dropped over to the west wing and looked around a little. Several people want to know why Mr. Osborn was so thirsty at Nacogdoches last week end? Was it the company or was it a new way to meet people—through open windows? Mr. Fredrich Pratt's roommates want to know if Mr. Pratt caught any of those gremlins he was chasing last Saturday night? If you didn't, you sure used a lot of that ole potential energy trying.

Out of the Parish, Perry and Smith trio, it seems that only Mr. Smith was able to stay awake and watch the movie last Saturday night. How about that Mr. Smith?

Reveille has never let the Aggies down. Don't you let her down by not giving.

Personalities

Julian H. Thomas

At Tenaha, in the piney woods of East Texas, on Friday the 13th of September, 1918, was born a mere strippling of a boy, who came into a waring world, and who, 25 years later, was destined to reach adulthood and receive a degree in veterinary medicine in time to be an active participant in a second world-wide war. Thus was the lot of Julian H. Thomas, along with many others of us, but the pertinent fact is that he is one of the few of us graduating this semester—and so we hereby pay tribute to him and wish him luck.

"Swamp Kid" Thomas lived only the first thirteen months of his life in Tenaha, and then his family pushed deeper into the swamps of East Texas to Port Arthur, where the remainder of his childhood was spent. There Julian spent his spare hours hunting and fishing in the South's greatest Fish and Duck territory. After dodging cooton mouts, alligators, and wading swamps so many years, it is no wonder that our Julian has "webbed feet." If you don't believe that he has, just ask him and he'll be glad to show you. However, don't ever get him started on how big the mosquitoes are down there, or he'll tell you about the time a couple of big 'uns caught up with him in a swamp. The only thing that enabled his get-a-way was the fact that the two Dipterous insects (family Culicidae, tribe—Anophelini, genus—Anopheles, speciosa—Transporti) got to arguing over whether they should eat him on the spot or carry him to dry ground.

During his high school days, Julian's father went into the dairy business, and it was at that time that Julian first developed his interest in veterinary medicine.

In the Fall of 1937, Julian became "Fish" Thomas of "D" Troop Cavalry, and thus began his career at Texas A. & M. College, in the days when freshman knew the true significance of the titles "Fish" and "Frog." After one and one half years of pre-veterinary school, Julian dropped out of college for a similar length of time to work for Dr. Paul P. Boriskie, in the latter's veterinary hospital, in Port Arthur. With this valuable experience behind him, J. H. came back to A. & M. with a better understanding of his professional field, and with a renewed determination to go through veterinary school.

While going to vet school Julian worked one and one half years for the department of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery, one semester of which was spent as "Night Dean"—living at the hospital. Needless to say, the experience and contacts made pursuant to that job were valuable.

When the war is over, Julian expects to go into a general farm animal practice on the coastal plains of southern Louisiana. There live many people of French extraction with whom Julian is familiar and he knows how to get along with them.

As for the fair sex, Julian admits that he is partial to those little Louisiana "Cajun" gals. As he puts it, "They seem to have the right attitude."

Favorite Course: Operative Surgery (Could it be that you are sweating grade-points, Julian?)

Julian says that one of his greatest ambitions now is to come back to A. & M. after the war, when all of the boys are back in school, to see the Aggies beat hell out of Texas U. on Turkey Day.

The General Reveille Fund needs approximately $30 to have Rev's picture painted and the collar made. Contribute now so this can be done immediately.

Q. M. Review

By BILL SHORT

Forty-two men of the Fighting QMC are back on the campus again after an interval of three months in Wyoming at Ft. Francis E. Warren. Let me express the unified opinion of all the boys when I say that we are really glad to be back.

There is quite a bit of difference between basic training living conditions and A. & M. A. S. T. P. living conditions. When I stop to consider all the K. P., guard duty, living out of barracks bags, etc. we had in basic, and then compare it with what a nice, clean life we will have here at A. & M., I can hardly believe that our return is true. Really, it is a grand break for us all, and we are very glad to be back.

Having been on a little furlough for the past seven days, two of our boys slipped into the wedded stage. John Farr and Gilbert Turner are the lucky boys, and our congratulations and best wishes to them both. Rumors have it that B2 Isabel wets home to Tennessee and tied the knot, but no confirmation has been obtained from his as yet.

If anyone is interested, the QM is located in Dorm 11, fourth stoop in the 2nd S. T. Co.

SPORTS

Wednesday afternoon the 2nd Company basketball team romped to its 6th consecutive victory in the intermural race over 2nd Co. Aggies of Walton Hall to the tune of 22-12. This was by far the hardest-fought game of the season, and the first team to give the vets any competition, despite the fact that the only time our men find to play together is at the official games. After playing the first few minutes with reserves, a smooth-working combination made up of "Rope" Corley (The Arkansas Flash), Bob Weinberger, F. D. Prater, Milt Beerwinkle, and Art Hogge, soon brought the score into a substantial lead, TRACK:

Tomorrow is the big day of the A. S. T. P. track meet, and everyone seems to be looking forward to it with anticipation. All of the companies are anxious to carry away this meet, because in track and field events more than any other kind of athletics is all-around physical prowess proved. We of 2nd Co. are not so cocky about our chances as we were when we first challenged you other companies to a meet, because we are not in any better shape, comparatively speaking, than we were two or three months ago, since we have much less regular physical training per week than you army engineers do. However, we shall see.

Contribute to the General Reveille fund—and help save a soldier's life.
