Unbeaten Aggies-Frogs Clash in Nation's Top Game

Aggies Will Play NTAC On Kyle Field Saturday

Junior College Part Of A. & M. System; Have Strong V-12 Team

Arlington, Texas, Oct. 16.—For the first time in history, two teams representing the A. & M. system of colleges, will meet each other in a grid battle this week.

On Saturday afternoon at Kyle Field, the North Texas Aggies, little brothers of the famed Texas Aggies, will collide in a game that will see two of the state's strongest grid clubs in action.

Thanks to the Naval V-12 program which established a unit at NTAC last summer, the North Texas Aggies have one of the strongest football aggregations in the state. They have 12 members of last year's TCU squad, 4 former Ponies from SMU, 4 outstanding players from Texas Tech and several from East Texas State Teachers College and universities and junior colleges in the far west.

Starting line against the Aggies Friday night will average more than 200 pounds. Available for center duty will be Jim Sid Wright, 205 pounds former SMU guard and James "Baldy Jim" Woodfin, TCU's great center of last season who weighs 200 pounds.

Probable starting guards will be a couple of three-year veterans from Texas Tech: Doyle Caraway, chosen on last year's Little All-America team, and James Reed who is considered by many to be equally as good.

Adriance To Speak At Conference

Dr. Guy W. Adriance, head of the Department of Horticulture of A. & M. will present the first address at a dehydration conference to be held at Longview October 20 according to an announcement made today by the Horticulture department.

Projects that are being carried on by various agencies of the A. & M. College in relation to dehydration of vegetables will be summarized by Dr. Adriance at the opening address of the three-state meeting. Dehydration work for the most part has been sponsored by Department of Horticulture food products laboratory of the college, but work done at the Angelton Experiment Station number three will also be reviewed by Dr. Adriance at the conference.

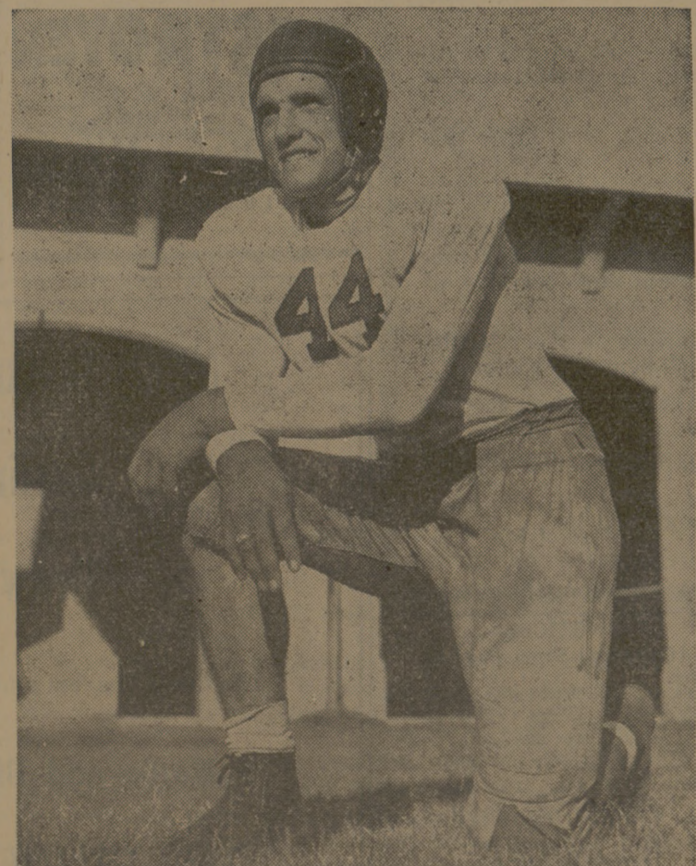

Vitamin Analysis work carried on in the nutrition laboratory of the College Animal Husbandry Department and the Division of Chemistry of the Experiment Station will also be brought out by Dr. Adriance.

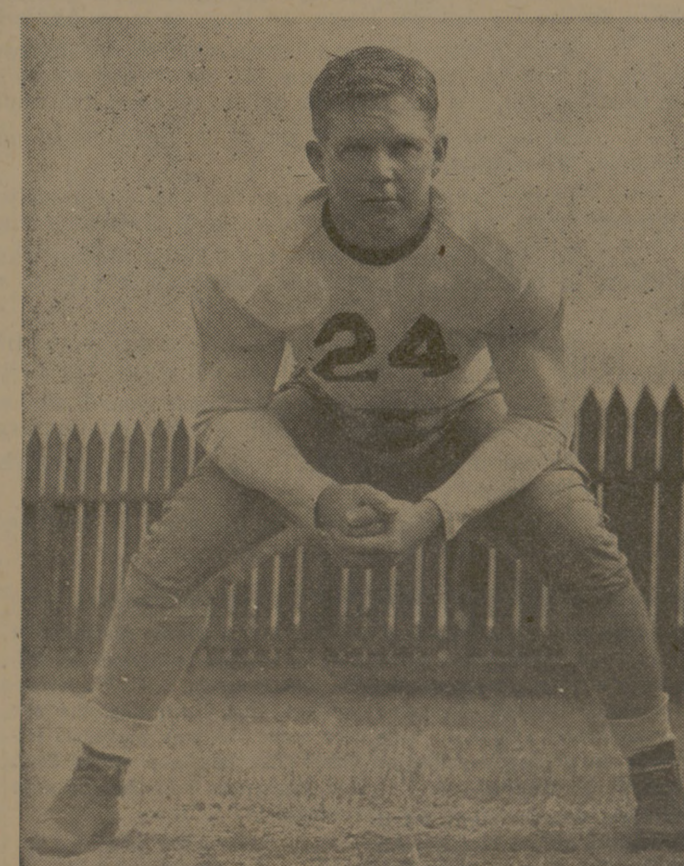

BOB LEE (BUTCH) BUTCHOFSKY from Ysleta, weighs 170 pounds, and bears No. 33 in Aggie backfield. You can get your bottom dollar that the Frogs won't get very far if they come his way.

JAMES L. (BABE) HALLMARK comes from Kilgore and weighs 160 pounds. Babe can be from under No. 12, and he can be expected to cause the Frogs plenty of misery during those sixty minutes.

MARION D. (DON) FLANAGAN, from Sweetwater, he weighs 173 pounds, and will wear No. 44 to run through the Frogs line. Flanagan is a flashy wingback and can be expected to give the Frogs plenty of trouble.

STANLEY S. (BING) TURNER has established a good punting record and he will cause those Frogs plenty of worry when the Aggies start to kick those extra points. Bing is from Beaumont, weighs 200 pounds carries No. 24 for the Aggies.

Frog Field at Fort Worth To Be Scene of Thriller

Both Teams Seek to Remain Undefeated; Aggies Are Slight Favorites Over Frogs

By Harold Borofsky

Eyes of the football fans of the nation are directed upon Fort Worth today, for it is here that the 1943 "glorified high school" Texas Aggies are playing the yet unbeaten Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University. Perhaps the

Press Organization Selects Officers

The A. & M. Press Club held its initial meeting of the semester Wednesday night to select officers and to make plans for the year's work. Andy Matula was named as the new president of the organization and Charles Murray selected as vice president. Archie Broodo was named the organization's secretary and Dave Seligman treasurer. H. Sylvester Boone retiring president was selected as the club's parliamentarian.

The club was organized this semester with a membership of twenty, made up of the members of the Battalion staff. Representatives from each of the services will be tendered membership in the club, it was stated.

Objectives for the year's work were set up by the organization and plans were made for the club social activities. A committee consisting of Steele Nixon, David Seligman and Archie Broodo was appointed by the president to study the constitution of the organization and its original charter and to make recommendation for amendments. The club was originally chartered on the campus and the constitution set up in 1915.

The club will meet twice monthly it was decided, with called meetings as often as necessary to carry on the work.

Parnell Represents College at Dallas

E. D. Parnell, of the Poultry Husbandry Department of A. & M., will represent the College in a regional meeting of Food Distribution Administration officials at Dallas October 18, according to an announcement made by the Poultry Husbandry Department.

Primary purpose of the meet attended by egg dryers and freezers, extension and college poultry specialists from six states in the Southwestern region, is to discuss egg drying, freezing and storage problems facing the industry during the coming year. The conference is being called by L. J. Capelman, Regional Director of the FDA.

most amazing aspect of the game is that the preseason poll placed the Aggies near the bottom of the Southwest Conference list and most of the sports writers that cared to look the Cadet team over allowed them a maximum of two or three games in the win column. Yet, to this date Coach Homer Norton's aggregation of high school boys has remain undefeated and untied in three games and has piled up a total of 89 points to their opponents 19, the last of these victories being over the highly touted Tigers of Louisiana State University who, until they played the Aggies were untied and undefeated and held a victory over the mighty Georgia eleven. The Aggies have made most of the smart boys tear their hair and wonder just what was going on down at College Station when they began to prepare for this season.

The Aggies owe their success to a number of things, but to really understand just why they are doing so well one must know the whole story from start to finish, so here it is. When the summer of 1943 rolled around, Coach Homer Norton and his assistants, Lil Dimmit, Bill James, and Manning Smith were fairly glum about football prospects for this fall. There were no returning lettermen and no returning squadman from last year's team and all they had to work with was a few boys from the Freshman team of 1942. Then the influx of high school boys started. One by one they came to Aggie-land; some at the beginning of this summer season and some in the middle of the season, but they did come. When September rolled around the team had been doing fairly well in their light scrimmage, but the prospects still looked dim. But all this time the Aggie coaches were not idle. They made contacts with many of the outstanding high school stars who had been working during the summer and offered them the prospect of coming to A. and M. and playing on the Cadet team while getting that valuable schooling that will be of so much importance to them later on.

And so, slowly but surely, the team that was to represent the "Fighting Texas Aggies" came into being. It was only after all the boys were assembled that the real task began; the task of molding boys from all sections in the area who had never seen each other (See AGGIES, Page 4)
