INVEST IN VICTORY—BUY WAR BONDS

The Lowdown on Campus Distractions

By David Seligman

—AMERICANS—

This did not last long. Soon the telegrams began to come in. The grocery man's deliver boy that had enlisted in the marines was killed on Wake Island. Gen. George Moore and the class of '40 were reported captured on Bataan. Mrs. Jones twin boys had both gone down with the West Virginia. We all went to church when services were held for our young preacher who had left as chaplain for the men in Coregidor. Our hearts ached for best friends, fathers, brothers and we mourned with sweethearts, young widows, fatherless children. All this and more made each of us realize the effect of the horrible phenomena that was upon us. And each time we felt the prick of the inflamed scar on our back we swore to do more.

Yet while we hesitated to buy bonds with the extra money we made our boys paid their lives. We did not give enough—they gave their all. And why?

Each man had his own special reasons for giving his life. Maybe it was just all the things that make an American an American. For a farm and girl in the Connecticut hills. For the plantation in Georgia that stood for posterity and security. For keeping the plains of Texas stocked with cattle, not beasts. For Christmas carols floating across a silent campus. For hot, still days to lie along the seashore and be content. And surely as each of them fought they envisaged the common deal of a better world in which their children might live to prosper.

Nevertheless, they fought as we are fighting—to drive a fanciful race with their heathen ideas from the face of the earth. On this day, two years ago, the Empire of Japan signed its death warrant. Our men have not died in vain for—with the help of God and the pain of a barbaric thrust still in our back—WE WILL WIN THIS WAR!

most important role of his life with all the ability and tact that years of villainous parts have given him. Tone is the young English tank driver who takes the place of a dead waiter in a small inn behind the German lines. After some investigation on the sly, he escapes to report his findings about the position of the German supply dumps which spell defeat for the German general. After some time when the picture has elapsed, Ann Baxter in the role of the daughter of the innkeeper, Timaroff, comes to love Tone. He promises her a colored parasol when he returns with the victorious British army after his escape. When he returns she has been killed by the Germans which adds a sad note to the end of the picture.

Shows for Service Men . . .

An All-Service Show produced by and for service men is now the rage of the campus as far as entertainment is concerned. With a dull Sunday afternoon in store for many of the men who would have been unable to leave the campus before it was begun, an entertainment "to blow the blues away" was born. The second show proved to be as well-liked as the first one was; it as liked by both the Guion Hall audience and the listeners of radio station WTAW, which put the program on the air for the benefit of those who could not be present for the stage presentation.

For the men who make the show possible, a hearty thanks should be given. Without such workers, an uninteresting and dull day would be the fate of the men left on the campus. Although the show is supposed to be an All-Service Show, the people of the surrounding community can get plenty of enjoyment out of it by either listening over the radio or by attending the Guion Hall theatre. As one of the spectators said about it Sunday during the show, "It is one of the best things that has ever hit this campus."

Baptist Church Opens New Recreation Room

The First Baptist Church of College Station has just completed its recreation room. Every Saturday night there is usually a group that go there to read, talk, or play ping-pong. The room has a radio, victrola, and magazines, and soon it will have a piano. Many young people like to go there to read.

Daily vesper services are held on week day mornings at 7:25 o'clock. When you have some spare time, visit the new recreation room, and bring a friend. Make this YOUR recreation room!

New Revision of Forest Book Edited

How to study and recognize the principle forest trees of Texas is presented in the newest educational booklet prepared by the Texas A. & M. College Forest Service, "Forest Trees of Texas" which describes 145 of the state's trees, most of which are illustrated.

The fourth printing since 1928, the latest edition of this popular bulletin has been greatly revised over earlier numbers. It contains a complete index of both common

Tigers Clinch Bi-District Title in Defeating Mustangs

Consolidated Stamps
Marble Falls, 27-0
By Aerial Attack

Last Friday night, December 3, a strong Tiger team rolled over the Marble Falls Mustangs 27-0 to clinch the bi-district, 19 and 20, championship.

The Tigers started the ball rolling by scoring on a pass, Cashion to Carrol in the first 8 minutes of play. The Tigers scored their second touchdown on another pass Cashion to Carrol and Cashion converted after both touchdowns. In the second quarter Cashion hit pay-dirt from the 1 foot line, but failed to convert. In the third quarter Marble Falls started their offensive in earnest, but a strong Tiger line held the Mustangs scoreless. In the fourth quarter Cashion passed 25 yards to Carrol for the fourth touchdown and Cashion converted.

The most outstanding player on the team was Bobby Carrol who turned in a great offensive as well as a grand defensive game. Orchids go to the whole Tiger team for a grand game. They were not to win the bi-district championship for the second straight time and they got it.

Since Consolidated is a Class "B" school the fighting Tigers cannot go to regional. All they can do is to wait until next year and try to win again. Here's hoping that they can do it again.

of Nations as adviser on municipal and provincial government. However the Nazis forced him to leave China by threatening to recognize Manchukuo if he were not expelled.

Bauer's life gives him a good background for his talk and a great knowledge of what is needed in post-war Germany. Germany has now been enslaved by the Nazis almost eleven years. They have been living under wartime conditions all of this time. The damage done to their mental and moral senses is enormous. The reconstruction and reorganization of Germany as a peacetime nation will be a tremendous task for the Allies after this war. It will take a great knowledge of the things Germany needs to do a good job. Bauer will discuss the possibilities of a better Germany after this war.

Bauer has lived in America since he was expelled from China, making numbers of speeches on the German situation. He is widely acclaimed and sought after lecturer, and few are better qualified to discuss the pot-war problem than he.

AMERICAN HEROES
BY LEFF

The machine gun chattered defiance of the Japs. Their batteries tried desperately to silence it. In the end they did. When Private Peter Economopolos crept into the emplacement, the crew was dead. He manned the gun, resumed fire. Morrie shells lobbed toward him. The Japs had the range all right. Yet he kept firing until a shell wrecked the gun and wounded him. His country has recognized this Bataan exploit, awarding him the D. S. C. Will you recognize it with an extra Third War Loan Bond?
