What Is Your Reply?

When you pass other people on the campus or on the street, what do you do? Do you give out with the famous American "hello" or do you let go with a dirty look and go on without a word?

This is the second day of a new semester for many of the old Aggies. For a few this is the second day of a new stage in the educational process. There are others besides Aggies, and these are the servicemen who are using our educational facilities for the duration and faculty or college employees who make this campus their home during the day. The campus, then, is made up of several thousand people who, if they showed a better attitude toward each other, could make Aggieland a better campus to live and work on.

For many years, A. & M., Texas, the South, and, broadly speaking, the entire United States has had the name of being the friendliest nation in existence. There is no need for this to become a false statement, but it can be if too many people become as individualistic as they are prone to do.

Aggieland is now made up of men from every state in the nation. It is here that the friendly spirit of Americans could rise again. There is one simple remedy for this, and anyone can use it. This is to go out at the beginning of a new day with the resolution that you will speak to everyone you meet. This should apply to freshmen, upperclassmen, servicemen, faculty, administrative officers, and any others who might not fall in any of these classes. It won't hurt anyone to lend a little cheerfulness to the campus, and it will make those spoken to a little happier.

"It is impossible to separate Nazis and the German people. I don't like our appeals that Germany repudiates her leaders, because if the German people again change their government just to get an easy peace, we won't convince them that war doesn't pay. If that happens we may almost as well have lost the war," said the University of Texas' professor of government, Dr. John L. Mecham, recently, who believes that the kind of peace that is made after the war doesn't count so much as the way that peace is carried out.

War Prisoner Fund Grows as Drive Is Carried on By "Y"

Over $1,000 Raised By Men in Service for Their Buddies in PW Stockades

The War Prisoner Fund drive sponsored on the campus of A. & M. by the YMCA has passed the $1,000, it was revealed this morning by J. G. Gay, associate secretary of the local organization. The drive was started about two weeks ago among the service men and students on the campus to raise funds to supply educational and recreational material for the soldiers, sailors and marines of the United States Armed Forces in German prison camps.

Early reports from the drive indicate that the funds will reach nearly $2,000 before the campaign is completed. A tabulation of the results of the drive thus far indicate the following returns:

Air	189 - 131
Data	165 - 109
Rotc	155 - 95.00
Rotc Aggie Students	153.92
Army Specialized Training Units	659.51
Civilian and Faculty	26.00
Total	$1034.43

Donations from some of the Air Crew squadrons have not as yet been reported and also from the Aggie Corps. Navy and Marine units on the campus have not as yet been reported, it was stated.

M. L. Cashion, secretary of the YMCA on the campus, pointed out that this drive was made as a part of a national collegiate drive carried on by the World Student Service Fund branch of the Young Men's Christian Association and funds raised would be turned in to the national headquarters where they would be utilized toward extending service to American boys in the German prison camps. A direct contact has been made with the German branch of the organization and the German Government has granted permission for the WSSF to supply men with books, athletic and recreational equipment.

A large number of colleges and universities in the United States have agreed to permit credit hours to be allowed toward degrees in work studied in the German prison camps, provided instruction is done by a person holding proper degrees and in otherwise qualified to teach.

Staff and faculty members and civilians are urged to make contributions toward this cause. It was pointed out that in most prison camps the necessities of life are given to the prisoners, but nothing is provided for educational and recreational facilities. It is through this campaign sponsored by the YMCA that these factors may be given to American boys who will be forced to

A nickel for your thoughts!

One Spanish professor at the University of Texas gives nickels to students in his beginning Spanish classes who give him correct answers to his questions.

Thursday, speaking in Spanish, he approached a freshman: "Have you ever been to Venice?"

"Yes," she answered.

"Were you there in the eighteenth century?"

When the girl answered in the affirmative again, she received a shiny new nickel. Which all goes to prove that the healthy Texas climate really makes for a long life!

talist. He has read the minds of six presidents of the United States, and of many of the country's greatest psychologists. He claims no supernatural powers, declaring: "Any child of three can develop telepathic powers . . . with thirty years of practise."

He began to take serious notice of his amazing gift of telepathy when he was in his teens. He developed the novel habit of casually informing his parents after hearing a telephone or doorbell ring, of the identity of the caller. "Naturally they were amazed and dumbfounded", he says. Dunninger still dumbfounds an acquaintance by triumphantly announcing the caller's name before any words have been exchanged. He also has a highly developed knack of remembering telephone voices and once told a comparative stranger who called up: "I can hear a voice on the telephone and remember it for thirty years. . . call me back thirty years from now!"

spend the duration of the war in imprisonment. Mail your contributions directly to M. L. Cashion, secretary of the College YMCA, Campus, A. & M. College, College Station, Texas. Any amount will be acceptable and will go for a good cause in that it will bring relief and aid to some American boy who is imprisoned because he fought for your right to freedom and liberty.

Horses and Mules Now Obtainable On Farms

Large numbers of horses and a few mules are being disposed of by the War Department, and Texas farmers and ranchers who are interested can inquire for details to the Commandant, Remount Depot of Fort Reno, Okla., which is disposing of 3,900 head.

The Texas A. and M. College Extension Service has been notified that most of these animals are of the cavalry type, although some field artillery stock is included. Practically all are geldings, and ages run from six-year-olds to 20 years.

The Lowdown on Campus Distractions
By David Seligman

Everyone remembers Ted Lewis, his orchestra, his top hat, and "Is Everybody Happy?" all of which compose the main attraction of the Campus Theatre for Tuesday and Wednesday. Ted Lewis comes to the screen this time after a long time off the stage. It is an attempt at a vaudeville performance and is not rated very highly among movie critics. Michael Duane and Nan Gwynne are co-starred in the other lead roles.

Lowdown: "Is Everybody Happy?" will make all Ted Lewis fans happy.

nesday movie. Olivia DeHavilland, the princess, and Robert Cummings, the flyer, together with ever-funny Charles Coburn, make up the cast of "Princess O'Rourke." When DeHavilland makes an overdose of sleeping tablets on a plane, she cannot be awakened when the plane is forced to return to New York. Puzzled Robert Cummings takes Olivia to his apartment for the night. Then follows a series of delightful events as a couple of average American sweethearts. Of course, the outcome is marriage.

Lowdown: Excellent for both young and old.

Under the auspices of Town Hall, Joseph Dunninger, world-famed mentalist, will appear at Guion Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. This mental marvel has read the minds of six presidents and has performed before many audiences throughout the world. Everyone who sees this master-mind will leave the theater awe-stricken with his great psychological ability.

A beautiful princess from a war-torn European country and an American flyer make a smash hit in Guion Hall's Tuesday and Wednesday movie.
