

Aggie Cagers Play Rice Owls Tonight In Houston

By R. L. Weatherly

Baylor Writer Slanders Aggie Cagers; Invitation to Answer Column Accepted

Carl Hooper, sports editor of the Baylor Lariat, invited us to answer a recent column of that sheet in which he made several remarks referring to us; and he added additional remarks about the Aggies. Hooper said that the Aggies were out-yelled when Baylor played here in Aggieland by our own ASTP men. For Hooper's information the Aggie Corps had the misfortune of entertaining books for study of exams. They too, the ASTP is a yankee outfit and they would not yell for the Aggies if the Cadets played the Japs. It is true that there is an ASTP outfit on the campus composed of Activated Juniors, but we can assure Hooper that it was not them who did the yelling for the Baylor quint. Hooper went on to rub it in about the Aggie loss to Baylor, and came right out and asked us if we had a record book. And if we did to look up the score of the first Aggie-Bear game of this year. We do not need a record book to refresh our memories, and if we did we would quit writing sports. In this column Hooper made it plain that we were trying to make up for a sorry basketball team by ribbing him for not having a football team. We did not mean it that way. And anyway, the Aggies are far from having a sorry basketball team. It is true that they have not won a basketball game this season, but that can be explained. The Aggies do not have a letterman on the squad, whereas Baylor has Marlin Hicks, a letterman from last year, and several Navy men playing for them. To make up for their lack of experience the Aggies have spirit enough to have a basketball team and it is too bad we cannot say that for Baylor when football is the subject.

that "wartime demands have pushed the drain upon the forest 25 per cent above pre-war levels." Outlining "an effective forest program" for America, the Chief Forester asserted that "national-wide regulation of forest practices on private land is absolutely essential if needless destruction of productive growth is to be stopped. But," he added, "regulation should be supported by an expanded and accelerated program of public acquisition to relieve private ownership where conditions make this equitable or prudent. And regulation must be supplemented by better protection and by various aids to private owners." To implement forest regulation, he said new Federal legislation would be required. He suggested that this legislation should provide opportunities for both state and Federal action, and declared that "as a minimum" the new law must "prescribe standards for required forest practices and authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to determine whether practices adopted by the states conform to such standards, to inspect enforcement of state laws, and to take direct action where suitable state legislation is not enacted, and where enforcement of the practices established are not adequate." Watts announced that "the Forest Service is now planning to absorb thousands of men in forest work in the period of demobilization," the idea of the plans being "so that we may be ready with blueprints and organization required before it is time to put the men to work." Under Forest Service "Wartime Activities and Accomplishments," with much of the work done in cooperation with the Army, Navy, War Production Board, Office of Price Administration, or other war agencies, the Chief's report highlighted the following: The Alaska spruce log project, in which aircraft spruce is being rafted down to Puget Sound; the Emergency Rubber Project which up to last June planted 23,470 acres of guayule and processed 440 tons of high quality rubber; an experimental goldenrod program, involving 650 acres near Waynesboro and Savannah, Georgia, was also undertaken to carry on the artificial rubber experiments be-

Farm, Livestock Representatives Met Here Thursday

Conner Presides At Agriculture Meeting; Postwar Plans Made

Representatives of leading farm and livestock organizations discussed Texas postwar economics and other problems with Texas A. & M. members of the State Agricultural Postwar Planning Committee in an all-day meeting Thursday in the council room of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The following farm and livestock associations were represented: Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, Texas Jersey Cattle Club, Texas Guernsey Breeders Association, Texas Holstein Breeders Association, Texas Federation of Cooperatives, Texas Swine Breeders Association, Farmer's Union, Texas Farm Bureau Federation, Texas Home Demonstration Association, Texas State Grange, Texas Baby Chick Association, also officials of the Federal Farm Credit Administration, the National and Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association, and the agricultural press.

The forenoon meeting was under direction of A. B. Conner, director, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Introductory remarks were made by Dr. F. C. Bolton, acting president of Texas A. & M., and by Gibb Gilchrist, dean of the School of Engineering, and chairman of the Texas Postwar Planning Commission, for which the State Agricultural Postwar Planning Committee is acting as a fact-finding agency.

Full purpose of the State Agricultural Postwar Planning Committee was explained by John R. Wenmohs, Texas A. & M. Extension Service. Its members are scheduled to have a meeting at College Station February 10 and 11, at which a preliminary agricultural postwar schedule and series of recommendation will be drawn.

Sitting in the meeting were officials of all agricultural departments of the A. & M. College program years ago by Thomas A. Edison; special farm forest marketing projects which have stimulated the output of lumber necessary for war; and an all-time record National Forest timber cut, amounting to more than two and one-third billion board feet.

Mohnke, Salibo, Wright, Atlas, Ekas Will Begin

Aggies Fear Mighty Bill Henry, Center, And Rusty Darling, Guard, of Rice Owls

The Texas Aggie basketball team will go to Houston tonight to play the Rice Owls in the second game of the series between these two teams. The Aggies will be out for revenge when game time rolls around, but the Rice Owls will have the same quint that stomped the Aggies 63 to 23.

The Rice cagers will probably start Suman and Thomas at the forward posts, Henry at center, and Roach and Darling at guards. Incidentally, Henry made 27 points in the last game with the Aggies. He would have probably made more if he had not been jerked out of the game in the last half.

The Aggie starters will probably be Atlas and Salibo as forwards, Wright at center, and Mohnke and Ekas at the guard posts. It's possible that King might start in place of Ekas at the guard post, for King started in the game with Rice whereas Ekas started in the game with Baylor.

The Aggies will have to do the best kind of basketball playing known if they expect to defeat the Rice cagers, for the Owls boast the best cage team in the conference. The Owls have three men that are contestants for all-conference honors on the 1944 basketball team. These men are Bill Henry, center, Don Suman, forward, and Rusty Darling, a guard. Henry is undoubtedly the best center of the conference, for he stands six feet eight inches enabling him to tower above the opponents goal and bat away what seem to be sure goals.

Charlie Wright did a fair job of guarding this Henry in the first game between the two teams. He made the elongated center very nervous by wiggling his fingers in front of his face.

The afternoon meeting was turned over to farm and livestock organizations, representatives of which elected D. T. Simons, Fort Worth, speaking on behalf of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, as chairman. Vice chairman was Eugene Butler, publisher of Progressive Farmer at Dallas, and John R. Wenmohs was chosen secretary.

After much round table discussion it was agreed that the State Agricultural Postwar Planning Committee should send copy of its findings and recommendations to each organization represented and to other farm and livestock associations not represented, that these organizations should approve these findings and recommendations, or offer constructive criticism of them in writing, or send personal representatives to meet with the State committee to discuss proposed changes. Should any farm or livestock association disagree with findings and recommendations of the State committee, such disapproval should be made part of the report finally made to overall committee headed by Dean Gibb Gilchrist and which was established by act of the Texas Legislature.

Disapproval was expressed by some delegates over the makeup of the Texas Postwar Planning Commission in that one-third of all the income of Texas people is from agriculture whereas the industry only had one representative among the 31 members of the commission.

home needs as prescribed by the Texas Food Standard.

In this work, Miss Martin will give attention to the fundamental principles of feeding and management of cows, care and use of milk products for home use. It is estimated that about 90 per cent of Texas farms and ranches have dairy cows, but only about 50 per cent of them have adequate supplies of milk.

A native of Nebraska, Miss Martin has been in the employ of the Texas Extension Service since June, 1929, serving successively as county home demonstration agent of Tom Green, Presidio, Coryell, and Jones counties before assignment in Eastland County in November, 1941. She is a graduate of the University of Nebraska with the B. S. degree in home economics.

nation of Dean F. C. Bolton, whose present duties as Acting President prevented his serving any longer.

The Board ordered a continuation of the present interest rate of two-thirds of one percent per month on the unpaid balance in any borrower's account.

The financial report of the Treasurer showed the organization to be in extremely sound condition with considerable surplus funds on hand.

A dividend of 3% on fully paid shares was ordered credited to each member's share balance account. Any member of the organization can withdraw all or any part of his share balance in cash at any time upon official request.

Plans are being worked out whereby it is hoped the office of the Credit Union can be opened at all business hours of the college. Mr. George S. Oettle of Johannesburg, South Africa was an interested visitor at the annual meeting of the Federal Credit Union. Mr. Oettle saw an announcement of the meeting and wanted to become familiar with this type of organization. He is spending the winter in Bryan and College Station studying our agricultural and business activities.

EDUCATION ELSEWHERE

Washington has learned that Dr. Bernhard Rust, Nazi minister of education, has issued a decree ordering propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels' "Thirty Martial Commandments for the German People" to be taught in German schools.

Mr. Ford Hale was re-elected to the Board of Directors for a term of one year. Mr. Hale had replaced Mr. H. A. Dulan, formerly Clerk Treasurer of the organization and member of the Board of Directors who resigned and is now taking graduate work at the University of Texas.

The only carry-over member of the Board of Directors is Prof. Daniel Russell, who has one year more to serve. The credit committee, composed of Dr. L. G. Jones, Mr. Harry Boyer and Dr. R. L. Hunt, was reelected.

To act on the Supervisory Committee of the organization for the coming year, Dr. George E. Potter and Mr. Robert M. Pinkerton were reelected. Mrs. George S. Bauer was elected to this committee in the vacancy caused by the resign-
