"Nothing like this ever happened to a Marine from the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli!" sputters Marine Pfc. Jim Blake of Chicago as he prepares to reap the reward of his successful contest on the BLUE's "Blind Date" program. While his "blind date" for the evening, Lynne Owens, radio actress, seems to have momentarily upset his equilibrium, Jim will recover.

"War among the women!" a statement not far from the complete truth. It happened two nights ago when one rehearsing class was annoyed by another. Chasing, screaming, and relay racing followed. Girls dragged each other over the campus, they threw mud, and the names that were exchanged will here be omitted.

This was all in the spirit of fun, the stunts, and sportsmanship, so nothing drastic happened; excluding scratches, bruises, and a loss of vocal chords. Plans are being made for the annual Redbud festival March 11. This is a traditional event consisting of a Coronation Ball with royal entertainment. Each dormitory selects candidates, or princesses, one of which will be the Queen. These girls, 104 this year, are chosen for good character, agreeableness, high morals, personality, and of course, grades.

The Redbud Festival has always been a highlight of the spring when hundreds of the campus red-buds are in bloom—so hope the blossoms will be there on time.

Various reports have arrived from A. & M. mentioning recent near-by lightning bolts. Each girl is told in her letter that 'he' or 'his' room was nearly struck. Now, the question is—were all these various Aggies by chance in the same vicinity? Couldn't be that keeping the fair ladies worried is good psychology. To betray my kind, I'll confess that it is.

TSCW's golf enthusiasts were captivated by the exhibition of "Lord" Byron Nelson. Mr. Nelson demonstrated strokes and form on the campus golf course last Saturday afternoon. These future ladies of the links doubtless profited by his professional advice.

A certain group of students here has been having visitors from a French Military mission recently and temporarily located at Shepard Field. These young Frenchmen were formerly stationed in N.

Africa, fighting as Free-French under General DeGalle. They can barely speak and understand English, yet this does not appear as a hindrance. Reverting to sign language and pictures seems to work in the more difficult instances. Each of these young Frenchmen desired to be a perfect gentleman, but French manners differ. They could not understand why the girls invariably waited for them to open the door instead of going through first. It was impossible for them to grasp the meaning of "cut the butter" when crossing on opposite sides. Then when the girls affected a Brooklyn 'goll' an' 'boid' dialect, they were utterly bewildered. One of the mysteries to them was why ice cream cones didn't leak. Such as this made their visit an experience for all concerned.

It is hoped that ever so many Aggies will be able to come for our festival, and that those who come for the stunts realized their importance as an incentive for the girls to really put extra added zest into their parts.

Signing for now,
 SuSu

The Lowdown on Campus Distractions
 By David Seligman

The weekend show at the Campus Theater is "Mr. Lucky", starring Cary Grant and Loraine Day. Here is one of those films that humor, love, and action are all combined into to make up the story. It must be good if it can put a Greek relief worker and a high-class gambler together. Grant, the fellow whose racket is making, illegitimately, is known as Mr. Lucky because of his two-headed coin which always allows him to win a toss. Seeking to evade the draft so that he can continue his gambling ship the 'Briny Marlin', he assumes the name of a former friend now passed into the beyond. The friend is Greek and this connection leads Grant to the relief agency. He likes this because Miss Day, who he could like very much, works there. Through his criminal connections he obtains things which the agency needs. Miss Day shows a negative reaction towards Cary but he is in love with her. Deciding to go straight, when he gets ready to leave his gambling career, the gang objects and holds him up. Eventually he and his ship leave with some relief cargo to foreign shores. Miss Day now discovers that she loves him and waits for him nightly at the docks. When he returns they go into a clinch on the dock and finish.

The Lowdown: Here is an extra good one.

At Guion on Sunday and Monday and also Saturday night preview is a peculiar picture of the type I have never seen the like of. Strictly class B is this film with no outstanding actors in it and a plot which is distinctively hard to get. It concerns a girl and her sister, the latter of which is supposed to be sane, but I doubt it. She joins a blood cult group and begins to act peculiarly. Her former employer, a cosmetician, is also a member. The good girl leaves a private school for lack of money and proceeds to seek the sister whom she has not heard from for some time. A murder or two follow and in the end a suicidal death ends the life of the sister. Oh, yes, the name... "The Seventh Victim."

The Lowdown: A penny saved is a penn yearned. Earn 20 cents.

An edition of Diophantus' "Arithmetic," published in Latin and Greek in 1621, has been presented to the University of New Hampshire by Dean Herman L. Slobin of the university's graduate school.

AIR CORPS
WING-TIPS

We nominate A/S Bryan L. Butler as the "best dressed man" in Squadron 5. Any time of the day Mr. Butler is neat, trim and looking fresh as a daisy. This type of student is bound to succeed.

A/S Whitfield and A/S Sethne seem to be giving A/S Blackstock and A/S Hymel a close race for the honor of being the prize "chow-hounds", pardon, "mess-pups" of the Squadron.

Mr. Wallace T. Geyer is the new squadron clerk, succeeding Mr. Harry J. Owens who was advanced to Squadron IV. We propose inverted pfc. stripes for Mr. Geyer.

Datum of Stratum . . . . .
 A pile of new recordings have been received in the WTAW music department and regular listeners to the SUNUP CLUB will attest to the waxings being currently aired by Mary Conn each morning from 8 until 8:30. Incidentally, there have been rumors current about the possibilities of slips on saying the title to the new program PANTRY PATTEN. Make out what you can and you will probably be right. This is for the gals and girls and guys listening at that time of the morning for some good music in a pop vein and chatter and datter to flop on the platter.

Byron Winstead, that big boogie publicity man who gives a newscast at 9:45 a. m. on WTAW each Monday through Friday, has troubles. It seems that every morning someone goes down to the publicity office to remind him of his morning duties. Monday through Friday Mr. Hills, Station manager, goes down for a morning visit and to call Byron to the mike. Well, came Saturday morning and Byron finally remembered. He tore off the news, placed it carefully in proper order and then discovered that he did not have a newscast on Saturday. Guess those heavy ground fogs must be the reason.

There is one way to get what you want on the radio and that is to ask for it. Send a card or letter to WTAW and state your wishes. If enough people agree with you . . . you'll get it!
