"It's An Old Southern Custom," musically explain the eleven velvet-voiced chorus on the Blue Network broadcast of the Aunt Jemima Show, Thursday, July 6, at 9:40 a.m., CWT. The explanation will be followed by a special arrangement of "Rainbow on the River." On Friday, July 7, 9:40 a.m., CWT, the choral selections will be "Liza Jane" and "Old Man River." The chorus of eight men and three women, singing without accompaniment, is under the direction of Harry Walsh. Special musical arrangements are provided by Palmer Clark. Harriet Widmer

The Masked Horseman and his saddle-mate Tonto save a girl from possible death and capture a killer during the exciting Lone Ranger drama titled "Hap Finds An Angel," to be heard over the Blue Network Wednesday, July 5, at 6:30 p.m., CWT. * * *

The Four Vagabonds will vocally describe what happened "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" on their Blue Network program of songs, Wednesday, July 5, at 4:15-4:30 p.m., CWT.

The satiny-voiced foursome also will sing "My Heart Tells Me," "Pretty Kitty Blue Eyes," "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" and "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland." * * *

"Wang, Wang Blues," a toe-tapping tune of a few years back as played by the Harmonizers, instrumental sextet, will be featured on the Blue Network broadcast of Farm and Home Makers, Wednesday, July 5, at 11:30 p.m., CWT.

Other selections to be heard on the program include a special arrangement of "Sophisticated Lady" to be played by the orchestra under the direction of Harry Kogen; and "Begin the Beguine," "The Isle of Capri," and the hymn, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," as baritone by M. C. Curley Bradley. Bradley will also present a last-minute farm news summary, and Kay Baxter will offer helpful household tips. * * *

Nedda, who lived in a small Western town, married Jeff, a New Yorker, and immediately wanted to get into a slicker set, but Jeff wanted it the other way. The resulting drama highlights the Blue Network's presentation of My True Story to be heard on Wednesday, July 5, from 9:15 a.m. to 9:40 a.m. The story, titled "Pretender," finds Nedda encountering many heartaches before she decides that simple things are best after all. * * *

The day she married her second husband she told him she still loved the memory of her first, a young man who had been killed early in their marriage. The subsequent split-up and the apparently permanent impasse, later adjusted by the wise advice of the family physician make the Blue Network's presentation of My True Story on Thursday, July 6, 9:15 a.m., CWT, an absorbing drama. It is called "Love Keeps You Guessing," and it will. * * *

Even veterans of radio are in awe of the Breakfast Club's ability to "pull" a studio audience at an hour best suited for sleeping. Recently more than 1,000 persons crowded into the studio to witness the celebrated Blue Network show. Unable to get seats, 400 others heard the broadcast via loud speaker in another studio. * * *

According to a dispatch from Lieut. William K. Holt, a Marine Corps combat correspondent, if you tune in on the fighter frequency during air battles in the South Pacific, you're likely to hear something like this: "I'm the Green Hornet! Bzzzzz. Bzzzzz. Watch me sting this Jap!" "Here comes Jack Armstrong, the A-a-aaa-lll American Boy! Rat-a-taaaat! Rat-a-taaaat!"

"Which way'd they go, sheriff? That-a-way, pardner. Hi-yo, Silver! The Lone Ranger rides again!" "Dick Tracy's the name. Flat-Top, you're a goner!" * * *

Judicial chambers in which nothing is settled and no problem solved except how to make people laugh, with comedian Ransom Sherman as presiding justice, will be whatever idea there is behind Nitwit Court, which has its first weekly session over the Blue Network, Tuesday, July 4, at 7:30 p.m., CWT.

As whacky a court room as Duffy's Tavern is a bistro, Nitwit Court replaces Ed (Archie) Gardner's joint for the summer months. A zandy quartet of jurors, one third the regulation number, will consider grave questions, the answers to which are guaranteed never to be given in any sane sense. In a brief preview, for example, on the final broadcast of Duffy's Tavern, the court tried to solve the never-ending problem of how Miss Duffy is to get her man, but when the program was over Miss Duffy's arms were, as usual, as empty as her head.

The jurors are "Wesley Willow," played by Arthur Q. Bryan, "Bigelow Hornblower," played by Mel Blanc, and "Bubbles Lowbridge," portrayed by Sarah Berner. The fourth juror, never seen nor heard, but often referred to, is "Fennimore Jessup."

Lending some notes of sanity as well as music to Nitwit Court will be Jimmy Dodd, singing star, and the Jack Rose instrumentalists. * * *

Here is a story that soldiers on the Normandy beachhead, according to the Associated Press, tell about George Hicks, Blue Network war correspondent whose exciting eye-witness accounts of the recent invasion were heralded far and wide.

It seems Hicks returned to the beach exhausted, borrowed a blanket and lay down by the side of the road where he fell asleep. A truck, picking up wounded for hospitalization, rolled up. Soldiers started to toss Hicks in the truck, but Lt. Sam Byrd, a peacetime actor, stopped them. Byrd said Hicks slept through it all. * * *

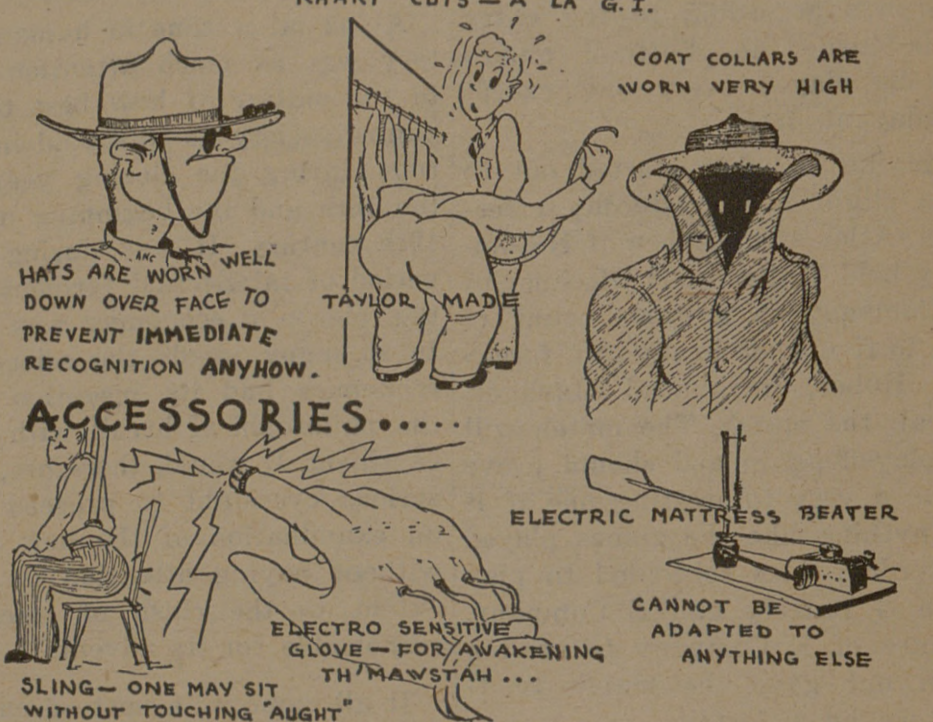

One housekeeper, at least, has firmly resolved to clean her refrigerator daily. She is the mother of a ten-year-old boy listener of the Blue Playhouse, children's theatre dramatizations heard Saturdays, at 11:00 a.m., CWT, over the Blue Network.

After following a recent dramatization titled, "Wonder Drug," which told the story of penicillin, the boy searched in the family refrigerator and found a loaf of bread with some mold on it. He hung on to the loaf for four days. Said he was growing some penicillin.

Ira Marion, who writes Blue Playhouse, stressed in the penicillin drama that the drug comes from one of 600 molds that grow on bread and cheese. * * *

Without using pencil and paper, Joel Kupperman, 8-year-old math wizard of the Blue Network Quiz Kids, solved the following problem in less than two minutes:

In how many possible ways can 9 men on a baseball team be shifted to new positions, changing the first baseman to second, the second baseman to center field, and so on...

The answer, in case your comptometer is broken, is 362,880.

AIEE Chapter Meets Wed. To Hear Report

Electrical Engineering students will have a meeting Wednesday night, July 5, in room 102 of the E. E. Building to hear a report by Paul Olschner on his trip to the Summer Technical Convention of the AIEE in St. Louis, it was announced by M. C. Hughes, head of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

Olschner attended the convention as Student Chairman of the A. & M. Chapter of the AIEE and acting in that capacity prepared a report of the convention activities for presentation to electrical engineering students.
