singing for banquets, on the air, and other programs on the campus. They again toured the South, making public appearances on other radio net works, theaters, and club organizations.

While enjoying all this publicity, the club was not entirely satisfied with being called the Texas A. & M. Glee Club and decided to find another name so, using wisdom, they announced a contest for this purpose. After many suggestions had been considered and argued before the membership, they finally voted to call the organization the Singing Cadets of Aggieland, the name it still carries

Every year since then, the Singing Cadets has become a known organization, not only on the campus, but all over the South. During the years of 1942-43, the club built up its reputation by making more tours of schools, colleges, clubs, and various other organizations. They were well received everywhere. Richard Jenkins, who succeeded Professor Woolket, worked with the club into building it into a singing organization that would be demanded by the public. The club worked out its own arrangements of both classical and the lighter tunes of both old and modern day songs. The Cadets have become well known for their ability to harmonize both the songs of A. & M., and those of modern composers.

In the spring of 1944, the Singing Cadets made their last tour of this year so far. In chartered buses, they toured the Eastern part of Texas and the territory around Dallas and Denton. The trip was an acclaimed success by the public as well as the boys themselves.

While enjoying the height of this years success, Mr. Jenkins accepted a directing post at N. T. A. C. at Arlington, and gave up his job of director of the Singing Cadets. He was succeeded by an able and well liked man, Euell Porter. The club continued on until the last of the Spring semester. This semester, work with the Singing Cadets has not been continued. When the Singing Cadets is started up again this fall, it will be with new director again. Mr. Porter has returned to his former post as choral director of Stephen F. Austin High School in Bryan. The Student Activities Committee has stated that the new director will be announced at a later date.

In keeping with its past reputation, the Singing Cadets this fall will again shine forth in their splendor to entertain the campus as well as eager audiences in the cities of the South. The military manner and the spirit of the Singing Cadets has become a well known trait of this organization to the people who have seen their performances. To the boys themselves, there is a spirit within the club which holds them together into the harmonious group they are. To the hard work of past members and to the spirit carried on by the present, do the Singing Cadets of Aggieland owe their gratitude for their splendid organization.

walked and Williams and Dietz scored when Matthews doubled to center field.

Willie West pitched creditable ball for Loupot's during the six innings he worked. Otto Granzin took over in the seventh and gave up one run.

Several members of the Aggie band were on hand to help cheer the boys on, playing between in-

AIEE Members See Demonstrations at Wed. Meeting

At the meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers last Wednesday night some interesting high voltage experiments were performed by L. M. Haupt, a professor in the E. E. Department. He demonstrated the phenomena of voltages up to 200,000 volts, and of short impulse voltages up to nearly a million volts. The latter type, said Haupt, have the same kind of effects as lightning.

The experiments were performed and explained in the basement of the Electrical Engineering Building. A large number of members and visitors attended.

Presbyterian Young People Have Party

Forty-five young people attended the skating party sponsored by the A. and M. Presbyterian Church Wednesday night. After assembling at the new Y. M. C. A., the group was taken in cars to Bryan, where they enjoyed skating at the rink. Before returning to college, they enjoyed refreshments at Creamland.

Rev. and Mrs. Norman Anderson accompanied the young people on this social event.

Since only a few musicians were able to be at the game, their music was mostly jive.

Score by innings:
Loupot's ..... 1 2 1 0 3 4 0—11
Flyers ..... 0 0 1 2 0 0 1—4

Batteries: Loupot's: West, Granzin and Dietz; Flyers: Margolis and Goarin.
