Chief Specialist John Carter, former Metropolitan Opera star who recently returned from entertaining bluejackets in the Pacific war theatre, will be featured soloist on the WTAW broadcast of Meet Your Navy, Friday, July 28, at 7:30-8:00 p.m., CWT.

In dedication to all Navy men who have sacrificed their lives in behalf of shipmates, and particularly to Marine Staff Sgt. Greydon Tabor, who shortly before his death in a plane was overheard praying for the safe return of the pilot, Capt. Harold Walker, the Bluejacket Choir of 200 voices will intone "A Prayer of Thanksgiving."

Orchestral selections on the program will include a concert arrangement of "I'll Remember April," and a brand new song, "Pilots, Man Your Planes," with melody by Peter De Rose and lyrics by Lieut. Arthur Kurlang.

The dramatization will consist of an open letter from the men of the U. S. Navy to Premier Tojo's successor.

Meet Your Navy, broadcast each week via the Blue Network, originates at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The Parker Family plans to visit a relative in another city on the Friday, July 28, program over WTAW at 7:15 p.m., CWT, but they really go to town when it comes to selecting a new chapeau for Pa.

Mr. Parker is satisfied to wear his old panama but the rest of the family is unanimous in the decision that the headpiece is only fit for the Smithsonian Institute.

An entire day is spent in the selection of Pa's new straw lid and the saintly patience of the hat store clerk is blasted beyond recognition. "Where did you get that hat?" is packed with comedy and has a hilarious finale.

Jack Owens, radio's renowned Cruising Crooner and author of such song hits as "Louisiana Lullaby" and "The Hutsut Song," will introduce his latest ballad via WTAW's Breakfast Club, Monday, July 31, at 8:00 a.m., CWT.

Titled "Put Your Little Head On My Shoulder," the new song has been inspired by Jack's experiences as a Cruising Crooner on the Breakfast Club. Instead of singing into a stationary microphone, Jack uses a portable mike and croons into the ears of matrons and bobby-sox sisters in the studio audience.

Breakfast Club, with Don McNeill as m.c. and music by Harry Kogen's orchestra, is broadcast over the Blue Network Mondays through Saturdays at 8:00-9:00 a.m., CWT.

What happens when a woman executive marries her assistant, has a baby, then refuses to give up her career?

For the drama inherent in such a situation listen to WTAW's My True Story on Monday, July 31, at 9:00 a.m., CWT. Called "I Have Something To Tell You," the story has a good deal to say.

Martha Scott will select the best scene from one of her pictures and play it during her guest appearance on the Mary Small Show over WTAW, Sunday, July 30, at 4:00 p.m., CWT. Mary Small will sing in her swingy style and Ray Bloch will direct the orchestra in sizzling arrangements.

Two youngsters whose store of lore would floor a score of scholars will debut with the Quiz Kids on their WTAW broadcast Sunday, July 30, at 6:30-7:00 p.m., CWT.

They are Marjorie Bruce, 14-year-old miss master mind of Jacksonville, Ill., whose forte is literature, and John Cook, 11-year-old Chicagoan, whose specialties are ships, airplanes and football.

Marjorie is national president of the All-American Club, an organization of youngsters who contribute war stamps and bonds to aid children with infantile paralysis. Joel Kupperman, 8, David Davis, 11, and Harve Fischman, 13, will round out the board of brainy bairns, and Joe Kelly will serve as quizmaster of ceremonies.

Twenty-six years from the day, July 30, 1918, that Joyce Kilmer died in action in France, tribute will be paid him by Mack Harrell, Metropolitan Opera baritone. He will sing Kilmer's most famous lyric, "Trees," during his guest appearance on the World of Song program over WTAW, Sunday, July 30, at 3:30 p.m., CWT.

Marie Wilkins, "Met" soprano who achieved fame overnight when she filled in for Lily Pons, will also appear on the program singing "None but the Lonely Heart" and "Lover." Harrell's second solo is "Mattinata," and Wilfred Pelletier's orchestra will present "Waltz of the Flowers."

The entire company will be heard in a medley from Jerome Kern's "New Moon," "Stouthearted Men," "One Kiss," "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise," and "Lover, Come Back To Me."

Elsa Shelley, author of the Broadway play, "Pick-Up Girl," will be a guest of Janet Flanner on the WTAW broadcast of Listen, The Women, Sunday, July 30, at 2:00 p.m., CWT.

Other members of the panel who will discuss questions sent in by women from all over the country will be Dr. C. Mildred Thompson, dean of Vassar College, and Thyra Samter Winslow, fiction writer.

Newspaperwoman Anne Rogers is mystified when, in the WTAW broadcast of Hot Copy, Sunday, July 30, at 4:30-5:00 p.m., CWT, she finds that her column, "Second Glimpse," contains a paragraph prophesying the death of District Attorney Charles Gilmore.

While she is still wondering who inserted the sinister item in her column, police report that Gilmore has been murdered exactly as predicted. She hurries to the scene of the crime where Gilmore's nephew and the butler are held as suspects.

Anne's investigation convinces her that the killing was performed by an outsider—someone who is still in the house—and in a startling climax she exposes the guilty person.

Betty Lou Gerson plays the role of Anne Rogers.

Tunefully circumventing the law that forbids the manufacture and sale of absinthe, due to its wormwood content, Dorothy Kirsten, soprano, and Mack Harrell, baritone, will make a duet of Victor Herbert's "Absinthe Frappe" on the Keepsakes program over WTAW, Sunday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m., CWT.

Accompanied by Tom Jones' orchestra, the chorus will sing "Peggy O'Neil," and a hit of World War One, "Rose of No Man's Land." Miss Kirsten's solos will be "The Lilac Tree" and "Carmena." Harrell will sing "Forever Is a Long, Long Time," and "The Two Grenadiers." The pair also will sing, as a duet, "Castle of Dreams."

Jargon jawe dby softball players, telephone linemen and furniture salesmen will be "decoded" by Lingo Linguists on the WTAW broadcast of Sez You, Saturday, July 29, at 1:30-2:00 p.m., CWT.

Slinging the slang of their respective fields will be Billy Moss, furniture salesman, H. A. Hiron, lineman for the Bell Telephone Co., and Dorothy Binder, star shortstop on a softball team.

The Lingo Linguists heard weekly on Sez You are Herb Graffis, political columnist, Clem Lane, newspaper editor, and Patricia Dougherty, writer and radio commentator.

Herb Newcomb is slangmaster of ceremonies and Sam Cowling serves as punster and pdnit.

Note for note renditions as played by the late master, Bix Beiderbeck, of "I'm Comin', Virginia" and "Big Boy," will be presented by trumpeter Bobby Hackett in the Eddie Condon Jazz Concert, on which Gene Krupa will star, over WTAW Saturday, July 29, at 2:30 p.m., CWT.

Genial Gene, America's top tub thumper, again guests on the Blue's unpredictable, ad lib jazz circus after an absence of one week. The Big Beiderbecke specialties are two numbers left over, because of time limitations, on last week's Beiderbecke concert.

Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army Service Forces, will address civilian and military personnel of the A.S.F. via the WTAW broadcast of Twenty-One Stars, Saturday, July 29, at 2:02-2:30 p.m., CWT.

Speaking before the combined staffs of the ten Army Service Commands, General Somervell will cite accomplishments of the A. S. F. thus far, and outline the task still to be done. He will be introduced by Maj. Gen. Clarence H. Danielson, commanding general of the Seventh Service Command.

Music will be supplied by the 344th Army Service Forces band and orchestra.

The first of two broadcast concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra during its Mozart festival, being held on the orchestra's estate at Tanglewood, Mass., will be heard over WTAW on Saturday, July 29, at 7:30 p.m., CWT.

Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the orchestra, will direct the group, during this opening concert being played in the Opera Concert Hall on the Lenox Estate, in Mozart's "Symphony in A Major" and his "Divertimento in B-Flat Major." The latter composition was written for strings with two horns.

Dorothy Maynor, distinguished soprano, will be heard in airs from "The Magic Flute" and "Don Giovanni." Concluding the program, the orchestra will play the "Symphony in C Major, No. 34."
