

Rains Slow Harvest Slight Price Boost

Heavy rains interfered considerably with marketing of southwestern farm products during the last few days of August and early september. As a result, prices of most commodities were firm to slightly higher under an active demand for light terminal market receipts, according to the War Food Administration.

Cotton was an exception. Prices reached a high point early in the period and then gradually moved downward until at the close values were off 75 cents to $1.50 a bale.

Cattle benefitted more than any other class of livestock. Prices closed sharply higher in spite of a slightly weaker note at some points late in the week. Good grade cows reached $12.00 per cwt. at Ft. Worth, Oklahoma Cnty and Denver, but offerings generally sold below $10.00. Top on calves in the Southwest was $13.75 on Choice offerings at San Antonio.

Hogs continued to bring ceiling prices on most classes. Top butchers closed the week in Fort Worth at $14.55, San Antonio $14.25, Oklahoma City and Wichita $14.45, Denver $14.75, Kansas City $14.50 per cwt.

Sheep and lamb markets were slightly irregular, especially at the close when the trend turned downward at several markets. But prices generally were 25 to 50 cents higher for the week. The wool market was quiet with very scarce offerings of the types that were in best demand.

All grains continued in good request. Sorghum movement is increasing and prices at Texas common rate points declined to $2.17 to $2.22 per cwt. Wheat closed firm at $1.58- a bushel. Small quantities of new crop corn and rice have brought ceiling prices. Hay marketings were very light with some damage reported from overflowing streams and rivers. Demand continued to increase for good quality alfalfa, but remained slow for prairie.

Fruits and vegetables generally brought steady prices on southwestern markets. Shipping point prices were firm to slightly higher. Considerable freeze damage was reported to peas in the San Luis

The committee in its tour this fall will concern itself mainly with post war planning of the various colleges and the financial assistance that they will need to carry out their post war plans. Before the total investigation is complete, however, it may involve sweeping recommendations to eliminate duplication, to expand vocational and junior college training, and to coordinate the entire system of Texas schools.

This committee will also submit a report to the governor concerning gubernatorial appointees to vacancies of boards of directors and boards of regents which will exist when the Senate convenes for its next session in January of next year.
