

The Lowdown On Campus Distractions

By Blimp Sager

CAMPUS: Playing Thursday and Friday is "Hangmen Also Die", starring Brian Donlevy. This is another story of the German tyranny in occupied countries, but in this one the oppressed people are able to destroy the hated chief of the Gestapo. There are lots of thrilling action in which Donlevy does a lot of rootin'tootin' shootin'!

Lowdown: Definitely not a comedy. Playing Saturday is a double feature, "The Housekeeper's Daughter," starring Joan Bennett. Really a good show in which there are many funny incidents between the housekeeper's daughter and the hero. Naturally they live happily ever after.

Lowdown: A lovely way to spend an evening.

The second feature is "Days of Glory," with Gregory Peck and Tamara Tomanova. Peck is the commander of a Russian guerrilla band that is really a pain in the neck to the Germans. When her ballet troupe is overrun by the Nazis Tomanova becomes one of them and a bang-up love affair develops between her and the commander. A laugh shows through the blood, sweat and tears now and then furnished by a couple guerrillas who are thoroughly convinced that they can fight better slightly stewed. A thrill-packed story of war and love that starts and ends with blazing guns.

Lowdown: Don't miss it. Playing Sunday is "American Romance," starring Brian Donlevy. It is the story of an immigrant, Steve Dangos (Brian Donlevy), who came to America in 1893 with great hopes and a strong back. He starts at the bottom, in fact below bottom in a mine, but by pure intestinal fortitude he runs to the top of the ladder of life. Step by step you watch him achieve success, wealth, and a family. It is a beautiful technicolor epoch of Industrial America, blended with tender love and unswerving faith. Truly a timely picture which reminds us that America is still a frontier and revives a faith which is now at a low ebb. An intensely interesting picture that anybody will enjoy.

Lowdown: It's your own fault if you miss it.

Palace: Showing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday is "Here Come the Waves," with Bing Crosby, Betty Hutton, and Sunny Tufts. Blonde Susie and redheaded Rosemary, twins, (both Betty Hutton, which spells double trouble) are (See DISTRACTIONS, Page 4)

Geology Students to Make Galveston Trip

Professor C. J. Hesse, curator of the college museum, announced Monday that five students will make a trip to Galveston this weekend to study at close hand the marine life they have been studying in class for the last three weeks. They will also observe the commercial oyster reefs, shrimp boats, and estuaries in that area. The students—Todd Scharnberg, Stanley Leventhal, Ed Wendt, Tommy Penn, and Dick Goad—are going in conjunction with their course in Tertiary Stratigraphy and Paleontology, more commonly known as Geology 306. The Paleontology side of the course will be taken up on this trip.

On the way down Friday afternoon the group will drive through the Raccoon Bend Oil Field, and after leaving the field the party will continue on to Galveston to a hotel where they will stay Friday and Saturday nights.

On the return trip Sunday afternoon the party is to be shown the salt mine at Hockley, Texas. Dr. C. M. Pomeroy of the University of Texas Medical School will escort the group throughout the Galveston part of the tour.

Man, Your Manners

By I. Sherwood

All the rules of table manners are made to avoid ugliness. Strange as it may be we spend a lot of time eating but we never see ourselves doing it. Perhaps if we did see ourselves as others see us we might want to change some of our eating habits.

"Is it a breach of etiquette not to break your bread into single bites?" Bread and rolls should be broken (never cut) into small pieces and buttered as eaten, except that hot breads may be buttered while hot then broken a piece at a time as needed.

"Should I take some of all the foods that are passed to me?" One should take a little from each dish passed. Take the portion nearest you.

"What is the proper way to eat a baked potato?" The usual way of eating a baked potato, either white or sweet, is to break it open with your fingers or with fingers and fork; mix the butter, salt, and pepper into a third of it at a time with your fork as you need it. Do not scoop out the insides with your knife or butter it with your knife. Food should never be mixed up on the plate.

SOCIETY

Mrs. J.E. Roberts Re-Named President Of Garden Club

The A. & M. Garden Club met on Friday afternoon in the lounge of the YMCA, made especially attractive with floral arrangements brought by Misses Edith and Ethel Cavitt, and Mesdames G. B. Wilcox and R. K. Fletcher.

Following the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. J. E. Roberts and her assisting officers, Mrs. D. W. Williams, chairman of the annual Flower Show, announced that the date would be near the 20th of April and that the club plans to keep the doors open from 4 to 8 p.m. so that every one will have an opportunity to view the exhibits.

The A. & M. Social Club was extended an invitation to hold their annual tea on the same afternoon as the Flower Show.

The club voted to furnish flowers for the Bryan Army Air Field Hospital this month and to buy $10 worth of flower containers for the hospital.

A display of interest was the assortment of Year Books of Garden Clubs over the State.

Announcement of the presentation of a lecturer, Mrs. G. B. McKnight of Dallas on March 27th at the YMCA was made, the subject to be "Flower Arrangements."

Mrs. J. E. Roberts was elected delegate and Mrs. A. J. Bennett, alternate, to the State Garden Club meeting in Dallas on April 3 and 4.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. J. E. Roberts, re-elected president; Mrs. S. H. Yarnell, vice president; Mrs. A. D. Stephens, second vice president; Mrs. C. A. Robinson, secretary; Mrs. J. E. Marsh, treasurer; Mrs. G. B. Wilcox, reporter.

Mrs. W. F. Adams Is Hostess to Campus Study Club Meeting

As hostess for the afternoon, Mrs. W. F. Adams greeted Campus Study Club members for the regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. parlors. Flower arrangements of purple iris, pink spirea and pansies on the president's table, and white iris, white spirea and narcissus on the piano gave a touch of spring beauty to the club room.

The business session was conducted by the president Mrs. John Ashton after which a program on China was presented.

Mrs. G. E. Madeley discussed briefly three timely, interesting and readable books: "Virgil of a Nation" by Lin Yupang; "Among the Powers" by David Nelson Rowe; and "China After Seven Years War" by Hollington K. Tong.

Some insight into Chinese customs and philosophies as well as Chinese culture from a literary viewpoint was given through "The Play" in the Chinese manner, arranged and directed by Mrs. R. M. Sherwood. The scene was laid in a formal Chinese garden with the following cast: Reader, Marguerite Lyle; Li Chee and Tu Fu, Messengers for the Gold Kingdom, Alice Riggs and Lois Roger; Musicians, Linda Dunlap, and Luella Haupt; Yuan Lu, Emperor of Gold Kingdom, Louise Edmonson; Ping Hu Lu and Chu Lu, daughters of Yuan Lu, Stella Haupt and Emma Pearson; Ming Huang, Charming Prince of Rose Scented Kingdom, Dorothy Shaw; and Po Chu, Ghost of Uneathly Kingdom, Ruth Clark. The colorful costumes along with the ingenious stage properties were a contributing factor to the success of this playlet in pantomime.

Mrs. W. F. Adams introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. T. R. Spence who discussed Chinese art, displaying interesting examples from the collection made by her sister, the late Miss Hayden Baugh. Practically all types of Chinese handwork were included. There were linens, china, silks, lacquer ware, bamboo, carvings, and porcelains, and paintings. Their paintings have developed from their artistry in calligraphy.

Of the silk, Mrs. Spence says that to the Chinese it is more than clothing for the body, it is an artist's dream of beauty come into being.

The Chinese feel that their work in Cloisonne is the acme of the porcelain art. The lacquer work is an especially interesting process using wood and silk with the lacquer.

The Chinese people are happy and friendly and their art depicts their finess of character and their love of beauty.

At the next meeting of the club, the Reverend J. Hugh Farrell will discuss "The Land of Mahatma Gandhi", on Tuesday, March 20, at the Y. M. C. A.

Presbyterian Young People Entertain

The College Presbyterian Young People entertained the new Presbyterian students from six-thirty to eight-thirty o'clock Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian Church. Following games Mrs. W. A. Duncan and Mrs. Clinton Medberry served home-made cakes and coca colas. There were sixty young people present.
