Agricultural Fellowships To Be Offered

An announcement from the Danforth Foundation that freshman and junior fellowships will again be offered to Texas A. & M. agricultural students in 1945 has been received in Dean of Agriculture C. N. Shepardson's office. These fellowships provide for all-expense trips to St. Louis and Michigan during the summer. The Danforth Foundation program has two major divisions—one dealing with freshmen and the second with junior students.

The freshman division scholarship provides for a two-week period spent in the American Youth Foundation camp at New Era, Michigan. The main purpose of this camp is leadership training, and while here the camper has opportunities to develop himself along the lines of the four-fold program of the camp. These four fields are social, mental, religious, and physical. Combined with this individual development program is an up-to-date sports program. Classes are handled by some of the most distinguished and experienced youth advisors in America. Camp Minivanca is located on the eastern banks of Lake Michigan and has all the facilities of the better equipped summer camps in the United States. Sailing, swimming, canoeing, and a number of other summer sports comprise the afternoon activities of campers. The dates for Camp Minivanca this year are (See SCHOLARSHIPS, Page 6)

College Station Scouts Collect 14 Tons Waste Paper

College Station Boy and Cub Scouts have collected 28,400 pounds of waste paper for the war effort in the past four months, according to Dr. Luther G. Jones, chairman of the Scout paper collections. Dr. Jones praised residents of the College Station community and offices on the A & M College campus for their cooperation in these drives.

The three groups collecting the paper and placing it in hands of a buyer for shipment to a processing center are Troop 102, C. J. Hesse, scoutmaster Troop 411, E. H. Brock, scoutmaster, and the Cubs under P. J. Alwin Zeller.

These boys made collections as follows: Dec. 9, 3,260 pounds; Jan. 6, 7,900 pounds; Feb. 16, 9,440 pounds, and March 3, 7,800 pounds.

"We are now in the paper-drive month for the War Production Board and the Scouts are doing everything they can to fill the badly needed paper quotas, not only in College Station and Bryan, but also all over the country. Scouts are rendering service to their government in the only way those in these age brackets can be of service," Dr. Jones said.

Two Schools Established Here For Trainees In 1942

Navy Now Consolidating, Decommissioning Contracts In Favor of Schools At Stations

By Lt.-Comdr. Jean A. Lambert, USNR

The closing of the Naval Training Schools at the A. & M. College of Texas and the departure of the bluejackets from this campus not only mark the end of a unique association of Army and Navy training programs, but also signify the end of a vital, although somewhat hectic, period of training and preparation for war by the military establishments of this country.

Although the United States undertook its program of rearmament in the summer and fall of 1940, the attack on Pearl Harbor found our Army and Navy in a state of readiness not scaled or developed to meet the previously unimagined technical and personnel demands of a total war. The Navy, called upon to protect the vital supply lines to Europe and Australia, desperately needed more ships, more equipment, more qualified men to man both ships and equipment.

Other Girls Just Don't Compare With The Tessyites, Student Poll Reveals

By L. H. Calahan

A survey was made among various men on the campus recently to determine what girls at what school treated the Aggies the best, as a whole. As could be expected, good old T.S.C.W. won hands down, although Texas ran a pretty close second. Your roving reporter tried to make the rounds of all the great lovers of the campus, and therefore their views should be fairly accurate.

Butch Butchofsky, past commander of the corps, said that he believed the girls from Tessie-land paid more attention to the lads in khaki as a whole, but certain individuals up in the Capital city were pretty good entertainers also. Butch said that the Tessies will always treat the Aggies swell because they are just like brothers and sisters, oh brother! Speaking on the social gatherings held by both T.S.C.W. and Texas, he had this to say, "T.S.C.W. parties... Hallalua!... Texas U. parties... Ahhhhhhhhhhh!"

Bill Geer, football star, also is of the opinion that the girls from Denton pay more, and better attention to the Farmers than do the fems from other Texas colleges, but he believes that the gals from the land of Tea run a close second. On a whole, Geer said, you can't beat the Tessies for a swell and lively time, but T. U. is second for a SPECIAL REASON.

Johnny Spragins, senior, says that T.S.C.W. women are beyond a doubt partial to Aggies, and therefore treat them better than any other group of females. Spragins said that the Denton Dishes realize what the score is and don't make any bones about it when it comes to Aggies. T. U. girls are o. k., though, he said.

Roy Bandy, sophomore, said that since he is a man who knows all about college women, he feels that he is able to make an honest and true statement. Bandy feels that Texas' women go for the Aggies quicker than the other schools, and they also show the boys a good time whenever they are around the T. U. campus. He believes that the T. U. girls know what they want and that's why they go for the Farmers in a big way.

Dick Baugh who has never been to T.S.C.W. but knows quite a few of its inmates, says that as far as he's concerned there is no other girls school in the state. He said that they seem to be the most co-operative with the Aggies because they are so much alike; both away from the opposite sex most of the time.

Bob Wilson cast his vote for ole' Orange and White saying, "I've been with more girls from T. U. than any other school, and so from what I've seen the gals really treat the boys swell, but I might feel different had I gone with more of the girls from the other colleges. Wilson has been to Denton only once, and he said that he would very much like to go back real soon.

Tommy League falls in line with a few of the rest and says the women from Texas come first with him. He said that these girls really appreciate the Aggies, while others just take them for granted. League has only one complaint about T.S.C.W., it should be moved closer to Dallas.

These opinions are from a small number of men around the campus, but they are from men who really know what they are talking about, and are capable of giving a true picture of the subject of college women, and the Aggies.
