(Edtor's note: Upon request of members of the Cadet Corps and numerous exstudents, the Battalion is herewith printing a most fitting definition of what it students, the Battalion is herewith printing a most fitting definition of what it has found favor with everyone, the world over that this definition is dedicated; for it is they, the Aggies of pesterday, who fashioned and designed A. & M. into the universally renowed institution that it is today. It is safe to say that the records they are painting in their blood this very day can be attributed largely to the training they received while cadets at A. & M.

The laugh of the week and the most head-in stunt can be attributed largely to the past, provided they can reap from A. & M. the same that the other is a Tessie and is visiting Betty. Only one other thing, and that the other is a Tessie and is visiting Betty. Only one other thing, and that the other is a Tessie and is visiting Betty.
