Bryan "Sky Pilot" Asks Observance of "Friendship Week"

An appeal to the citizens of College Station, Texas to observe Nov. 25 to Dec. 1 "Friendship Week" was issued here today by Robert Bell, affectionately known to thousands throughout the nation as "The Sky Pilot".

One of America's most unique characters with a ministry as unique as he himself is, "The Sky Pilot" is a friend to the friendless and his cheery "Hello, Friend" has brought back forgotten smiles to the face of many a homeless boy and girl in the railroad yards of the nation.

Undismayed by a world apparently gone mad and with hate all around him, "The Sky Pilot" still hopes that this year, as last year and the year before, a few more persons will heed his appeal and "Make a new friend each day" during "Friendship Week".

An ordained minister who feels that God has called him into his present field of service, "The Sky Pilot" believes implicitly in the Lord and in His power to save from the uttermost all who come unto him.

The coat of arms of the German 36th Division will be placed in a Texas museum.

OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN To: All students. To: All students, A&M, College of Texas. Subject: Student Automobiles.

As the number of student and employee automobiles and motorcycles increases, the problem of traffic and parking on the campus grows. The following regulations for students are deemed necessary at this time:

1. Students will discontinue the use of automobiles and motorcycles as transportation to class and to the mess halls, unless given special permission.

2. Students will make use of existing parking areas and discontinue the use of streets for parking vehicles.

3. Day students will park their vehicles in parking areas provided for their use.

4. All student vehicles will be registered with the office of Campus Security and the certificate of campus registration displayed on the vehicle.

It is necessary to maintain these restrictions in order to make driving and walking on the campus safe and convenient for all. More drastic regulations may be necessary as the number of student vehicles increases.

Your compliance with these regulations and your cooperation in helping to maintain good conditions on the streets will at least delay further restrictions on student vehicles.

SID LOVELESS

Sid Loveless, '38, a former editor of the Longhorn, who has just recently returned from overseas service with the army has resumed his position with the Seaboard Life Insurance Company, it has been announced by Ford Munnerlyn, district manager.

An outstanding graduate of the college, Loveless is a member of the famous "million dollar" club, a distinctive group of insurance salesmen whose total sales reach the million dollar mark.

One of Loveless' first acts upon his return to College Station was to call at the Student Activities office and obtain copies of all past Longhorns and a copy of the Reveille booklet.

While overseas in Italy, Loveless, a major, sent the Reveille memorial fund a $10.00 donation but it was not until he reached home that he was able to obtain a copy of the popular Reveille booklet.

Man, Your Manners By I. Sherwood

There are more rules in the foods area of social behavior than in any other, and there are many situations that you will be compelled to rely on your own judgment to apply the general rules of good taste.

You may have nice table manners and yet not know the techniques for specific foods. Being familiar with different and unusual foods, and the way to eat them, is a fine thing; it will save your embarrassment sometime when you wish to be completely poised and at ease.

Remember that the unusual and different foods are someone's favorites. The people who live along a sea-coast love sea-foods and just naturally know how to eat them. The same is true of people who live along the Mexican border; they know how to eat Mexican foods and enjoy them.

Socially you must eat what your hostess serves you. And you never know when you will find yourself in a business or professional situation when you need to look as if you were familiar with every food that appears.

Don't miss the opportunity of educating yourself in the field of foods along with your other educational activities.
