

PENNY'S SERENADE

By W. L. Penberthy

Last week I got a kick out of a little poster sign in the Construction Program office. The sign read—"When you reach the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hang on."

As I read this sign I thought back over the many athletic contests I have witnessed, and could remember many that had been won because a man or a team had reached the end of the rope but had indicated refusal to quit by tying that knot and hanging on. I have also known many defeats to come to those who lacked the desire and will to make one more effort necessary to gain victory.

One of my favorite stories is about the man who watched the stone mason with chisel and maul attempt to break a large stone. As the man watched the mason he started counting the blows struck. On the hundredth blow the large stone split and fell apart just at the right place. Then the part I like is that the man realized that it wasn't that hundredth blow that had split the stone, but the ninety-nine before.

I am afraid that in a great many instances we fail to gain real success because we quit just short of the goal. We get so very weary and the outlook seems so discouraging and hopeless, but it is surprising how in so many instances the situation can be so radically changed by just that one more push or heave. The old saying that it is darkest just before the dawn should give us a lot of hope and courage when the going is tough.

The Texas Aggie tennis team opens the 1946 season this afternoon when it takes on the Sam Houston State College netters from Huntsville.
