

Kyle Field

by U. V. Johnson

This year as in nearly all previous years the football schedule includes only three major games to be played at home. Why all three of these are with the Conference teams and are on an alternate basis. The other games are all out of town, except for a scrimmage with North Texas State Teachers College of Denton. This means three of our regular Conference games will be on the road as well as all major non-conference games including Texas Tech at San Antonio, Louisiana State Univ. at Baton Rouge, and Oklahoma at Norman.

The reason the Athletic Council gives is that we make more money on road games. Maybe we do and maybe we don't. They haven't tried major home games in so long no one can say.

The whole story boils down to the point that too many things on the campus are figured in dollars and cents. It looks like the council could afford to make a little less money on at least one of the non-conference games in order to give the corps a break once a year.

The Texas Tech game is played at San Antonio every year. This game could alternate between schools with very little difference in the gate. At present the Red Raider stadium will only seat 12,000 but that is always full, which would at least guarantee each school $6,000. This doesn't compare too favorably to the stadium in San Antonio, which seats 20,000 but the Athletic Departments of both schools could afford the loss until the new stadium is completed at Lubbock. (It is being erected now).

Garbage Now Collected By City Trucks

Because the city contract for garbage removal has been discontinued, the City of College Station is now having garbage collected by city employees in city trucks.

To help in the project of keeping the city clean and free from disease, residents are urged to purchase garbage cans and keep their refuse where flies and other insects cannot get at it.

Dumping facilities are now being sought by the city.

The city trucks will pick up everything except tree trimmings, grass, and items of a similar nature. These may be carted away at a charge of one dollar a truck load.

DR. A. E. GRIST GETS WAR CITATION

Dr. A. E. Grist, poultry veterinarian for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, has received a citation from President Harry Truman for work done during World War II with the Procurement and Assignment Service in Fort Worth, Director Ide P. Trotter has announced.
