

When it comes to fish stories, here is one with a new line. Laughing Lew Lehr, emcee of ABC's audience-participation show "Detect and Collect", has the tables turned on himself by old man Tuna. The 500 lb. fish looks pretty proud of his catch, too.

WHO BORROWED JAY'S FOUNTAIN PEN SUNDAY

Have you a fountain pen in your pocket that you can't account for?
Last Sunday afternoon, when Lester L. Jay was in the fiscal office of the administration building, paying his fees, he lent his fountain pen to the next man in line. In the confusion, Jay failed to get the pen back, but didn't miss it until he had left the building. Return of the pen to room 44, Milner Hall, would be appreciated.

The twelve students selected this year are the winners of the annual travel fellowships awarded by Pan American World Airways and the Institute of International Education for promotion of closer educational and cultural relations among the Americas. Studies may include any recognized course, provided the Institute of International Education considers it sufficiently definite in aim, and believes the applicant suitably qualified.
