

Scientific Awards Commenced by Ball Lee Memorial Fund

Over $2000 are available to outstanding students in the field of biological science who need financial assistance, according to provisions of the Julia Ball Lee Fellowship, Dr. C. C. Doak, head of the A&M biology department, announced yesterday.

Set up by the late Dr. and Mrs. Oscar M. Ball in honor of their daughter, the trust provides for the awarding of scholarships to students needing financial assistance, primarily on the basis of demonstrated merit. "Scholarships will normally be made for the two semesters of an academic year," Dr. Doak said, "but as no suitable applicant received the grant for the fall semester, awards will be made in the near future for the spring semester if applicants are suitable". Administrators for the Fellowships are Dean T. D. Brooks, Dr. Doak, and Dr. G. E. Potter, professor of zoology.

The amount of the awards will be varied with the financial need of the student with a minimum of $50 and a maximum of $225 per semester.

Dr. Ball was for 34 years head of the Department of Biology at A&M. His wife, Mary M. Ball,

Soph Arch Class To Exhibit House

A model of the Blanford house, designed and built as a class project by the sophomore class in the Department of Architecture, will be on display at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts architecture exhibit to be open October 5 in conjunction with the State Fair.

Professor C. J. Finney was a member of the Advisory Committee to select appropriate material for the exhibit entitled "Contemporary Texas Architecture" which will include photographs and drawings of Professor W. W. Caudill's home in Bryan which was completed in the spring. Several other examples of Professor Caudill's work in conjunction with Caudill and Rowlett, Architects in Austin, will be on display. Professor Jason P. Moore will exhibit photographs and plans of several of his residences. Only twenty architects in the state of Texas were invited to show examples of their work.

joined her husband in exercising leadership in many affairs of the campus community. Their daughter, Julia, became the wife of Lt. R. E. Lee (now Brig. Gen. Lee) and after her death, Dr. and Mrs. Ball formulated a joint will creating the Julia Ball Lee Memorial Fellowships in biology.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

The City of College Station and College authorities are making a determined effort to control stray dogs. They are not only a potential source of rabies, but many have become a nuisance in the College Mess Halls and other places.
Notice is hereby given to dog owners that their dogs must be licensed by the City and vaccinated against rabies as set up in Ordinance No. 50 passed on May 23, 1940, and must carry the proper tags showing that this has been done. Dogs which become nuisances at the Mess Halls or any other place will be taken up and their owners notified. Unlicensed dogs so taken up will be held for a period of forty-eight hours and then destroyed if unclaimed. Owners are liable and will be held responsible for the cost of taking up the dog and for its care while being held. Such costs will be $2.50 per animal, plus a 25¢ per diem charge for all animals held more than 48 hours. Every animal that is released must have been vaccinated against rabies within the past year. Proof of such will be supplied by the owner. The owner may take up his dog by paying the above charges in Room 106, Goodwin Hall, and presenting the receipt to Dr. P. W. Burns in Francis Hall.
