Regulations On Vets In Uniform Are Reaffirmed

Permission to Wear NM Good Only Off Campus; No Patches or Boots

Because of confusion on the campus due to veterans wearing parts of the cadet uniform, a meeting was held Monday night, Oct. 28, with members of the Dean of Men's Office, Col. Guy S. Meloy, Jr., some members of the Student Council and the present officers of the Veterans Student Association. This group reaffirmed temporarily the recommendations of the Student Council about uniforms as adopted last April.

Highlights of these recommendations were:

The cadet uniform, with NM insignia, may be worn by veterans only off the campus.

Khaki or serge may be worn on the campus by veterans, if all insignias are removed. Campaign hats may be worn only if cords are stripped off.

Boots may not be worn by veterans unless they are taking military Science and are academically classified as seniors.

Classified as seniors.

No permission has ever been given to veterans not in the corps to wear ROTC patches or Army ratings.

Although the Dean of Men's Office has been lenient towards what veterans wear on the campus, severe measures may be taken in the near future if the situation is not improved.

Damoo Dhotre, Hindu animal trainer and star of Sparks Circus, turned the tables on a Battalion interviewer when the circus played in Bryan this week. Dhotre asked more questions about A&M than the interviewer did about animals. The circus came to Bryan Sunday morning, and as the porformers had the day off, they had a chance to see some of the surrounding had the day off, they had a chance to see some of the surrounding country. Rhotre found himself driving through the A&M campus and was amazed at the size of the place, the beauty of the buildings, and the great number of ROTC uniforms.

So the interviewer found himself telling about A&M, its place in the life of Texas, and the record of its graduates in the war. After an hour the reporter remembered his mission, learned that Dhotre is a Hindu, now an American citizen after three years in Uncle Sam's khaki, that he handles leopards and mrs. Dhotre are now raising in their trailer a week-old leopard cub born in Conroe while the circus was there.

Silver Taps were held at 11:00 o'clock, Monday night, October 27, for Francisco I. Montemayor, Jr. of Laredo, who was killed in an accident near Belville early Saturday morning.

All of the armchair coaches get the chance of their lives during the next three weeks of play in the conference, so if you think you are good at picking the winners and the scores of the same join in on the fun. Music, and plenty of it, moves onto the local amusement scene close on the heels of the A.&M.-Arkansas football game Saturday with two dances and a jamboree holding the spotlight Saturday night. The Aggieland Orchestra will provide the melody for free jamboree at Guion at 7:30 p.m. and also for the all-college dance that runs at Sbisa Hall from 9 p.m until 1 a.m.

In addition, a dance will be held at the Bryan Field Annex Saturday night with the music being provided by the T.S.C.W. Serenaders All-Girl Orchestra. Three hundred tickets for the dance will go on sale at the Annex Saturday at $1.20, stag or couple.

Tickets for the all-college affair at Sbisa will go on sale at 8:30 p.m. Saturday night, and college authorities have promised that two cashiers will be on hand to handle the expected crowd of tickuntil 1 a.m.

handle the expected crowd of tick-et-seekers. Ducats will go for $1.50, stag or drag.

For the Guion Hall Jamboree, Aggieland director Bill Turner has arranged a full program, featuring a new arrangement of the old favorite "Begin the Beguine". A piano duet by Jug Leatherwood and Marvin Brown, plus a musical quiz and the vocalizing of Boyd Rogers, Nell Arhopolus and Robert Williams complete the offering.
