LARRY GOODWYN

The Aggies bid tomorrow for their third conference win of the season, but, as the situation looks now, the effort will be futile unless the present backward trend of Farmer football fortunes is reversed.

The memory of that Arkansas nightmare still is bitter to all concerned. Some changes will have to take place or the tussle with S.M.U. in the Cotton Bowl will be a repeat performance.

The Mustangs are not the same crew that bowed to Rice, 21-7 three weeks ago. With their sterling freshman find, Howard Payne, a constant threat, and the Mustang line playing bang-up ball, the Ponies gave T.U. a fit for two quarters before bowing to the 'Sips superior reserve strength and Bobby Layne's arm.

Headache For All As Scott vs. Scott

An interesting sidelight on the Aggie-SMU game in the Cotton Bowl Saturday is that it will bring together brother against brother and both of those brothers have the same name—Joseph Scott.

Joseph Bailey Scott is an end for the Mustangs and a mighty good one, according to the scout reports.

Joseph Oscar Scott is a right halfback for the Aggies and is the lad who took the touchdown passes from Buryl Baty that beat Baylor 17-0.

To further complicate matters Joseph Scott, the Aggie, goes by the name of Mann Scott, which he says is his grandmother's name used to distinguish himself from his brother. Then to complicate matters, he picked up the name of "Goober" while at A&M in 1944, so he has the names of "Mann" and "Goober," neither of which is his given name.

At any rate, he certainly did sports writers and sports broadcasters a big favor by taking his grandmother's name. Imagine the announcer saying that Joe Scott intercepted a pass which was intended for Joe Scott or that Joe Scott tackled Joe Scott. Fans hearing the program or reading about the game in the paper would find themselves in the same predicament.

So here goes a vote of thanks from the sports writers, broadcasters and fans to Joseph Oscar Scott for making himself Mann Scott.

season a flashy 17-0 triumph over Missouri (the team that tied Ohio State) a 15-7 kayo of the Oklahoma Aggies, and a 7-7 tie with Temple. And with Matty Bell dying for revenge for the Aggies' 3-0 robbery last year on Kyle Field, the Mustangs are going to be hard to corral come Saturday.

The hot-and-cold functioning of A & M's offensive will, in the final analysis, probably decide the issue. If Baty is able to complete his bullet tosses to Scott and Howell like he did against Baylor; if Welch can get in high gear and if the line plays like it did against O. U. and T. C. U., the Aggies can, conceivably walk off the field two or three touchdown victors.

They should have the will to win after that calamity last week. They know only too well how a team can bounce back after a surprising loss. If they don't, they got a good lesson last week from a fighting mad Arkansas team that had bowed to a woefully weak Mississippi team, 9-7 the week before. If the Aggies bounce like the Porkers did, it'll be a sad day for the Red and Blue.

Well, all the aforementioned is just so much blarney. Words won't mean a thing when the whistle blows Saturday. It'll be an Aggie team with little title hopes out to stop a Mustang with no title hopes. With both teams having everything to win and nothing to lose, the game should be a lulu.

As for predictions—well, we're of the opinion that some changes WILL be made. We can't quite see the Aggies bogging down on the goal line five times in one game two weeks in a row. So here goes a rather weak vote for the Aggies to "upset" S.M.U.—say about 13-10.

Of course, if Flanagan, Welch and Zapalac are unable to play as per recent reports, the Aggies are due for their second conference loss by a good two touchdowns.

As for the other games this week involving conference teams, we'll have to stick with T.U. to take Baylor to the cleaners by any score they want. For the sake of the record, we'll say 34-0. Rice's high-flying Owls should deflate Arkansas by three touchdowns—call it 26-7. T.C.U. is idle.

East Texas Club

The East Texas A. & M. Club met Monday, October 28, in the YMCA. A Thanksgiving party was planned to be held Friday, November 29, at the "Plantation" in Kilgore. It was decided that regular meetings of the East Texas Club would be held every other Thursday.

Crippled Aggie Eleven Tangles With SMU

Farmer's Title Hopes Riding on Outcome

A crippled Aggie eleven will take the field against one of the most highly improved teams in the Conference. Saturday when they meet the SMU Mustangs in the Cotton Bowl. The Aggies will enter this game as the underdogs due to the large number of key players who are injured. Like every game that the Farmers have played this season, they will enter the game with at least three of their stars sitting on the bench.

Willie Zapalac, who has been out of action on every occasion that the Aggies have lost this year, will again be on the bench when the starting whistle blows. The week the Farmers played Baylor was the only week that Zapalac was in even fair condition, and that week he had a sprained wrist. He played last week, but his hand was in a cast, and he was only able to play defensive ball. He will probably play this week, but it will be the same story—he won't be able to carry the ball because of his broken hand.

Buryl Baty, the passing sensation of the Baylor game, will also set this one out, as his neck has not responded to treatment. He was injured in the final stanza of the Bear tussle, and since then has not reached top form.

Marion Flanagan, Aggie field general, will also be on the bench at game time this week because of a bad leg. Flanagan was also injured in the Baylor game, and he will not be able to start the game with the Ponies.

Under normal conditions the Aggies would be the favorites in this game, but due to the condition of their key men, the Ponies will enter this game as the decided favorites. The only basis for a comparison is the games both teams played with Texas Tech, and neither can be judged on this basis, as they were played early in the season, and both have improved miraculously since that time. Both teams were defeated by the Red Raiders by one touchdown, but either team would enter a game with the Raiders at this time as the favorites. On this basis the teams should be rated as even money at the kickoff. With the Ponies in top form, and the Farmers in the worst shape they have been for any game, the bookmakers will be giving the Farmers the points.

Aggies Still 48th Nationally; Rice Ranked 5th, TU 8th

The hot-and-cold Aggie football team, which was definitely cold last week, remained 48th nationally in this week's ranking of Paul B. Williamson. It was the third week in a row that the Aggies were ranked 48th.

Army and Notre Dame remained one-two in that order to leave the stage set for their climatic battle this weekend in Yankee Stadium. Georgia, U.C.L.A., and Rice round out the first five with once-beaten Texas eighth. L.S.U. was 16th, Texas Tech 19th, S.M.U. 33rd, Arkansas 36th, T.C.U. 52nd and Baylor 54th.

Conference statistics released early this week by James H. Stewart, Executive Secretary of the Southwest Conference, (covering games through Oct. 19th) showed Texas leading in total offense with 2057 yards, in net yards passing with 962, in net yards rushing with 1095, and in first downs with 61. Baylor has thrown up the best pass defense holding four opponents to 141 yards through the air in four games, 95 of which, were chalked up by A. & M.

A&M-SMU Game Will Be Broadcast

From the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, a play-by-play account of the SMU-A. & M. game will be broadcast by Ves Box at 1:50 p. m. Color description will be handled by Fred Kincaid, and the broadcast will be carried over stations WTAW, College Station; KRDL, Dallas; KTSA, San Antonio; KWFT, Wichita Falls; KGNC, Amarillo; KPDM, Beaumont; KEYS, Corpus Christi; KTHT, Houston.

T. U. Meets Baylor, Porkers Try Rice In Conference Tilts

In addition to the Aggies' clash with S.M.U. tomorrow in the Cotton Bowl, two other games dot the Southwest Conference gridiron schedule. The deflated Longhorns of T.U. play host to the Baylor Bears in Austin, while the Arkansas Razorbacks try to make it two conference wins in a row when they meet the loop-leading Rice Owls in Houston.

Some 25,000 fans are expected to turn out in Austin to watch Dana Bible's crew meet the down-trodden Bears. The Bruins will be seeking their first conference win but instead will probably go down to their fourth conference defeat. With the Texas cripples slowly rounding into shape, its not likely the Longhorns will fall victim to another upset.

The Arkansas-Rice battle promises to be a thriller, with the Razorbacks shooting the works in an attempt to keep alive their dim title hopes. The Owls, riding higher than ever following last week's 41-6 thrashing of Texas Tech, will be two touchdown favorites.

THE BLACK MARKET IN COLLEGE PLAYERS

There are shocking new facts in today's Saturday Evening Post about the subsidization of college football players. Gridiron authority Francis Wallace reveals the details of several recent cases—including the much publicized Shorty McWilliams affair—in which players were offered (or asked for) prices that run into five figures. Names are named and prices quoted in this outspoken article. In addition, Mr. Wallace proposes a practical, realistic method of checking the "wild excesses" which, he says, are threatening to ruin college football.
