

Brazos A & M Club Hears Col. Meloy Describe System

The doors of the Military Department are always open and any cadet can come in and talk to the military personnel at any time. Col. Guy S. Meloy, commandant and professor of Military Science, told the Brazos County A. & M. Club Monday evening at the Bryan Country Club.

Every branch of the armed services that was on the campus prior to 1942 has now been reactivated, and in addition an air unit has been established, Col. Meloy said. A better deal is being offered those who sign up for R.O.T.C. in that not only the basic ration is allowed, but these men also are furnished several items of their clothing, including shoes. Modern combat equipment is coming in all the time, all new and much of it in the original crates in which it had been placed for overseas shipment, the speaker declared.

Among the military department officers are seven Texas A. & M. graduates. Enlisted personnel totals 32, of whom 19 are master sergeants, all with overseas experience. Eleven of them were officers up to the rank of major. One of the handicaps his department is working under is that there are no advance senior units now on the campus. All present cadet officers would be non-commissioned officers in normal times.

Col. Meloy gave a detailed account of how discipline is handled by the Dean of Men with the assistance of the Military Department, and discussed the relations of his department with both single and married veterans now in school. He thought that if improvement continued on the plane of the immediate past that Texas A. & M. College would soon have its Blue Star rating again.

The club voted to have its annual banquet and dance, held in cooperation with the Athletic Council, on the night of Saturday, Jan. 11, 1947. Due to the advance in prices of all food items, tickets will sell at $2.00, which will include both the banquet from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m., and the dance from 9:30 p. m. until midnight. Attendance will be held to 900.

The club voted to change its by-laws to make its fiscal year from January through December. It was decided not to have a meeting of the club in December. Arrangements have been tentatively made for showing motion pictures of the Texas-Rice football game, which Rice won 18-13, at the February meeting.

Fish & Game Plans Summer Field Trip

Preliminary plans for the summer field trip were discussed at the semi-monthly meeting of the Fish and Game Club last Tuesday night. Dr. W. B. Davis, head of the Fish and Game department, announced that four credit hours would be offered for a six-weeks term in the field. Tentative arrangements are being made to combine the fish and game journey with field trips in botany and range management.

It was estimated that the total expense of the course will be approximately one hundred and fifty dollars. Veterans are eligible under the provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Dr. Davis revealed that several out of state game departments had been contacted as possible areas for the trip and that the most likely are Idaho, Wyoming, and Montana. The plan is to take over some field project being carried on by one of these states in order to give practical field experience to graduate and undergraduate students of fish and game.

Rollins Addresses A&M Annex Veterans

At the last general meeting of the A. & M. Annex Veterans Club, Dean J. W. Rollins of the Office of Student Affairs, discussed how past veteran's experiences may have helped him in deciding to come to A. & M. He elaborated on the importance of building and maintaining a good record while at A. & M. and the importance of truthfulness regarding all matters.

"As long as time exists, the record of every man who ever attended A. and M. will remain on file, and fifteen or twenty years from now, some company may want to know the record of some particular individual made while attending A. & M., Dean Rollins stated.
