

ON KYLE FIELD

by PAUL MARTIN

Marty Karow's cage squad showed continued improvement Saturday night against the Houston YMCA Triangles. Even though they came out second best on the score pad, the work of the team as a whole and of the individual members was very commendable. Too many buckets were missed as well as free throws, but they were getting the rebounds which is always a good sign. The floor work also was excellent, and all in all the maroon and white put on a surprising good show against such masters of the art as Bill Henry, Jitterbug Henderson, and Hal Lambert. The Aggies were considerably hampered by lack of height which their opponents had plenty of, and the unerring aim of Henry succeeded in keeping them in the trailing position. Mike Garcia played his usual fine floor game, his tricky dribbling confusing both his opponents and the spectators, and in addition dropped two long set shots through the hoop that were among the best and most spectacular shots of the game. Homer Adams was also in there on the defense and tallied two buckets to account for four points. High-scoring forward Bill Batey did not start and played comparatively little of the game. A cut lip resulting from a collision in the Texas match kept him from working out last week. He did, however, tally nine points and intercept a pass that set up another bucket.

Lynn Smith was the man of the night, however, for he not only chalked up 24 points but also effectively covered Bill Henry on more than one threat. For a while it was all Smith when it came to scoring—on both sides. On another occasion it looked like a personal duel between Smith on one side and Henry and Henderson on the other. The three would take turn about making a bucket.

Two Aggie cagers, Ragan Collinsworth, left, and Ray Klutz, right, announced Saturday that they are leaving the team. Collinsworth has seniority as assistant manager of a shoe store in Houston and unless he returned immediately, he was advised that he would lose the seniority accumulated toward promotion to stores manager. Klutz, also of Houston, reinjured his knee and has decided to drop out rather than risk further injury.

Coach Karow stated that he would move two men up from the Bee squad to replace these losses but he has not yet said who they would be.

INTRAMURALS

By G.M. Ackerman

DORM 1 WINS COLLEGE FOOTBALL CROWN

A veteran team from Dorm 1 edged out a close victory over the corps championship team G Infantry. Neither team was able to cross into pay dirt for a touchdown, but Dorm 1 took a slight lead of 2-40 yard penetrations to come out winner.

Most of the game was played in mid-field, with Dorm 1 holding G Infantry and not letting them cross its 40-yard line. G Infantry fought back and held Dorm 1 to a stand still except for two breaks that gave the veteran team its victory.

Visiting YMCA Triangles Drub Aggie Cagers 67-57

A rapidly-improving Aggie quintet met defeat at the hands of the visiting Houston YMCA aggregation in DeWare Field House Saturday night in a fast-moving non-conference game that ended with the YMCA Triangles leading 67-57.

The Triangles, whose squad roster included the names of such hardwood immortals as Jitterbug Henderson, Bill Henry, and Hal Lambert, started the action in the first 30 seconds by a bucket and retained the lead until mid-way

Aggie Cagers Have Two Tough Tilts Slated This Week

Progressing well into the middle of the season and with the end in view, Marty Karow's Aggie cage squad will take on two tough opponents this week: the Rice Owls on Wednesday and the Texas Longhorns on Saturday nights, both teams for the second time.

In the previous tilts the cadets came out even, losing to Texas and staging a 52-44 win over Rice. The Rice match will take place in Houston, while the Longhorns are visiting College Station to participate in a double header. Opening the double header at 6 p. m. Saturday will be the Aggie Bees and Texas Shorthorns while the main event will follow at 8 p. m. between the two varsity squads.

Rice, now lagging in sixth place in conference standings is making a bid for the fifth place berth now occupied by A&M. To support this bid are high scoring guard Harmon Walters, loop artist Warren Switzer, and towering center Bill Tom. With only one win to four losses to date, the Owls are expected by some sports writers to pull some upsets before the season's end.

Coach Johnnie Frankie's Aggie B team will also journey to Houston on Wednesday to take on the Blue Bolts, whom they defeated once at College Station, to complete the double bill.

Texas University will lie idle all week following the tilt with Rice last Saturday night and their squad should be in good condition. Such top flight cage names as John Hargis, Roy Cox, Slater Martin, John Langdon, and Al Madsen and at latest reports all of them are in condition to play.

Sixteen hundred Nagoya, Japan students have started a new kind of strike which they call "teaching control." Demanding "democratization" of the school system, the students barred their teachers from the classrooms but went on with their studies, conducted by uppergrade students.

in the first half when the Aggies took the lead for a few seconds. It was nip and tuck for the next few minutes with the lead changing hands a dozen times.

All-time conference scoring record holder Bill Henry paced the tilt with nine buckets and nine free throws for a total of 27 points, while Aggie forward Lynn Smith racked up 24 tallies to hold second place.

At half-time the Triangles led 39-29. Following the intermission the Houstonians came out strong and took a 13 point lead in the first five minutes. The Aggies threatened in the middle of the second half when Lynn Smith made five goals in as many minutes. Bill Batey, who played only part of the game because of an injury sustained in the Texas game, chalked up nine points, and Mike Garcia completed several long set shots and a crisp for eight tallies.

Campus to GENERAL ELECTRIC

ELECTRONICS ENGINEER

The Story of DICK LONGFELLOW
MINNESOTA '37

NO small factor in Dick Longfellow's decision to come with General Electric was the knowledge that at G.E. he could continue his studies in electronics engineering.

Dick had grown up with electronics. He had operated his own amateur radio station when he was 14, and at Minnesota he had specialized in communications.

With this background of intensive study, he was well-prepared to take advantage of the courses available to him at General Electric. His outstanding work during two years of high-frequency studies earned him electronics assignments first, in the Research Laboratory, and later, in 1940, with the Transmitter Division.

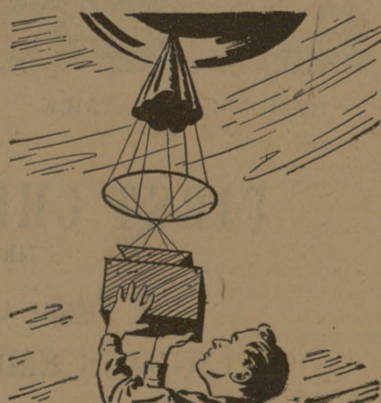

Since then Dick Longfellow has been shaping for himself the kind of a career he began planning long ago. He has worked in television, has designed ultra high frequency radio tubes, has contributed to the development of radar. Today, after ten years with G.E., he is Chief Engineer of the company's Electronics Specialty Division.

Next to schools and the U.S. Government, General Electric employs more college engineering graduates than any other organization.

An engineer for his University broadcasting station, Dick handled controls during football broadcasts.

Among his present assignments is included work on radio sonde equipment, used to determine weather data.
