

Lilienthal's Record Speaks For Itself, Says AVC Chairman

Charles G. Bolte, national chairman of the American Veterans Committee, is urging that the Senate consider the confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission "in the same spirit of bi-partisan statesmanship which has won world-wide respect for U. S. unity of foreign policy."

"It would be a fatal blow to the international prestige of this country and to the United Nations reception of the U. S. stand on international control of atomic energy if Mr. Lilienthal's appointment is made a petty political issue," Bolte declared.

Bolte pointed out that the U. S. position on an international atomic energy authority is in accordance with the principles of the Acheson-Lilienthal report. "Let us not undermine the basis for the present crucial international negotiations on atomic control by making our own consideration of this all-important question a political football," Bolte said.

"Mr. Lilienthal has shown outstanding qualifications for the post in his record as a public servant and in his brilliant contribution to U. S. thinking on the atomic energy problem," Bolte said. "Let us examine Mr. Lilienthal's record in a spirit which rises above the political role of any party."

Bolte said that the last national convention of the AVC had gone on record in favor of "vesting of national controls of atomic energy in a Federal civilian commission having as its object the promotion of scientific and medical research in the public interest." "We are sure that Mr. Lilienthal's record demonstrates his belief in the idea that atomic energy should be used for the benefit of all the people," Bolte said.

"AVC was the first national organization to support the Baruch

Army Device Saves Exhaled Heat Loss

Army experimenters are at work on a new cold-weather device that extracts the heat from exhaled breath and pipes it back into the lungs.

The Army said the device, developed at the Lawrence, Mass., military laboratories, is being tested by soldiers in Alaska and by members of the Navy expedition in the Antarctic.

Made of soft rubber, the respirator fits snugly over the nose and mouth and can be worn in conjunction with the Army-developed Arctic face mask. It contains a roll of steel wool which absorbs and then releases for reinhalation the heat exhaled by the wearer.

Army experts said "breath heat" is much more important in sub-zero weather than generally realized. They pointed out that at 40 degrees below zero a man at rest may lose as many as 480 calories in twenty-four hours merely by breathing.
